MORE SNOOPING BY U. S.—STORY OF THE VICTIM

Senators Go Prying Into His Affairs.

Snooper Is Fired

Disclosure is made that agent for United States senate lobby investigating committee who snooped in Chicago office of Dr. Hugh S. Magill, head of the American Federation of Investors, was secretly discharged three weeks ago. Details on page 10.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Snooping as it is practiced by the committee of the United States senate which is investigating lobbying was revealed in a new light last night. The disclosure was made that the committee and its agents have gone beyond spying on the American Federation of Investors and are now engaged in prying into the private affairs of the federation's members—men and women who had the temerity to pay $2 for such membership, and to write their views to their own congressmen.

The American Federation of Investors is headed by Dr. Hugh S. Magill, a former leader in church and educational work. It has some 60,000 members. During the last session of congress the federation was active in opposing the Roosevelt administration's Wheeler-Rayburn public utility bill, which embodied the so-called "death clause" for utility holding companies. Nevertheless, congress passed the bill.

Black's Investigating Committee.

Now a senate committee headed by Senator Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.] is investigating the opposition to the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, although the senate resolution that created the committee directed that lobbying both for and against the measure should be investigated.

Last Sept. 26 Dr. Magill disclosed that agents of the committee had practically taken possession of the Chicago offices of the American Federation of Investors and had seized many documents. When they demanded his confidential correspondence with members of the federation, however, Dr. Magill refused, and the agents fled from his office.

Last Friday Dr. Magill, in letters to all senators and congressmen, protested against the inquisitorial methods of the Black committee, declaring that it had violated the constitutional rights of citizens.

Disclosures of a Business Man.

This was the situation yesterday when M. R. Jeffris of Rhinelander, Wis., arrived in Chicago to visit his brother, Rufus Jeffris, at 4832 Dorchester avenue.

M. R. Jeffris is a business man of Rhinelander. He is the head of a small real estate concern, has some modest lumber holdings and is the director of a bank. He is 48 years old.

In addition to his other property Mr. Jeffris owns some public utility bonds. A few months ago he sent in a subscription to Dr. Magill's American Federation of Utility Investors. [Since then it has been renamed the American Federation of Investors.]

Along with his $2 for the membership Mr. Jeffris sent a letter commending the federation for its work in opposing the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. He also wrote a letter to his congressman voicing his opposition to the bill.

What Came Out of It.

Last night Mr. Jeffris told what came out of it. On Oct. 17—out of a clear sky—he said, he received from the Black committee two important looking official questionnaires demanding a minute accounting of all his activities in opposing the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. The documents inferred that failure to supply the information might result in a subpena calling upon Mr. Jeffris to testify before the committee in Washington.

"I have no idea why the inquisition should reach a thousand miles out of Washington and descend upon me in a little town in northern Wisconsin," Mr. Jeffris said. "At first I was amused by the importance accorded me. Then I began to wonder at the significance of the cheka-like methods of the committee in attempting to intimidate even the least important citizen who might differ with the administration.

"I received two questionnaires—

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

DAILY in excess of 800,000

HIRING OF 5,000 WPA MEN WILL BEGIN AT ONCE

Mayor Kelly Wins Civic Victory.

Final approval of the permanent Chicago exposition on Northerly Island in Burnham park was received yesterday from Washington, releasing the Works Progress administration's direct grant of $6,455,777 for establishing the fair. Within a few days several hundred of the 5,000 men who are to get ten months' work on the project will start grading and leveling the former site of A Century of Progress Exposition.

The O. K. of United States Controler General McCarl yesterday signalized a victory for Mayor Kelly and the Chicagoans whom he has led in a public spirited movement to replace the World's Fair with a permanent and beautiful center of cultural, educational, and recreational activity.

Mayor Envisions Great Benefits.

"This development is a great thing for Chicago," the mayor commented last night. "The exposition will be a magnet that will attract larger numbers of visitors to cur city. I am sure that all the people will realize the benefits it will give to Chicago business.

"The fair is to be carried on in a dignified manner that will please the city. The city government is not going to let anything wrong operate there."

Mayor Kelly's part in winning the victory for the project was praised by Walter L. Gregory, manager of the Palmer House, president of the State Street council and president of the Chicago exposition authority, which is to operate the fair. It was Mayor Kelly who shepherded through the general assembly the legislation creating the exposition authority and making the project possible.

Insist on Worthwhile Enterprise.

"The mayor," remarked Mr. Gregory, "weighed all the factors with one wish in mind—to do the greatest good to the greatest number. The grant will turn 180 acres of land into something of which the city will be proud."

Commercialization, according to Mr. Gregory and other exposition advocates, will be sternly ruled out. He declined to detail ultimate plans on the ground that they are in a state of change, but he asserted that "the public will be given ample opportunity to be heard on the subject."

The funds released yesterday are to pay for the groundwork of the permanent fair. Toward this phase of the undertaking the exposition authority is to contribute $293,500 for supervisory work and the preparation of plans.

Seek Building Cash After Year.

Next year the authority is expected to ask additional federal grants to erect appropriate buildings. In its request for yesterday's WPA money, the fair board said:

"It is proposed to create a richly wooded area. In this tract of trees, shrubs, flowering plants, and lawns it is proposed to locate, in an organized landscaped plan, an architectural scheme of structures and open areas which will contain facilities for open air symphony concerts and opera, social games, a few selected mechanical amusements, a superior bathing beach, and exceptional facilities for dancing, dining, and other recreational diversions.

"Connected by a causeway to the south, and related architecturally across the lagoon from the recreational park area, it is proposed to locate an exposition area. The nature of the whole enterprise must have the character of a refined and beautiful park, where dignified recreation will be stimulated in a wholesome atmosphere."

Items in Federal Grant.

The idea was considered so well worth while by WPA officials that they approved it despite the fact that the labor cost, figured on a basis of "one man for one year" basis, will be $1,549, compared to the average of $1,130 on other projects.

Making up the amount of the grant are the following items:

1. Constructing bulkheads and jetties on both sides of Northerly Island to protect and alter the shore line—$1,393,892.

2. Building permanent bridge at

Roosevelt's Ship Rushing Before Storm

ABOARD THE U. S. S. HOUSTON, Oct. 21.—The cruiser bearing President Roosevelt and his vacation party through southern waters today was speeding toward Charleston, S. C., to escape a tropical hurricane.

The hurricane, which was headed toward Cuba and Haiti, caused Mr. Roosevelt to cancel the day's plan for fishing.

Rough seas encountered in the storm area clipped the speed of the two cruisers, the Houston and the Portland, to 17 knots, but officers said they believed this rate would be sufficient to keep the vessels ahead of the storm, which was estimated to be more than 300 miles to the south.

The ships will endeavor to maintain this pace until the President is out of the area threatened by the hurricane, and afterward the speed will be reduced to bring the cruisers into Charleston by Wednesday morning.

HURRICANE NEAR CUBA

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 21.—(AP)—With Cuba's eastern end apparently in its path, a tropical hurricane roared north-northeastward tonight after taking at least one life and leaving an uncounted property toll in Jamaica.

At 9:30 p. m. advisory issued here said the center was about 80 miles south of Guantanamo and Santiago, Cuba, moving at 12 miles an hour.

The hurricane, its direction unchanged in today's movement, seemed bound for the eastern Bahamas.

East of Florida.

In extreme eastern Cuba and western Haiti, residents were warned to take every precaution against the force of the approaching hurricane, which now is far east of Florida.

Banana planters in Jamaica estimated their loss at $2,500,000. It was estimated this hurricane and one less than a month ago had taken a total of about 70 per cent of the island's entire crop.

An 11 year old boy drowned in flood waters as the hurricane brought heavy rainfall in Jamaica.

Santiago Battens Down.

Santiago, Cuba, was without trams or buses, and all cafés and theaters were closed. Patrols of firemen, police, and soldiers were helping secure houses against the force of the storm, which had crashed the glass front of one downtown store.

The railroads were "tying down" all rolling stock except that in use to remove refugees.

BANDIT HAS GUN, BUT HE JUST CAN'T SEEM TO CONVINCE MR. NUNES

San José, Cal., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Manuel Nunes of Centerville was getting into his automobile today. A bandit shoved a gun against his ribs.

"Drive on down the street," he commanded.

"I won't," Nunes retorted.

"Well, give me your money then."

"No."

"Give me $5."

"I wont."

"A dollar then."

"No."

"Well, darn it," said the bandit, "O. K. I can't shoot you."

Away he ran.

Ex-Policeman Kidnaps Girl; Falls Into Trap

Two men, one a discharged policeman, were arrested early today after they had kidnaped a young woman from her room in the Chatelaine hotel, 4911 Winthrop avenue, beaten her with a rubber hose, robbed her of $1, and compelled her to appeal to relatives for a larger sum to be paid as ransom.

The one time policeman, Garrett Garvan, 29 years old, 5741 North Artesian avenue, was dismissed from the force two years ago on charges of intoxication and attempted rape. His companion is Joseph Riske, 24 years old, 5736 North Campbell avenue.

They began their operations by going to the Rogers Park police station, where Garvan stole a star from the coat of Policeman Arthur Ackerman. They then proceeded, in Riske's car, to the Chatelaine hotel and, over the protests of the manager, to the room of Miss Marie Rappaport, a café entertainer.

Miss Rappaport was aroused from her sleep, shown the star, and forced to dress. She was told she was wanted for questioning about a murder. When she denied knowledge of any murder she was slugged and dragged out to the street.

Placing her in the car the pair robbed her of $1 and demanded $25 more to release her. She suggested that they go to the home of her brother-in-law, Mark Kelinson, 1231 Sherwin avenue, for funds.

Kelinson, who had only $17 in cash, tried to persuade the men to accept this. While he was arguing his wife called the Rogers Park station. A squad arrived in a few minutes and arrested the kidnapers. They were charged with larceny, assault and battery, and disorderly conduct.

13 Amateurs Win in Pit, but Pot Slips Away

Thirteen residents of the Kolping house at 811 Oakdale avenue were congratulating themselves—until late yesterday—on their foresight in investing $5,400 in the wheat market just before a series of rises.

According to the price charts they should have tripled their original stakes. But the sad fact seems to be that the friend who advised the purchases and was made custodian of the funds never bought any wheat. Nor can he be found. Neither can the original $5,400.

Loser Tells His Story.

The story of the venture of the Kolping residents into the wheat pit was told at the Sheffield avenue police station by Robert Arbuthnot, who contributed $900 to the speculation.

Several months ago, said Arbuthnot, there came to the home one George Benjamin, about 42 years old, who represented himself as a customers' man for a brokerage house in the loop. George, like most of the other residents, was of German descent.

"He insisted," said Arbuthnot, "that the price of wheat had to go up, what with the war in Africa and the general situation in the wheat growing countries. We got in at the right time all right. A few days ago I figured it up that my $900 was now $2,700 and that I could get married.

Wedding Plan Shattered.

"So I went to Nashville, Tenn., and met my sweetheart. We arranged to get married right away and I came back. I asked George Benjamin for my money, and he said he would have to get it out of the bank. That was the last I saw of him and when I went to the brokerage house he claimed to work for they remembered him, but not as an employé."

The other investors, and the amounts they put into Benjamin's hands, are: John Dornmeister, $1,600; Rudy Waly, $800; Ivo List, $160; Otto Fuschholz, $300; August Kohrst, $350; Joseph Frank, $100; Otto Kaiser, $100; Max Haussler, $300; Sebastian Selg, $500; Joseph Jagenteust, $100; Tony Heitzer, $100, and Carl Heitzer, $100.

Starlings Get Paint Job; Cast Out by Bird Kin

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Ornithologists around here got excited until they learned the black and yellow birds were not a new species but starlings with a paint job. A farmer trapped them and painted the lower half of their bodies a brilliant yellow to scare away their sisters, cousins, and aunts. It works. Other starlings can't stand the sight of them.

'Tobacco Road' Owners Fight Ban by Mayor

The owners of the play, "Tobacco Road," which was closed as an "obscenity" yesterday by Mayor Kelly after a seven weeks' run at the Selwyn theater, prepared last night to carry the fight for reopening the play in or near Chicago to the "highest court in Illinois."

Sam H. Grisman, co-owner with Jack Kirkland of the play, and his legal adviser, Harry H. Oshrin, left New York during the evening for Chicago. A member of Grisman's staf declared it was possible the play would be given in a Chicago suburb if it could not be reopened in the city. The mayor's closing order, however, will be fought in the courts, Grisman declared.

"Obscenity," Says Mayor Kelly.

After seeing the play Sunday night, Mayor Kelly termed it "a mass of outrageous obscenity." When officials of the Selwyn theater refused his request to close the show voluntarily, the mayor revoked the theater's license.

Later John Garrity, manager of the theater, promised that no effort would be made to reopen the play in the Selwyn and the mayor indicated he would rescind his license revocation order.

Attorney Howard Ellis of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, counsel for the theater, said that no legal action was planned by the Selwyn to force the city to allow the performances to be resumed. The theater was dark last night.

Play from the Backwoods.

The play, which has had a long run in New York and on the road, is a dramatization by Jack Kirkland of a story by Erskine Caldwell. It deals with a "poor white" family in the backwoods of Georgia and portrays the family's degenerate mode of living and fanatical devotion to its ragged tobacco acres.

Action was taken by the mayor on his arrival at the city hall yesterday morning when he instructed Police Commissioner Allman to see that the play was not shown again in Chicago.

Caldwell, who has been in Chicago for several days, hurried to the office of Barnet Hodes, city corporation counsel. He was accompanied by Garrity and Sam Gerson, western representative of the Shuberts, who booked the play in Chicago.

Fear Suits for Damages.

Hodes told them they had the alternative of withdrawing the play voluntarily or having the theater's license revoked. Gerson said that if the play were withdrawn the producers might face suits for damages by Caldwell and Jack Kirkland. The mayor then ordered the theater license revoked.

"Chicago has always been a liberal city with regard to the stage and other forms of entertainment," Mayor Kelly said, "and it still is, but liberalism does not condone filth.

"There is no so-called artistic merit to this production 'Tobacco Road.' This play is so objectionable that the possible merit of the acting serves, in my opinion, not to excuse the vicious tone of the whole production, but to bring out that viciousness all

ITALIANS DRIVE BACK WARRIORS ON SOUTH FRONT

Ethiopian Bullets Hit Invading Planes.

ASMARA, Eritrea, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Italian officials announced today that the Fascist southern army in Ethiopia was pushing northward in an attempt to capture Gorahai, in Ogaden province.

At the same time officers of the northern army said they had received unofficial reports that Emperor Haile Selassie is ready to sue for peace.

Since these reports were not confirmed, the military program will continue unchanged, it was announced.

Present plans are for the southern army to capture Gorahai. Italian sources said the Fascists had seized the fortress of Dagnerei in that area Friday, strengthening their position.

Army Advances 60 Miles.

Under Gen. Rudolfo Graziani, it was said, the southern army has advanced 60 miles beyond its original line and is farther into Ethiopia than the northern army. The region has been a center of Ethiopian resistance and possesses rich oases.

Military authorities said Graziani was expected shortly to capture Gorahai, which is on the way to the Harrar region.

During the Italian drive northward, it was said, the Italians occupied the towns of Burdodi and Sciaveli, along the Webbe Shibeli river.

Ethiopian Force Wiped Out.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

MOGADISCIO, Italian Somaliland, Sunday, Oct. 20.—[Delayed.]—Italy's southern army, storming a fortified enemy stronghold, was reported officially today to have wiped out strong Ethiopian forces in a fierce battle last Friday at Dagnerei, in the Sciaveli region near the Webbe Shibeli river.

Five Italian airplanes participating in the battle were struck by anti-aircraft fire. The pilots, however, were not wounded.

Battle Is Described.

ROME, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A government official today announced the victory of Italian troops at Dagnerei on the southern Ethiopian front meant "all the Sciaveli region is under Italian control." He gave a graphic description of the battle at Dagnerei.

The communique attributed to Gen. Rudolfo Graziani the following account of the fighting:

"During the day of Oct. 18 ten Italian Somaliland military airplanes bombed for an hour the Ethiopian fortress of Dagnerei in the Somaliland region of Sciaveli on the Webbe Shibeli river.

"The fortress was being prepared for an attack on our lines.

Five Planes Damaged.

"After the bombardment, during which five of our planes were slightly damaged by rifle bullets, the 'Dubats' of the Mustahil group, commanded by Maj. Fava of Granatieri, launched an attack and, despite the natives' resistance, overwhelmed the enemy and took possession of the fortification.

"Outside of this position, the Ethiopians were overwhelmed by our forces and were dispersed, leaving on the ground 50 dead, very many wounded and several scores of prisoners.

"Our losses: 14 dead, 40 wounded.

Weapons Left Behind.

"In the fortified positions were abandoned by the enemy: Two artillery pieces, two machine guns, two motor vehicles, hundreds of rifles and many cases of munitions.

"Participating in the action with our 'Dubats' were the armed forces of Sultan Olol-Dinle, chief of the Sciateli region, who formerly was a dependent of the Ethiopian government and now has come over to our side. He asked to participate in the fighting to give proof of his loyalty."

MOVE TO MEET ENEMY

BY HAROLD DENNY.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 21.—Military observers today declared the present "waiting period" in the war probably is more favorable to Ethiopia than to Italy from the military standpoint.

While the Italians are consolidating their positions both in the north and south, erecting barbed wire entanglements against raids of barefooted, spear-throwing warriors, the Ethiopians are using the lull in the fighting to make up for their delayed mobilization and are rapidly massing men in both regions.

At the same time munitions are arriving in greater volume, and they will pour in even faster from the Sudan and British Somaliland when the effect of the lifting of the arms embargo is felt. Warriors are pouring out of Addis Ababa en route to the front with modern rifles and cases of cartridges.

When the Italians at last renew their advance it will be with lengthening lines in both directions, threatened on the flanks by hordes of furious fighters who are better armed than the Italians probably had expected. Ethiopian officials say privately that, if the Italians attempt a serious offensive, they will be massacred.

Barbed wire is the Italians' most valuable defense against the Ethiopian guerrilla fighting, but they cannot wire the whole long line of communications.

Ras Seyoum, commander of the Ethiopian forces in the north, telephoned to Emperor Haile Selassie from near Makale today that the Italians were showing no sign of a forward movement and were strongly fortifying the town of Adagamus in the Agame district of Tigre province. Adagamus is ten miles southwest of Adigrat on the Makale road.

Chief's Strategy Recalled.

Ras Seyoum also reported he had given the command of the forces in the Agame district to Dedjazmatch Kassa Sabhen, son of the famous Ras Sebhen, governor of Agame during the 1896 campaign, who deserted from King Menelik's army, drew stocks of ammunition from the Italians and then immediately returned to Menelik. This was a particularly happy example of Ethiopian strategy.

All preparations on this side point to an Ethiopian counter attack in Agame soon. The communique says Addis Ababa is "awaiting important developments." Undoubtedly the Ethiopian command expects an Italian attack on Makale, though the difficulties of the terrain are great.

The communique points out with satisfaction that Italy is having increasing difficulty in feeding the native population in Eritrea because Tigre province is the main source of food supplies, even for urban centers like Asmara, the capital of Eritrea.

Sees Change in Social Order.

ENTISCIO, Ethiopia, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The present slave class of Ethiopia will stimulate the upper class Ethiopians to achievement within a few years, Count Ferrado Della Porta, political commissioner of Entiscio, said today.

"The slaves, who are skilled, are workmen," he said. "They are artisans, who will carry on the work of their masters, and they are also agricultural workers.

"The free Ethiopian thinks it is beneath his dignity to work excepting to plant seed or to carry water. Consequently he is incapable of engaging in remunerative work of any kind.

"The slaves, who are already skilled in mechanical work and commerce, will set themselves up in business. Their masters, who have hitherto obtained their services gratuitously, will have to pay them and, what is more, will have to trade with them.

"The whole social order will change. Domestic slaves, [those engaged in household tasks] probably will, however, continue in their present dependent conditions."

100 Slaves Given Freedom.

Porta, scion of an aristocratic Italian family, received about 100 former slaves in his tent, all of them expressing a desire for freedom. Porta gave each of them a certificate which declared him free in the name of King Victor Emmanuel.

Some of them admitted they had no particular objection to remaining with their masters. They were accustomed to it, they said, and were content with food, lodging and one complete set of garments each year.

Slaves who work with their hands in manufacture, the liberated men said, did not share this attitude but welcomed freedom.

"About 50 per cent of them," said Porta, "will continue to work for their present masters of their own volition. After all, we cannot forcibly separate them from their masters. But we can prevent their masters from selling them."

The Italian commissioner estimated that between 15 and 20 per cent of the 100,000 population of occupied territory in Tigre province are slaves.

'ADOWA NATIVES TO SEE ITALIAN 'ARMY IN MOVIE

WITH THE ITALIAN FORCES IN OCCUPIED TERRITORY, ADOWA, Ethiopia, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Hundreds of thousands of Italian soldiers armed with modern weapons will march tomorrow night before the bewildered eyes of the population of Adowa—but they will march only on a moving picture screen.

The natives, who will huddle before a big outdoor screen to see their first movie, will hear explanations of Italy's impressive war preparations in their native language.

The films to be shown will depict the Italian army and its recent army, aerial and navy maneuvers in Italy, designed to impress the tribesmen with Italy's military might.

ITALY REPORTED READY TO RECALL TROOPS IN LIBYA

First Seeks Withdrawal of British Warships.

ROME, Oct. 21.—(AP)—An Italian government spokesman tonight gave new credence to the likelihood Great Britain will trade the withdrawal of some of her great men o' war from the Mediterranean for recall of Fascist regiments from Libya.

"There are grounds for belief," the spokesman said, that statesmen of the two nations are considering such an exchange.

Again today—just before the spokesman gave this guarded but significant hint—Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador, was closeted with Fulvio Suvich, Premier Mussolini's subsecretary for foreign affairs.

Matter Up to General Staf.

Thus the Briton carried on the conversations he started last Friday in an audience with Il Duce himself.

The spokesman for the Fascist nation said he could not estimate the number of soldiers Italy might be willing to withdraw from Libya, her northern Africa colony which fronts on the western border of Egypt. That, he explained, would be a matter for Italy's general staf.

Only recently, it was recalled, official sources said that Italy could spare none of these reenforcements from Libya for the present. They insisted native unrest was threatening the colony's internal order.

Begins Drive for Funds.

Even as the diplomats of Italy and Great Britain talked, Mussolini's forces marched deeper into Ethiopia from the southeast and Il Duce at home began a drive for funds to finance the war.

He opened public subscription for a huge war conversion loan. Bankers estimated about 9,000,000,000 lire would be obtained if all holders of 3½ per cent bonds exchanged them for the new 5 per cent issue. [The lira is worth about 8 cents.]

Meanwhile official circles here expressed belief that continuing conversations between Mussolini and Drummond were a tonic for Europe's tense international situation. In addition, they said a ten day suspension of the league of nations' preoccupation with sanctions would give European peace a chance to recuperate.

Duce Offers Peace Terms.

PARIS, Oct. 21. — (AP) — Unofficial circles reported today that Premier Mussolini has sent suggestions for an ending of the Italo-Ethiopian war to Premier Laval of France. Laval, these sources said, will transfer the proposals to London as soon as debate in the British parliament this week on the international situation is ended.

Although declining to comment on the report, French officials said "the greatest problem now seems to be to get Emperor Haile Selassie to accept Italian terms."

Yesterday's senatorial elections gave Laval what was considered a vote of confidence to go ahead with his effort to find a peace solution.

The cabinet tomorrow is expected to adopt measures to keep a tight check on such political forces as the nationalistic Croix de Feu in order to keep France quiet internally.

Curb Political Armies.

A decree which would enable authorities to forbid the private mobilization of political troops or even to disarm such organizations is ready for submission to the cabinet, it was said.

The war ministry announced the transfer of 800 men of the Second Colonial infantry regiment from Brest to a Paris garrison, but officials said the move was "part of a general plan for regrouping troops which has long been contemplated."

Laval is expected to discuss Mussolini's reported suggestion for settlement of the Ethiopian war with the cabinet, which voted him full confidence to handle the international question at its last meeting.

Mussolini's conditions were published here as the disarmament of Ethiopia, an international protectorate over Amharic regions, and Italian protectorate over the remainder of Ethiopia, all of which the Ethiopian emperor thus far has rejected.

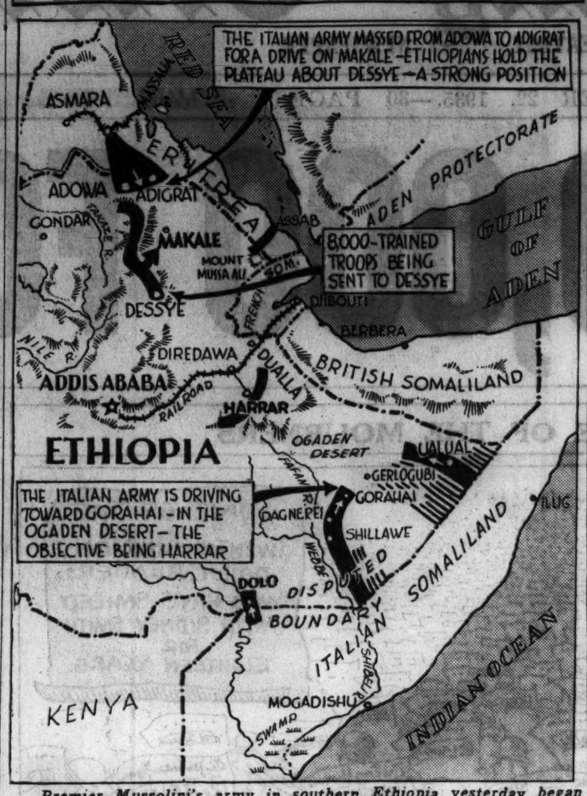
Italian Consul at Gondar Arrives in Eritrea Safely

ASMARA, Eritrea, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Italian consul at Gondar, in northern Ethiopia, arrived here yesterday after having been missing several weeks and at one time believed dead. The consul, named Di Lauro, asserted his escort threw off an attack by Ethiopians on their 300 mile march which took them through the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

DIES OF INJURIES FROM FALL.

Injuries incurred when he fell as he boarded a street car at 63d street and Narragansett avenue caused the death of Ausielo Mares, 35 years old, of Argo, in th County hospital yesterday.

ITALIANS LAUNCH DRIVE IN SOUTH



Premier Mussolini's army in southern Ethiopia yesterday began driving its way northward toward Gorahai. The principal objective of this campaign is to capture Harrar, metropolis of eastern Ethiopia. The Italians captured the fortress of Dagnerei, near the Webbe Shibeli river. In the north the Italian army, massed from Adowa to Adrigat, awaited orders for the drive on Makale, where the Ethiopians have concentrated a vast army. Eight thousand imperial guardsmen left Addis Ababa for Dessye.

HAILE SELASSIE ASKS FRENCH TO REMEMBER INVASION HORRORS

PARIS, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie broadcast an appeal for French sympathy with Ethiopia tonight, linking the two nations in common sufferings from invasion.

The Negus, whose first request to talk over French air was denied by the government last month, spoke tonight over the government's stations.

"The unjust aggression committed against us has been unanimously condemned by the league council," he said. "Our disarmed people, in spite of their weakness, will resist the invaders, for they are fighting to defend their own land, homes, and children.

"We are fighting for our liberty. We will not have to teach the French what the spirit of sacrifice means. We are all fired with the same faith against the invaders and will fight against him with that faith. We know the French have always shown sympathy for oppressed peoples."

ETHIOPIA WARNS ITALY SHE FACES SAVAGE WARFARE

LONDON, Oct. 21. — (AP) — The Ethiopian legation in a statement today charged Italy with using the "ghastly methods" of poison gas and dum-dum bullets "not only on the Ethiopian troops but on women, children, and animals."

White people, the statement asserted, "will be intensely hated by all the peoples of Africa and, we think, of Asia, for years to come."

"We take the opportunity hereby to warn the Italian forces that if they continue to use such ghastly methods against simple, unarmed peoples it will not be possible to restrain the wilder and bereaved section of the Ethiopian army from retaliating in some similar savage method on Italian soldiers who may happen to fall into their hands," the statement said.

Troopship Leaves Naples; 20 More Ready to Sail

NAPLES, Oct. 21.—(AP)—More Italian troops sailed for Africa today aboard the S. S. Umbria. Twenty other ships, loaded with munitions, prepared to embark with other troops. The Umbria carried 62 officers and 2,026 men, composing two motorized battalions, machine guns, a water supply, two ambulance sections, and X-ray equipment.

ACID FLOODS TRUCK IN LOOP.

Firemen were called to Randolph and Dearborn streets yesterday when a half gallon bottle of nitric acid broke in a delivery truck driven by James Hults, 4617 North Campbell avenue. Chemicals were used to counteract the acid.

RIOTING FLARES IN BRITISH WEST INDIES; 3 KILLED

KINGSTOWN, St. Vincent, Windward Islands, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Three rioters were shot to death and several others wounded tonight when a crowd of angry laborers armed with clubs and stones stormed business houses here.

(The island is a British possession in the West Indies, 100 miles due west of Barbados.)

Police fired on the crowd and succeeded in restoring order after the dead and wounded were carried away, but not before several stores had been looted and cars owned by the British administrator and other government officials had been wrecked. Business was suspended and guards were placed on duty for the night.

The hundreds of Negroes who surged through the streets surrounded the administrator and demanded a hearing on workers' problems. He promised to receive representations on minimum wages, workmen's compensation and customs duties. But before many hours the demonstrators, their ranks swelled by laborers from outlying plantations, gathered again. One or two minor street incidents started the mob on a rampage and it swept into the largest stores.

WINE GIVEN AWAY AS BERLIN OPENS NATIONAL FETE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—For the first time in 234 years free wine was distributed in the streets of Berlin today. Floats glorifying German wine paraded and Police Chief, Count Wolf von Helldorf, was presented with a "drink of honor" by girls from the Rhineland on the terrace of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm's palace.

To increase the consumption of wine every big city in Germany has "adopted" some wine growing village and purchased its wines wholesale to enable citizens to buy them cheaply.

Berlin wine dealers bought 125,000 gallons which will be sold cheaply and consumed this week. On the first day of "wine week" in the Magdeburg-Anhalt area restaurants and clubs were forbidden to serve beer and cider.

New Albanian Cabinet Named; Ends Week's Gap

TIRANA, Albania, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A new Albanian cabinet was formed tonight after a week of negotiations with Mehdi Frasheri, former minister of economics and one time Albanian delegate to the league of nations and the world court, as premier. King Zog appointed his minister to London, Fuad Aslani, as foreign minister. Four of the ministers are between the ages of 35 and 40. The king plans general reform and modernization.

GERMANY DROPS QUIETLY OUT OF LEAGUE CIRCLES

Two Years Since Giving Notice Ended.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Oct. 21.—Lacking any of the ten day uproar that surrounded her announcement two years ago, Germany today formally passed out of league of nations membership.

An astounded world heard Adolf Hitler's demand that Germany be granted equality by elimination of arms prohibitions of the Versailles treaty and removal of other restrictions.

The reich's Geneva consul, Dr. W. Krauel, two years ago today delivered to the league secretariat Germany's formal notice of leaving the league.

Obligations Satisfied.

The waiting period in which a nation withdrawing must satisfy its financial and other obligations to the league today was completed, and Consul Krauel made the only active move of the day by departing for Berlin to consult on what Germany's relations with the league now will be. He will return before Oct. 31, when the league is to make final declarations of sanctions against Italy, unless Mussolini has made some arrangement to cease aggression in Ethiopia.

The league made no advance on the sanctions front except to receive the notifications of Bulgaria, Estonia, Iraq and Norway—making the total 22 nations—that they will support the declared sanctions. These include export and import boycotts and prohibition of financial credits.

Asked for Attitude.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—Germany received an invitation from the league of nations to express her stand in the matter of sanctions in the Ethiopian conflict last night just a few hours before her membership expired, it was declared today in well informed diplomatic circles.

Germany could excuse herself and refuse to reply, pointing to her withdrawal, but it is understood the British ambassador has instructions to address the same query to the German government in the name of his government if Germany refuses to reply to the league of nations.

Being eager to remain on friendly terms with England, which country she would like as an ally, and with Italy, which country she considers a Black Shirted brother of her own Brown Shirts, Germany is desperately trying to sidestep the question.

ETHIOPIAN RIVER, SITE OF BATTLE, IS TRICK STREAM

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Webbe Shibeli, near which Italians and Ethiopians engaged in a stiff fight, is one of the African empire's important and "disappearing" rivers.

It rises in Arusi province, almost directly south of Addis Ababa, and flows generally southward through Ogaden into Italian Somaliland, where it "disappears" without reaching the sea. The river in its upper reaches cuts downward through deep gorges. Its flow is slower as it reaches the flat, dry plains of Ogaden in southern Ethiopia.

In Italian Somaliland the river flows almost to Mogadiscio, one of the main seaports, but then turns southwestward and flows parallel to the coast for 170 miles before it is dissipated in a swamp in the southwest tip of Somaliland.

Pronunciation experts here said the name is properly pronounced "Wab-be," with accent on the first syllable, "Shy-beel-i," with accent on the second syllable. They pointed out that in Amharic "webbe" means river.

Caravan Shipment of Arms Reaches Harrar, Ethiopia

BRITAIN RENEWS TASK OF ENDING MUSSOLINI'S WAR

Sees Ray of Hope as Angers Die Down.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, today put the finishing touches on a speech which he will deliver when the house of commons reassembles tomorrow for a three day session before its dissolution. A general election will follow the house's dissolution.

In his speech Hoare will report fully on the international situation. It is understood he will be able to give a much more optimistic view than would have been possible a week ago.

He will tell the house that now that the extraneous undergrowth of Franco-British misunderstanding and Italo-British emnity has been cleared away it will be possible to tackle at once the main task of stopping the Ethiopian war.

Laval Acts as Mediator.

Negotiations in this direction already have been started between Rome and Paris. Premier Pierre Laval of France is acting as mediator. He is trying to get Premier Mussolini to state his minimum terms, which must be acceptable both to the league of nations and the Ethiopian emperor. Laval, too, is keeping London informed of every move.

The subject of peace was touched on by Mussolini in his talk with Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador to Italy, on Friday. However, Drummond was not authorized to discuss peace terms at that interview and the matter was dropped.

With that as a start Laval is hopeful of speedy progress. The British have decided not to publish the text of Laval's reply to their inquiry about French naval assistance in the Mediterranean, but it was said to be "entirely satisfactory."

Cites History of Quarrel.

It is a long document in which Laval recited the entire history of the misunderstanding. The substance of the reply also will be given to members of commons by Hoare tomorrow. He will be followed by Maj. C. R. Attlee, Labor leader, and a long list of private members. Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin is expected to wind up the debate on Wednesday.

The ministerial committee, which is specially concerned with safeguarding British interests and the application of sanctions, met this evening at No. 10 Downing street.

Meanwhile, Drummond has been instructed to inform the Italian government of the British decision that in the present circumstances Italian ships cannot be treated more favorably in British and British colonial ports than provided for under the neutrality rules laid down by The Hague convention of 1907.

Colonial Ports Bar Ships.

This means that auxiliary vessels carrying war materials and provisions for soldiers engaged in war will be unable to remain in British ports more than twenty-four hours and only will be permitted to take on enough fuel and food to reach the nearest Italian port. Colonial ports include those of Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. It is understood that the Egyptian government has taken the same decision.

The archbishop of Canterbury announced to a Canterbury diocesan conference today that he had invited the leaders of all Christian churches in Europe to take action to support the league. He said he had approached Pope Pius. The pontiff, the archibshop said, told him that he did not feel he could say more at present than had already been publicly said.

"We must recognize the peculiar difficulty in which Pope Pius is placed," the archbishop added. "Maybe, in his own time and in his own way, he may be moved to speak some further word."

Italian Hospital Ship with 685 Sick Passes Suez

PORT SAID, Egypt, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Italian hospital ship California passed through the Suez canal from Eritrea today with 685 sick men aboard, most of them laborers.

[A Friday dispatch from Massaua, Eritrea, said the California sailed with 212 sick workmen and soldiers for Italy. The ship was formerly an American vessel named the Saint George and has been converted into a floating hospital.]

Garibaldi Bids for U. S. Aid to Settle Italo-British Row

BY. GEN. EZIO GARIBALDI.

(Grandson of the famous Italian patriot, Giuseppe Garibaldi.)

[Written for the Associated Press.]

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A very grave international question has been complicated by a misunderstanding between Italy and Great Britain, two countries that always in their long and glorious history have been friends.

But there is never a misunderstanding that cannot be settled; there is never a question so grave that it cannot be solved between men of good will.

In this the press of every country can do a great deal for conciliation, especially in nations that are neutral, like the United States; therefore, I do not hesitate to say there is no question of national prestige, and we have no wish to assume a rivalry in the sea or assume a predominant position in the Mediterranean.

Says Italians Are United.

The Italian people are conscious of the gravity of the moment, but they are today more than ever united around their leader. They are calm, they have the strength their civilization 3,000 years old gives them.

There are 43 million inhabitants cramped in the country, too small and too poor; they must find their way in the world and no law can deny them their right.

In every law it is necessary to distinguish between the letter and the spirit, and the spirit very often is higher than the letter.

Italians are asking above all that others understand, and who could better be able than the United States to understand, this appeal.

It is in fact only justice that Italy wants.

In 1919, as everybody knows, we were excluded from the division of rich colonial booty.

Italy is overpopulous and in need of bread and work for her sons. We look for a place in the sun, and we hoped to find it in Africa. We wanted to bring peace and prosperity there.

Our troops were sent there purely as a precautionary measure. More troops were sent only when we realized Ethiopia was mobilizing. The warlike speeches by the emperor for full mobilization of her army obliged us to advance.

We do not believe we are the aggressors, but merely are defending our possessions and the right civilization.

Italians Called Liberators.

Ethiopia is three times as large as Italy and is populated by 8,000,000 uncivilized people, only 2,000,000 of whom are Amharic. The rest are of different races, and they have been conquered and brought under the emperor in the last fifty years. Slavery exists there and is increasing.

A significant fact is that in Tigre province the population received Italian troops not as invaders but as liberators. Italy has had her colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland menaced for forty years, and has never had any advantages promised her in that land.

Raps British Plea for Aid.

Great Britain requested the support of the French fleet in case of a hypothetical attack from Italy. This was outside the league of nations and in spite of an assurance from Premier Mussolini that British interests would be respected. We wish to believe all British affirmations that she will not act outside the league but we do not understand why she does not believe the words of Mussolini.

For what concerns the league the words of our leader explain everything: To economic sanctions we will answer with discipline; to military sanctions we will answer with military sanctions; to a warlike act we will answer with warlike acts.

SHOOT 2 ETHIOPIANS FOR ROBBING BODY OF AN ITALIAN OFFICER

WITH THE ITALIAN FIELD HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ETHIOPIA, Oct. 21.—(AP)—An Italian firing squad executed a death sentence today imposed upon two Ethiopian prisoners charged with robbing the body of an Italian officer. The two Ethiopian warriors, Italian officials said, were found to have a revolver and other effects belonging to Lieut. Mario Morgantin, the first Italian officer to be killed in the fighting in northern Ethiopia.

ETHIOPIAN RULER WILL GO TO WAR WITH GHOST KING

Sends 8,000 Guardsmen to the Front Lines.

[Special cable to The London Daily Telegraph and The Chicago Tribune.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Oct. 21.—Eight thousand members of the crack imperial guard marched out of the capital today on the way to Dessye, about 200 miles south of the Italian front which stretches from Adowa to Adrigrat.

The guardsmen were dressed in smart uniforms and possess all the necessary equipment for modern warfare.

Emperor Haile Selassie embraced each of the guard's forty officers in turn and shook hands with the Belgian military experts who had charge of their training. In a farewell speech the emperor urged his men to defend their empire to the last breath.

Trucks Pick Up Soldiers.

Motor trucks met the soldiers on the outskirts of the city, and by nightfall they were welt on their way to Dessye. On the journey they will be joined by other troops, and it is expected they will reach Dessye with a column of 70,000 fighting men.

Selassie has decided to leave for the Ethiopian front in the north within 10 days. He will be accompanied by a dummy official who will act as the king's "ghost." The man will wear the usual costume of the emperor, a false beard, and carry a red umbrella. Ethiopian kings in the past would not go into battle without an umbrella.

The purpose of the king's "ghost" is to divert attention from the real emperor, who will wear a plain uniform. Selassie will remain in a protected position when his troops go into battle, while his double will move rapidly about the battle lines.

The government announced that France is camouflaging the railway between Djibouti, French Somaliland, and the Ethiopian frontier to protect the line against Italian aerial bombing. France also is constructing roads so that armored cars can be moved quickly to protect the railway in the event of an attack.

Loses Confidence in France.

This action was interpreted here as an indication that France and Great Britain intend to impose their will upon Italy in the event that league of nations' sanctions prove ineffective.

Nevertheless, there are growing indications of tension between Ethiopia and France. The apparent hesitation of Premier Pierre Laval in the European negotiations has shaken Selassie's confidence. Furthermore, France is demanding that Ethiopia should demarcate a neutral zone at Diredawa with distinctive warning posts visible from the sky in which French nationals may take refuge in the event of air raids.

The government appears to regard this request as an infringement on Ethiopian sovereignity and almost an invitation to Italy to bomb the rest of Diredawa. Fear is also expressed that France may attempt to retain the area as a permanent possession.

Accuse Italians of Trickery.

It was reported that the Italian consul and his staf from Magalo are deliberately delaying their arrival at Addis Ababa so that Count Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci, Italian minister, may have more time to remain in the capital.

[The Italian minister refused to leave when he was ordered to by Emperor Haile Selassie. He explained he wanted to remain until the Italian consuls had arrived from the interior. The emperor allowed him to remain.]

The emperor is being strongly advised to expel the minister, but he is determined not to give Premier Mussolini an opportunity to complain of bad treatment. The Magalo party is still 180 miles away from Addis Ababa, or a ten day caravan journey.

It was reported that 300 Italian soldiers, who are constructing a road inland from Mount Mussa Ali, were blinded while cutting down the deadly duphobia cactus.

Aerial bombing near the Setit river by the Italians was announced by the government. An official spokesman also said that 1,000 Ethiopians who began to desert to the Italians along with Ras Haile Selassie Gugsa, governor of Tigre province, changed their minds near the Tigre frontier and returned to the emperor's army.

RUTH NICHOLS FIGHTS FOR LIFE; PILOT IS DEAD

Four of Injured Wed After Crash.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 21.—(AP)—A giant air liner crashed on the outskirts of Troy today, bringing death to Capt. Harry Hublitch of New York and critical injuries to Miss Ruth Nichols, one of America's ace air women.

Capt. Hublitch, a former navy flyer and a veteran of twenty-two years in the air, died of burns and internal injuries at midnight, less than twelve hours after the twenty passenger plane crashed and burst into flames.

Condition Reported Fair.

Miss Nichols, who was torn from her seat as a wing of the falling ship struck a tree, suffered numerous fractures and burns, but her condition was reported as "fair." Physicians reported she has a "fair" chance to recover.

Four other persons, all employés of Miss Nichols, who owned the twenty passenger luxury liner, were burned and cut in the crash, but their injuries failed to interrupt a double wedding planned for tonight.

As Capt. Hublitch lay dying in a Troy hospital the other four passengers went through with a wedding ceremony which originally was scheduled to be held in the air over New York City. Miss Gladys Berkenheiser was married to Ray Hayes, Miss Nichols' mechanic, and her sister, Miss Nena Berkenheiser, became the bride of William Holt, a ticket taker on the plane.

Flyer's Brother Best Man.

Lieut. E. Snowden, brother of the woman flyer, was best man for both Hayes and Holt.

The trousseaus of both brides were destroyed in the plane crash. All four of the wedding party, passengers in the plane, suffered cuts, bruises, and burns and were dressed only in odds and ends of contributed clothes when they appeared for the ceremony.

The minister was the Rev. Leigh Diefendorf, minister of St. Mark Methodist church, North Troy. A newspaper woman and Miss Nichols' secretary, Miss Jane Hyde, were bridesmaids.

The Nichols party was leaving Troy at 11 a. m. after spending more than a week here making flights with passengers in the twin motored Condor liner. The flyers were heading for Florida via Teterboro, N. J.

BRITISH CANDIDATES OFFER VOTERS FORM OF SOCIAL CREDIT PLAN

LONDON, Oct. 21. — (AP) — The "Green Shirts," patterned after the Social Credit League of Canada, today entered candidates for the November parliamentary elections advocating a "dividend" of $1,500 a year to each family above their present incomes.

John Hargrave heads the party, and its candidates are Reginald Kenney, in North Bradford, and Wilfrid Townend, in southeast Leeds.

Oliver Baldwin, son of the prime minister, today was named Labor candidate for the house of commons from Paisley, Scotland, and will oppose the government's candidate. At the same time Labor peers elected Lord Snell as leader of the Labor opposition in the house of lords, succeeding Lord Ponsonby, resigned.

ARREST SLICKER ON HOUSEWIVES' SWINDLE CHARGE

Sam Crawford, 32 years old, 521 East 46th place, colored, was arrested yesterday by Evanston police for operating a horse betting racket on housewives. Six complaints were lodged against him in Evanston, and the police said there were many more in Chicago and other suburbs.

Crawford was identified by Mrs. John Eastman, 2326 Hastings avenue, Evanston, as the man who got a $50 ring from her as "security." Crawford would tell his victim that her husband had won a lot on a horse race and that he had come from the handbook operators to collect the "tax," in each case the same figure of $21. Mrs. Eastman said she gave Crawford the ring for security on the "tax."

FOUND DEAD IN ROOM.

Joseph Miller, 49 years old, 2527 Cortland street, an employé of Butler Brothers, was found dead, apparently of a heart attack, in a rooming house at 746 North Clark street yesterday.

Attorney Miller Elected Lake County G. O. P. Head

Attorney Benjamin H. Miller of Libertyville was elected chairman of the Lake county Republican central committee at a meeting of committeemen last night in the courthouse at Waukegan. Ralph H. Pihl of Zion, who has been acting chairman, was a candidate, but withdrew when it became apparent Miller had sufficient strength to win. The choice of Miller, an independent, was regarded as something of a slap at the old G. O. P. leadership in Lake county, which has been headed by former Secretary of State William J. Stratton.

Miss Perkins Claims AAA Is Restoring Prosperity

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, speaking last night before a forum of 1,000 in the North Shore Congregation Israel in Glencoe, declared that AAA policies had brought prosperity to the agricultural implement making industry in Illinois. Employment in that industry, she said, was greater now than at any time in history except in 1928 and 1929. She also asserted that there was a continuing improvement in building construction and in the durable goods industries.

Screw Taken from Baby's Lung; Child Is Recovering

Kenneth Slobeck, 2 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Slobeck, 3521 Grace street, yesterday was reported out of danger at the Women's and Children's hospital after surgeons removed a screw from his left lung. The child swallowed the screw, which was about an inch long, a week ago.

GREAT STATE ST. REMEMBERS ITS COW PATH DAYS

Banquet, Pageant Honor Pioneer Merchants.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

State street, once a cow path and now one of the world's greatest merchandising thoroughfares with 400 million dollars' worth of goods on display, went back to its beginnings last night in a program of pageantry, drama, picture, and memories given by the Association of State Street Seniors at the Palmer house.

Old times in State street was the theme of the evening which began when Mayor Kelly, former Mayor Edward F. Dunne and a group of older citizens arrived at the State street entrance of the hostelry in an ancient surface car drawn by horses driven by Pete McGinity. This was the type of car that used to rumble through the streets with a stove in the center and straw on the floor in winter. Pat Foley, the conductor, also came of the old vintage.

Ancient Autos Bring Guests.

Wheezing automobiles of earliest make, tallyhos of 1896 discharged top hatted men, and women with bustles and picture hats. The grand ballroom of the hotel was filled with oldsters whose hearts warmed at these memories. The moderns on the street of white lights found a a good laugh in this spectacle and blocked the street during the arriving ceremony.

It was pointed out by the chairman, Otis W. Smith, that State street was always up to the minute and that at the time of these queer looking vehicles and gowns these, too, were the latest creations of man.

The ballroom was decorated with pictures of the old street. The covered wagon stood in contrast with the towers of the Century of Progress. The wall behind the speakers' tables, filled with noted merchants of today, the descendants and successors of the founders of the street, was decorated with large portraits of such men as Marshall Field, Potter Palmer, Levi Z. Leiter and H. N. Higinbotham.

Sketch Recalls Early Days.

A sketch was presented on the stage which recalled much of the early history of the street, how the old firm of Field, Palmer & Leiter was formed and dissolved, how the merchants got the street widened, how Palmer bought a mile of frontage and put up fifty of the best buildings in the city. It took some vision in those days to see the future of State street as against Lake street. It took more courage to rebuild after the Chicago fire, which destroyed the street from Harrison street to the present Lincoln park.

The guest of honor of the occasion was Henry Charles Lytton, the only living member of the group of 14 merchants who founded mercantile houses prior to 1896 and which houses have endured to this time. Mr. Lytton, 90 years old, is still in active control of the Hub department store which he founded.

The Association of Seniors, the State Street council, of which it is a division, and honorary members united in a resolution testifying to Mr. Lytton's "bold initiative, courage, integrity and fidelity to the best ideals of good citizenship and progressive merchandising."

Other Founders Represented.

The other thirteen founders were represented at the dinner and in the stage sketches by their sons, grandsons, or executive successors. These were C. W. Pardridge, Marshall Field, Charles Netcher Sr., John T. Pirie Sr., H. N. Higginbotham, A. M. Rothschild, Elijah Peacock, Potter Palmer, Leon Mandel Sr., Levi Z. Leiter, Ernest J. Lehmann, Andrew McLeish and Charles A. Stevens.

Harry Gordon Selfridge, former partner of Marshall Field, a merchant in Chicago for a quarter of a century and now owner of a great department store in Oxford street, London, was one of the merchants present.

Wallace Rice, historian of the occasion, recalled the days when he worked in the first Palmer house and described the beginnings of that street which the early Chicagoans determined to make "a street of state."

Veteran Workers Introduced.

Mayor Kelly and former Mayor Dunne gave their greetings and a poem called "State Street" was read by its author, Alonzon Newton Benn. Walter L. Gregory, president of the State Street council, introduced several special guests of the evening, including men and women who have worked the longest time in stores and other city institutions. These included Thomas E. Freeman, who has worked 53 years for the Illnois Bell Telephone company; Lyman G. Van Horne, surface lines for 61 years; George Patterson, Armour & Co., 38 years; Thomas E. Reese, People's Gas, Light and Coke company, 45 years; William L. Abbott, Commonwealth Edison company, 50 years; Henry W. Byers, Chicago and North Western, 52 years; Michael Garrity, city hall, 54 years.

Executives who appeared in the sketch, "Old Times in State Street," dramatizing problems that the pioneers faced, were D. F. Kelly of The Fair, Walter L. Gregory of the Palmer house, Elmer T. Stevens of Charles A. Stevens & Co., Leon Mandel of Mandel Brothers, Fred D. Corley of Marshall Field & Co., R. C. Mangold of the Boston Store, M. C. Penticoff of Sears, Roebuck & Co., W. J. Buffington of C. D. Peacock, Inc., John H. Wood of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., and Ernest Gluck of The Hub.

Others at Speakers' Table.

Otis Smith, chairman of the senior association, has been with Marshall Field & Co. for 52 years. Among those at the speakers' table were George Young, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; Frank M. Anderson, with the Davis Store and its predecessor, A. M. Rothschild & Co. for 48 years; Miss Katherine Malone, with the Boston Store 47 years and formerly with its predecessor, C. W. Pardridge; Maurice L. Rothschild, Ernest R. Graham, J. L. Kesner, treasurer of the State Street council; Robert E. Foster, with Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., treasurer of the Chicago fire, which destroyed the Seniors association; Mathew Abrams, with A. G. Spalding, vice chairman Seniors association; Edward Majesky, with Mandel Brothers 44 years, assistant treasurer Seniors association; Ald. John J. Coughlin, First ward representative since 1892, was also at the speakers' table.

The Seniors association was formed two years ago on the 100th anniversary of Chicago's birth.

CICERO TRUSTEES TELL GRAND JURY ABOUT GAMBLING

Samuel Span, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

William Thompson and Fred Wittingham, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary; Ed Ristua, assault to rape, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Russell Whitman.

Four members of the town board of Cicero were questioned yesterday before the grand jury, which is investigating charges made by President Joseph C. Cerny that gambling is operating without restraint and that many taverns are without licenses. Those questioned were Mrs. Rose Cuchna, trustee and town collector; Henry R. Schwarzel, assessor and trustee; Rudolph J. Hurt and Nicholas Hendrikse, trustees.

The trustees admitted, it was reported, that complaints of gambling had been made to them. They said they referred the complaints to the chief of police, who will be questioned later.

Kills Himself with Gun on Bench in Grant Park

The body of a man about 60 years old, believed to have been Peter Powers of the Vestibule hotel at 66 West Van Buren street, was found last night on a bench at 9th street and Columbus drive in Grant park. There was a bullet hole in the head and a pistol lay beside the body. The tentative identification was made through a baggage claim check issued Sunday by the hotel.

ARABS PLAN STRIKE TO PROTEST GUN RUNNING BY JEWS OF PALESTINE

JERUSALEM, Oct. 21.—(AP)—With racial feeling at a height unparalleled in Palestine for two years, representatives of all Arab parties were to meet this afternoon to decide on participation in a general strike called for tomorrow in protest against alleged gun running by Jews.

The Palestine Post, Palestine's only English daily newspaper, and Hebrew newspapers assailed agitation in the Arab press against the accidental discovery at Jaffa last week of a huge shipment of arms and ammunition from Belgium. The consignee of the shipment was not revealed.

The Arab general strike was called by Haj Amin El Husseini, grand mufti of Jerusalem. Jews denied there was any basis for Arab charges that Jews were arming in preparation for an attack on Arabs.

URGES CITY CUT AUTO TOLL WITH SUNSHINE TIME

Head of Motor Club Cites Accident Figures.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, yesterday strongly urged that Chicago adopt eastern standard time as a means of decreasing trafic accidents. He estimated that the extension of daylight saving time through the year would lower the evening rush hour motor accident total by 35 per cent.

Mr. Hayes' view is similar to that of Judge John Gutknecht of the Trafic court, who last week told a city council committee that scores of lives would be saved by the time change. A second hearing on the time ordinance introduced in the council by Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th] will be held in the city hall at 10:30 a. m., Thursday.

Danger Time After Sunset.

"Although four-fifths of all automobile trafic operates during daylight hours, nevertheless one-half of all fatal accidents occur after sunset," Mr. Hayes said. "In other words, night travel is four times as dangerous as daylight travel.

"The accident records in Chicago indicate that a substantial reduction in the daily accident toll would result from an added hour of daylight. In November last year — the month which set the pace for 1934 with 1,622 accidents—most accidents came in the evening rush hour, the first hour of darkness, between 5 and 6 o'clock. These amounted to 188 as against 96 for the hour preceeding.

"Allowing for the 27 per cent increase in trafic volume that comes between the two periods, daylight during the rush hour would have decreased accidents 35 per cent, according to our engineers. Using this figure as a basis for calculation, the accident rate during the seven months that intervene between Chicago's present day light saving months would diminish 4½ per cent.

Means Saving 27 Lives.

"This decrease means that 27 lives, 4½ per cent of the total 606 fatalities that occured in the central standard time months, would have been saved in 1934 had eastern time been in effect.

"Trafic experts point out that under the proposed improvement the accident increase in morning hours would be negligible, since daylight would have arrived before the morning rush hour cars throng the streets. The volume of earlier trafic, they assert, is insignificant.

"In addition to all this, under eastern time children would especially benefit with more and safer hours of play."

Ald. Cronson yesterday pointed out that the adoption of eastern time, or the extension of daylight saving time the year round, would eliminate present time changes twice a year.

Dislike Changes Twice a Year.

"There will be no daylight saving time in addition to eastern time," Ald. Cronson said. "The proposal is to end those changes. I have received letters from many people downstate, urging that Chicago adopt eastern time, as did Detroit, Dayton, and Cincinnati, as a convenience to the trading area. Those people favor eastern time for Chicago, and for themselves, if they can get it, but they do not like the changes twice a year. I have assured them that this would end.

"There have also been questions as to the hour of sunrise and sunset under eastern time. During the months of the proposed time change, the average time of sunrise would be 7:06 instead of 6:06 as at present. Undoubtedly many persons arise before 7 in the morning, but few of them would be up before the half hour of dawn preceeding sunrise, especially children.

Sunset to Average 6:31.

"The average time of sunset under eastern time would be 6:31 instead of 5:31 as at present during the period of extension. This means that almost all citizens and all children would have the extra hour of daylight when they are free to use it out of doors, after work and school. Only infants go to asleep before 6:31 p. m., and Dr. Julius Hess has pointed out that the sun does not affect their sleeping habits."

William B. Gibson, president of the South Chicago Business association, said yesterday he has polled members of the organization, and they favor eastern time for health and economic reasons.

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce has indorsed eastern time for similar reasons following an investigation by its business and professional ethics committee, said John F. Browne, president of the organization.

LAURA LA PLANTE.
[Acme Photo.]
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 21. — Laura La Plante, American film actress, had a narrow escape from death today when her cottage, the Thatch, near Box Hill, Dorking, burned to the ground. Miss La Plante, who had rented the cottage from former Mayor James J. Walker of New York, was ill in bed and was carried out by her doctor just before the roof collapsed. She was reported to be none the worse for the experience.

Walker's records of his years as New York's mayor, including many newspaper clippings, were burned. They had been stored in the cottage since their arrival from the New York city hall some months ago.

Miss La Plante is the wife of the film director, Irving Asher, having married him in Paris in 1934 after she and William Seiter, a Hollywood director, were divorced.

$25,000 VERDICT AWARDED AGENT OF MAUDE ADAMS

Noted Actress Loses Commission Suit.

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—John D. Williams, a former stage director, today was awarded $25,000 in his $200,000 suit against Maude Adams, the actress.

Shortly before the case went to the jury a ruling by Justice Daniel V. McNamee had relieved the Erlanger Amusement Enterprises, Inc., and several Erlanger representatives, co-defendants, of any responsibility in the suit.

Praises Dramatic Ability.

The jury was out a few minutes more than an hour. Miss Adams heard her dramatic ability praised in the closing argument of H. F. Driscoll, attorney for Williams. He said Miss Adams had played her courtroom rôle to her own advantage.

"All the time Miss Adams was on the witness stand she was the actress, a clever actress, who knows how to play a situation to her own advantage," he said.

Williams' suit was based on a contention that he was to get a percentage of the income derived from Miss Adams' return to the stage four years ago. Miss Adams had long been in retirement and in 1927, the plaintif said, he began negotiations which ended with Miss Adams making a brief tour of the "provinces" in "The Merchant of Venice." The appearance in the Shakespearean play was made after Miss Adams had abandoned her original intention to mark her reappearance on the stage in a play of her own conception.

Miss Adams' Contention.

Miss Adams contended that an agreement she had with Williams called only for his being paid a commission in the event that she returned to the stage in "The Joyous Advent of Clementine"—the play she conceived after reading an Irish legend.

The Erlanger defendants argued that the contract, if any, existed only between Mr. Williams and the actress and could not be binding upon them. The court agreed on this point.

SKID IN LEAVES KILLS WISCONSIN DRIVER; SIX HURT

Child Near Death After Deerfield Collision.

A chauffeur was killed and six other persons, including four children, were injured yesterday when an automobile skidded on a patch of wet leaves and collided with a truck near Deerfield, Ill.

The man killed was Wesley J. Heller, 35 years old, 1738 North 16th street, Milwaukee. He was driving a truck of oil which collided with the car of Miss Petra Tobias of Glen Ellyn, Ill. She and her five passengers were injured. The injuries of Lois Zaldizias, 7 years old, of Elgin were pronounced critical.

Three Elgin policemen on their way to the Northwestern university trafic officers' training school were seriously injured when their automobile collided with one driven by William Gold, 36 years old, 1207 Leland avenue, five miles east of Elgin on route 58.

Two Dangerously Injured.

At the Elgin hospital Gold and Sergt. Walter Groth, 38 years old, head of the suburb's trafic division, were found to be dangerously hurt. Surgeons said Policeman Arthur Kopperdale, 34 years old, incurred a cut in his jugular vein and lost much blood and that Policeman David Holtz, 36 years old, received a compound fracture of the left leg.

Police said that Gold's car skidded on the wet road and was struck broadside by the car in which the policemen were riding.

Within the Chicago city limits 80 persons suffered injuries in trafic accidents in the 24 hour period ending at 4 p. m. yesterday, the police department reported. At the same hour 768 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. In that period 598 were killed in trafic accidents within the Chicago city limits and 13,872 were injured. Cook county deaths yesterday:

Miss Evelyn Kluczynski, 19 years old, 2550 Station street, died in the County hospital during the day of injuries incurred when the automobile in which she was riding struck a parked machine at 2447 Station street.

Charles Berger, 68 years old, 842 North Christiana avenue, died in county hospital. Struck Sunday in an alley near Sawyer and North avenues.

John Nemec, 20 years old, 3240 South Kildare avenue, died in county hospital. Injured Sunday when his motorcycle collided with an automobile at 28th street and Keeler avenue.

John Stock, 65 years old, 1528 West 14th place, killed at Ashland avenue and 14th place by automobile of August Fremmel, 17 years old, 7544 Dobson avenue. Police held Fremmel.

A farm laborer about 40 years old, identified only as "Tony," was killed early today when he was struck by an automobile in River road, near Bryn Mawr avenue. The driver of the car did not stop. The victim had been employed only a few days ago by Chris John, a farmer residing on Bryn Mawr avenue west of River road.

Probation Officer Dies.

In the Macon county hospital at Decatur yesterday Lucille Hoffman, a Cook county probation officer for 13 years, died of injuries incurred Oct. 12 when her automobile crashed into a parked truck on Route 48, north of Argenta. Mrs. Anna Ross of Chicago, who was Miss Hoffman's companion, also was injured.

Joseph Skvarla, 26 years old, 3444 West 47th street, suffered a skull fracture and other injuries last evening when his automobile was struck by a Michigan Central freight train at 53d street and Kostner avenue. He was taken to the County hospital. The crossing is not protected by gates.

Auto Test Law Urged.

An ordinance that would require Chicago motorists to submit their automobiles for inspection semi-annually was recommended to the city council for passage yesterday by its committee on trafic and public safety. If adopted by the council, the ordinance would go into effect next July 1. After that date persons operating vehicles without having them inspected at one of the city testing stations would be liable to fines ranging from $1 to $1,000.

HELENA ROCKED BY NEW QUAKES; 327 JOLTS FELT

Million Dollar Repair Job Is Planned.

Helena, Mont., Oct. 21.—(AP)—New earth shocks shattered glass and tumbled chimneys in Helena today, the tenth consecutive day of intermittent tremors.

The fresh rumblings came as steaming stew and soup warmed the homeless temporarily sheltered from snow tinged winds and while a repair job of million dollar proportions was being planned.

Commerce was at a standstill and pedestrians took to the middle of the downtown streets, all closed to vehicular trafic. Engineering surveys indicated, however, that the structural network of the larger buildings was unscathed.

Shocks Total 327.

Today's shocks were of moderate intensity as compared with the terrific jarring of Friday night. Recurring throughout the morning, the new tremors raised the weather bureau figures at midday to a total of 327 shocks since Oct. 12. At 3:33 a. m. the most severe disturbance since Friday excited the city.

Several hundred persons clustered in the Camp Cooney relief center were gathered in mess halls. Lying on the plains to the northwest the camp afforded modern facilities for feeding, housing, and sanitary purposes.

Some physical discomfort was caused by an abrupt change in the weather. It brought a sifting of snow to the quake sector and a minimum temperature of 29 above zero.

State, federal, and city governments moved to alleviate distress. A massmeeting to facilitate repairs was considered.

Aftershocks Called Usual.

Pasadena, Cal., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Carnegie Institution seismological experts today said there is nothing unusual in the aftershocks of the Montana earthquake.

"The only unusual factor was the occurrence of a strong foreshock a week in advance of the earthquake which caused the damage," said Dr. Charles Richter.

Riflemen Down Smokestack.

Helena, Mont., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Last Chance gulch, a golden scar of the mining heyday, heard rifle shots again today as a few quake shattered walls were reduced by bullets. At East Helena a marksman was hired to bring down the dangling ends of a smelter smokestack. Some who watch through field glasses said he registered 44 hits out of 48 attempts.

ROBBERY VICTIMS RIP GOVERNOR'S PAROLE DEFENSE

Howlett Upholds Freeing of Maentanis.

While Lake Forest residents yesterday criticized Gov. Horner's statement that he found nothing irregular in the secret paroling of Nick Maentanis last week, Michael J. Howlett, Chicago member of the state parole board whose recommendation "sprung" the convict from prison, insisted that the parole was just a routine matter.

Howlett and Delmar D. Darrah are members of a subcommittee of the parole board having jurisdiction over the cases of prisoners at the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries. Mr. Darrah, whose home is in Bloomington, passed all responsibility for the Maentanis parole to Howlett, saying he usually allowed Howlett to "handle all Cook county cases." Told that Maentanis was convicted in Lake county, Darrah said that county, too, was Howlett's territory.

Convicted of Mitchell Robbery.

Maentanis was one of five men convicted of a gun raid and robbery in the William H. Mitchell home at 901 Rosemary avenue, Lake Forest, in November, 1931. The five bandits terrorized the Mitchells and a number of guests and did considerable shooting as they fled with $150,000 worth of jewels.

The five gunmen were found guilty by Lake county juries in Waukegan and were sentenced to one year to life in Joliet prison, the punishment prescribed by law for robbery with a gun.

This indeterminate sentence law gives the parole board the power and the duty of deciding the exact time to be served by the convict. The board first fixed eight years as the time to be served by all five robbers and then at a rehearing—recommended by Howlett and Darrah—cut the sentence of Maentanis so that when he was released he had served only three years and eight months.

Maentanis was freed without the notice to a state's attorney which is customary in such cases. State's Attorney Charles E. Mason of Lake county was not notified of the rehearing or the parole until the day after Maentanis was out of prison.

Mrs. Wheeler Assails Parole.

Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, 20 South Mayflower road, Lake Forest, who was chairman of the political action committee of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, and who, with her husband, was a guest at the Mitchell home at the time of the robbery, said the Maentanis parole was a travesty on justice.

"My husband was furious this morning on reading Gov. Horner's statement that there was nothing irregular about the paroling of that criminal," said Mrs. Wheeler. "He said it looks as though the governor is going to whitewash the parole board again.

"It is certainly a fine state of affairs when a criminal like Maentanis can be released without notice. It shows clearly that something was decidedly wrong. They gave the convict a secret hearing and still our governor has the nerve to try to make us believe there was nothing irregular.

Says All Had Fair Trials.

"They bring up the subject of the possible innocence of the convict. He and the other gunmen had fair trials and they were represented by good lawyers. They had a hearing before the state Supreme court, and then the parole board gave Maentanis another hearing without any witnesses present.

"What are the courts for if parole boards can find convicted men innocent? I think conditions are frightfully rank in the parole system and it is a shock to find the governor heartily in accord with the parole board.

'It is high time the people of Illinois arose and changed these conditions. We victims of that crime have a duty to perform and we intend to do it. The governor will hear from us.'

Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Sheridan road, Lake Bluff, another victim of the robbery, said she regarded the parole as "terrible." She said she would join with Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Wheeler in protesting to the governor regarding his "whitewashing" of the parole board.

Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy, 804 Green Bay road, Lake Forest, was another victim of the robbery who said she regarded the parole as a miscarriage of justice and the "whitewashing" by Gov. Horner as "rank."

Howlett Upholds His Action.

"Who is there to tell me that the people of the state of Illinois would benefit more by keeping Maentanis in prison longer than three years and eight months?" said Howlett in defending the parole. "Maybe they would and maybe not. My own impression is that the convicts suffer most during the first three years—after that they become accustomed to prison life.

"If a convict is to be redeemed and restored to freedom it is well to do it before he becomes 'stir crazy.' They call our board soft hearted. I am not soft hearted. I think nothing of giving the maximum to any one deserving it.

"I get about 150 letters a month from convicts and their friends and I answer every letter. If a man appears to be deserving I recommend a rehearing. If his case is hopeless I tell him I can do nothing for him.

"I am at the Chicago office of the parole board every morning when not at Joliet or Springfield. I listen to the tearful pleas of mothers and wives. When a man deserves clemency I want to give it to him.

Calls Maentanis "Safe."

"I have no special recollection of the Maentanis case. I received several letters from his father, brother, and pastor. I looked into his case and thought he was deserving. Although he insisted he was innocent, we regarded him as we do all others—guilty. He was paroled on the idea that he had been punished enough and could safely be restored to liberty."

The law does not require parole board members to give all their time to the business of the board. Mr. Howlett said he divides his time between his board duties and his position as state deputy of the Knights of Columbus.

GIVE "SPECIAL CONSIDERATION"

BOY REFUSING FLAG SALUTE FILES SUIT TO REGAIN SCHOOL SEAT

Boston, Mass., Oct. 21.—(AP)—A legal battle seeking reinstatement in a Lynn school, from which he was expelled two weeks ago for refusing to salute the flag, was opened today by 8 year old Carleton B. Nichols Jr.

Objecting on religious grounds as a member of Jehovah's Witnesses, the boy, through his father, Carleton B. Nichols Sr., petitioned the Massachusetts Supreme court for a writ of mandamus to compel Mayor J. Fred Manning and "each and every misguided member" of the Lynn school committee to reinstate him.

Hearing is set for Monday. The elder Nichols paid a $25 fine today for disturbing a school session at which his son refused to pledge allegiance.

WINNER OF DERBY WILL FACE QUIZ IN GIRL'S DEATH

Saunders to Return to Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 22 [Tuesday].—(AP)—The Louisville Courier-Journal was advised early today by D. B. Headley of Baltimore that Willie [Smoky] Saunders, jocky who won the Kentucky Derby on Omaha last May, was on his way back to Louisville to answer questions regarding the highway slaying of Mrs. Evelyn Sliwinski. Baltimore police had been asked to hold Saunders, who rode at Churchill Downs last Saturday.

Headley, a nephew of Hal Price Headley of Lexington, Ky., turfman who holds Saunders' riding contract, said he reached Saunders by telephone and advised him that Louisville police wanted him for questioning.

Jocky Declines to Comment.

Saunders was quoted as saying he would return to Louisville and would arrive here "Thursday or Friday." Headley said the jocky did not comment on the information that Mrs. Agatha Mackinson, Louisville, had identified a photograph of Saunders as one of the two men who accompanied her and Mrs. Sliwinski to a roadhouse Saturday night.

The mangled body of Mrs. Sliwinski, 24 year old wife of a Louisville tailor, was found in the road Sunday morning.

The body had been run over by an automobile and bore evidences of a brutal beating.

Mrs. Mackinson, who voluntarily went to police headquarters today, told detectives that Mrs. Sliwinski was riding in the rear seat of an automobile with the man she identified from the photograph as Saunders.

Staggers Before Car.

In the front seat Mrs. Mackinson said, she was riding with another man whose description she gave officers. The other man, whose identity has not been established, Mrs. Mackinson told the officers, deliberately ran the automobile over Mrs. Sliwinski when she staggered in front of it.

Mrs. Mackinson said the men picked her up at a dance hall here Saturday night and that she called Mrs. Sliwinski to join the party. Mrs. Sliwinski later became ill in the car. One of the men became angry and dazed her with repeated punches, then threw her out of the car.

Mrs. Sliwinski staggered in front of the automobile and was run down, the police were told. The slayer drove five miles, then turned about, went back, and ran over his victim again, Mrs. Mackinson declared.

TRINITY CHURCH KEEPS LAND IN MIDDLE OF N. Y.

U. S. Supreme Court Turns Deaf Ear to Suit.

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Another of the manifold suits against Trinity church to recover lands of enormous value in the heart of New York City was decided today in favor of the church corporation. The United States Supreme court refused to interfere with a lower court decision holding that six heirs of an original owner had no case.

The land is question is in the midtown section of New York, bounded roughly on the north by Christopher street, on the south by Charlton, and on the east by 6th avenue. There are several blocks of business buildings in question. The property is part of the vast Trinity holdings of land valued at about 65 million dollars. It is more than a mile from Trinity church itself.

Brought by British Citizens.

The suit originally was brought by Canadian, Welsh and New Zealand citizens "for their own benefit and on behalf of all subjects of the king of England similarly situated." It claimed that the grant of Queen Anne in 1705 to Trinity did not include this parcel; that in fact, the parcel was some three [present] blocks north of the northernmost line of the Queen Anne grant. Maps more than 250 years old were features of the case in court evidence.

The plaintifs all claimed they were heirs of Thomas Hael, later known as Hall, who obtained title to the area in question in 1704, a year before the grant of Anne, and that Trinity leased the land for 100 years from a Robert Edwards in 1777. Edwards, they said, was a descendant of Hael and their common ancestor. In 1877, when the lease was up, they asserted, Trinity became merely a holdover tenant and had no legal title to the property.

Goes Back to 1636.

The dispute goes back even farther than the Queen Anne grant. This document, quoted to the court, mentions the north line "of the George Ryerse farm." The Ryerse farm was conveyed originally upon the first husband of the famous Anneke Jans, Jans Roelefsen, a son of the House of Orange, by the "Estates General of the United Netherlands and the Prince of Orange," in 1636. It was then sold by the heirs of Anneke Jans and her second husband, the Dominie Everardus Bogardus, who was drowned in 1647 on his way back to Holland, to the British colonial governor, Lovelace. It reverted to the British crown as a forfeit because of Lovelace's misconduct, and was conveyed in Anne's grant to Trinity. It was known, after its forfeit to the British crown, as the "King's farm," later the "Queen's farm," when Anne acceded.

Claim It Never Was Anne's.

The Hael heirs long have claimed that the land at issue in the suit decided today lies nearly a half mile north of this "Queen's farm," that Anne never had title to it to grant, that their ancestor, Hael, had an undisputed title to the piece a year before the Anne grant and that his descendant, Edwards, actually leased the land to Trinity.

Numerous suits and threats of suits have been brought by the heirs of Anneke Jans, who had eight children as the fruit of her two marriages. There are some sixty-two acres involved in the parcel which Anneke or her heirs was supposed to have conveyed to Gov. Lovelace. Most of these suits also are based on the claim that the original Jans acres were leased, rather than sold, to Trinity.

ESCORT IS HUNTED IN STRANGE DEATH OF YOUNG TEACHER

Leola, S. D., Oct. 21.—(AP)—A man seen escorting pretty Lela Halvorson, 24 year old school teacher, Saturday night was sought today in the investigation of her brutal slaying.

W. S. Gordon, superintendent of the state department of justice, said the girl, who had come from her home in Madison, S. D., to accept a position as rural substitute teacher here, had apparently been raped and strangled to death.

Her nude body was found early Sunday when Miss Martha Koppy, whose position Miss Halvorson was to have taken, entered the girl's hotel room about 11 o'clock.

Gordon expressed the belief that the girl had been killed about 11:30 a. m. Sunday, only a few hours after she arrived from Madison.

SKELETON NAVAL CONFERENCE TO MEET THIS YEAR

Will Observe Formalities of Treaties.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A naval conference will be held this year, but it will not be a full dress meeting with complete delegations from all states. Instead, THE TRIBUNE learned today, a meeting of ambassadors, with perhaps a few experts, will be called in London some time at the end of November or the beginning of December.

The chief purpose will be to satisfy the terms of the treaties calling for a meeting this year and to keep the conference alive for a few months until the time is more propitious for a full conference.

Talk About Natural Resources.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 21.—Eiji Amau, the foreign office spokesman, disclosed tonight that Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, in reply to the latest British naval conference proposal, brought up the question of redistribution of the world's natural resources.

"For some time," Amau said, "a number of writers, including several prominent men in actual service, have been propounding the idea that the world must consider the causes of war and try to eradicate them in order to maintain peace.

"For that purpose attention was naturally drawn to a satisfactory distribution of natural requisites for existence in each country. Such arguments have been expressed in many places, not alone in Japan."

Asked why this matter was brought up in Japan's reply on a naval conference proposal, he said: "The main purpose of a naval conference is to maintain peace, is it not?"

Amau inferred that such an idea has the backing of the Japanese people. He reiterated that Japan favors a plan which provides navies that shall be unable to attack, yet capable of defending its own nation.

LIBEL SUIT SEEN AS ATTEMPT TO MUZZLE PRESS

Action in Pennsylvania Smacks of Politics.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Charges that the New Deal in Pennsylvania is seeking to muzzle the press figure in a sensational suit for criminal libel instituted by the Democratic attorney general, Charles J. Margiotti, against the Philadelphia Inquirer, its president and general manager, Charles A. Tyler, and its editor, John T. Custis.

The suit is an episode of the bitter animosities engendered by the development of the Democratic New Deal in traditionally Republican Pennsylvania, which were fanned to white heat in the recent unsuccessful attempt of the New Dealers to scrap the present state constitution and are flaming anew in the current struggle over the election of the mayor of Philadelphia next month.

City Election New Deal Test.

The result of the mayoralty election will have an import reaching far beyond the boundaries of the city. Gov. George Earle has appealed for the election of the Democratic candidate in order that Democratic control of the city may, by the use of patronage, further the election next year of an overwhelmingly Democratic legislature to give approval to the innovation of the New Deal.

Mr. Farley, in his dual capacity of postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic national committee, is also promoting the election of the Democratic candiate because of the aid the city patronage and the prestige of capturing this congenitally Republican city would be to the realization of his fondest ambition: Putting Pennsylvania in the Democratic column in the presidential election. Pennsylvania has not given its electoral vote to a Democrat since 1856.

The Inquirer has been a thorn in the flesh of the Guffey-Earle machine ever since Mr. Earle was piloted into the governorship by the Democratic boss of the state, Senator Joseph F. Guffey. It has fought the New Dealers unremittingly and has exasperated and angered them beyond measure by defeating their projects with the power of publicity.

Proposes New Constitution.

Finally the Guffey-Earle machine played its trump card. It proposed and put through the legislature a proposal to call a convention to write a new state constitution which would give the New Dealers powers to accomplish undertakings in which they had been thwarted. The purpose was to implement the New Deal in the state in the manner that President Roosevelt has suggested the implementation of the New Deal in the nation by enabling amendment of the federal constitution.

With heavy broadsides the Inquirer swung into action against this proposal, which the newspaper asserted was a move toward delivering the state into the complete control of a band of political adventurers and loading it with debt for generations to come. The Inquirer led the fight which resulted in the overwhelming defeat of the New Dealers in the September referendum on the proposal to call a constitutional convention. The project was rejected by a majority of 250,000.

Then on Sept. 29 the Inquirer published an article in which it was asserted that law partners of the attorney general were seeking power of attorney to collect delinquent personal property taxes on a fee basis involving enormous prospective profits. The newspaper stated that the article was the result of a long and painstaking investigation.

Swears Out Libel Warant.

Attorney General Margiotti immediately denounced the article as false, malicious and libelous. He demanded a retraction and an apology. The Inquirer declined to accede to this demand, but offered the attorney general the use of its columns to make any statement he chose and challenged him to point out a single false statement or error in the article. He declined to avail himself of this privilege, but on Oct. 7 caused warants of arrest for criminal libel to be issued against the Inquirer and Messrs. Tyler and Custis.

The warants were issued, not in Philadelphia, where the Inquirer is published, but in Jefferson county, in the west end of the state. Jefferson is the home county of the attorney general, who thus explained his reason for bringing the suit in that jurisdiction:

"The article was false, malicious and criminally libelous. In order to vindicate my own reputation and that of the chief law officer of the commonwealth I have brought these charges against the Philadelphia Inquirer company, Charles A. Tyler, its president and general manager, and John T. Custis, its editor, in Jefferson county, where I was born and reared, where the people know me best and where the Inquirer has a considerable circulation."

Rushed to Early Trial.

The Inquirer accepted service and its officers were admitted to bail in the sum of $1,500 each. They are to be indicted by the Jefferson county grand jury on Oct. 28 and are to be rushed to trial that week, according to an announcement by District Attorney Robert Morris. The haste is due to a desire to exploit the trial for its effect on the Philadelphia mayoralty election.

The Inquirer branded the whole move as an assault by the Guffey-Earle machine on the freedom of the press and asserted that no attempt to muzzle its utterance would succeed. Senator Guffey and Gov. Earle denied they had anything to do with the institution of the suit, which they asserted was a purely personal concern of Mr. Margiotti.

"This action," said Editor Custis, "is a transparent attempt on the part of the Democratic state machine to intimidate the Inquirer, in the hope of stifling honest criticism of the state administration's acts and policies.

"That cannot be done.

"If these politicians think that by any such tactics they can wield a club over this newspaper they will find they are vastly mistaken.

"The Inquirer cannot be bulldozed or intimidated."

Answer in Editorial.

The Inquirer the day following the issuance of the warants published a first page editorial headed: "The Guffey-Earle Machine Can't Bulldoze the Inquirer," in which the suit was connected with the mayoralty election. Said the editorial:

"A desperate attempt to muzzle the Philadelphia Inquirer in the midst of a political campaign has been launched by the Guffey-Earle Democratic machine.

"The Inquirer, leading Republican newspaper of Pennsylvania, has not hesitated from the outset of the present Democratic régime at Harrisburg to point to the shortcomings of the Earle administration. It has not hesitated to oppose the forces now seeking to place control of this city's government in the hands of the greedy Democratic political machine.

"And so these politicians, led by Guffey and Earle, are trying to stifle this newspaper through the medium of a criminal libel suit growing out of a published article concerning certain operations of lawyers associated with Attorney General Margiotti.

Political Weapon Is Claim.

"Mr. Margiotti and his complaints regarding this article are being used by the Guffey-Earle machine as the instrument to strike back at the Inquirer because of its fearless espousal of the people's interests against those of a political clique seeking statewide dictatorship.

"Mr. Margiotti several days ago was offered an opportunity to make clear his position regarding the published article and any implications that he might have read into it. He was given the chance, just as any one else would be, to deny publicly the statements made in the article.

"But he did not deny them—either because he could not, or because he did not want to.

"Had he willed, he could have instituted proceedings, if not in Philadelphia, at least on neutral ground. But he chose to start action in his home county of Jefferson, where he has reason to believe his own interests in the matter might be better served.

"The whole Guffey-Earle maneuver in this suit smacks of petty terrorism. It represents as bold an effort to stamp upon the right of a free and untrammeled press as this commonwealth has ever seen.

"OF COURSE THE MOVE WILL FAIL!

Will Not Be Muzzled.

"If the Guffeys, the Earles, the Margiottis, and the rest of their ilk think they are going to muzzle the Inquirer for one moment THEY ARE GRAVELY MISTAKEN.

"This newspaper has never hesitated to criticize where criticism was needed; it has never compromised with intimidation or malicious attack in its determination to print the truth. AND IT NEVER WILL!

"The Inquirer will continue to print the facts and all the facts and will comment freely and frankly upon the facts whenever it believes comment is called for.

"THE GUFFEY-EARLE MACHINE WILL FIND THAT IT CANNOT MUZZLE THE INQUIRER. IT CANNOT FORCE THE INQUIRER TO PULL ITS PUNCHES.

"IT CANNOT BULLDOZE OR COERCE THE INQUIRER. IT CANNOT DESTROY THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS!"

NEED PRESIDENT LIKE CLEVELAND: REP. WADSWORTH

"No," to Be Watchword, He Declares.

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Only by the highest type of courage in finances by the next national administration may the country be saved from economic disaster, Representative James W. Wadsworth, Republican, of Geneseo, N. Y., said today before the National Economy league.

After describing the fiscal perils which beset the nation, he said:

"If we are to weather this storm and come out finally into the clear sunlight, the next administration at Washington must be imbued with and sustained by a quanty of courage of the kind that Grover Cleveland showed years ago.

Must Often Say "No."

"It must say 'No' emphatically to an infinite variety of unsound proposals.

"It must tread upon the toes of a great many people who have come to the belief that government owes them a living.

"It must hold back from every step toward repudiation or inflation, including the further cheapening of the dollar.

"It must carve expenditures to the bone and, in a persistent effort to balance the budget, it must at the same time increase taxes and tell the people why.

"It must abandon artificiality backed by force and asesrt bravely that economic law, the law of supply and demand, cannot be challenged by government successfully.

Must Face a Storm.

"In a word, the next administration must be willing to endure with level head a veritable torrent of abuse even to the extent of endangering its continuation in power for an additional four year term. Its members, from the chief executive down, must make up their minds that only by the employment of such courage and, if necessary, the sacrificing of themselves, may the country be saved."

"Who pays for all of this?" was the title of Mr. Wadsworth's speech, and he pointed out how impossible it is to impose any tax on the few which does not eventually react on the many.

BUSINESS, FARM PARITY TO BE AIM OF YOUNG G. O. P.

Iowa Meeting to Leave Planks in Abeyance.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 21.—(AP)—George Olmsted, national chairman of the Young Republican national committee, said today the national Young Republican meeting, which will be held here on Nov. 9, 10, and 11, will avoid outlining a definite farm plank "or any other plank."

"My contacts with Young Republican leaders lead me to believe they are agreed there must be parity of protection between industry and agriculture," Olmsted declared. "However, the time to write a program is at the national convention in 1936."

Hammill Plans New Race.

Co-incident with Olmsted's call of Young Republican leaders came a statement today from John Hammill, former Republican governor of Iowa and candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination won by Senator Lester J. Dickinson in 1930.

Hammill's friends recently said he is seriously considering again entering the lists against Dickinson, who has berated the New Deal—lock, stock, and barrel—including the AAA program. Dickinson already has announced he will again seek the senatorial nomination.

Hammill warned his party that "the man engaged in agriculture is going to be skeptical about swapping what he has for a promise.

Must Offer Logical Program.

"You cannot," he declared, "elect a President in 1936, or nominate a senator or governor in the June primary on the slogan, 'Save the constitution,' unless you tell the people just exactly what you intend to establish when you have saved the constitution.

"Industry has been protected by the tarif and aided by taxes. Why not recognize that agriculture, which produces substantially all the new wealth, is entitled to the same wholesome treatment?"

GOVERNOR CALLS SPECIAL SESSION TO OPEN MONDAY

Social Security to Be 1st on Calendar.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner announced today that the legislature will be convened in special session at 8 p. m. next Monday. The summons to the assemblymen will be sent tomorrow, and copies of the call outlining the topics to be dealt with will be mailed to each member later in the week.

Keeping silent as to just what he will permit the legislature to consider, the governor indicated that social security will be the principal subject. Amendments to the old age pension law will be primary, and new bills permitting participation by the state in federal grants for blind relief and dependent children in a secondary position.

Silent on Drivers' License.

Whether the insurance code and the drivers' license law were included could not be learned. Much sentiment has been found in favor of licensing drivers due to mounting auto deaths. A similar bill was under consideration at the regular session last spring, but failed to pass because of downstate opposition.

Insurance Director Ernest Palmer was the principal drafter of the insurance code. It passed the house, but failed in the senate. Palmer has been urging the governor to give it another chance in the special session.

Unless Mr. Horner disregards the advice of leading Democratic assemblymen who conferred with him ten days ago, unemployment insurance will not be included. Realizing that compliance with the federal provisions of the social security act would necessitate imposition of a 1 per cent pay roll tax on employers to pay for the insurance, these leaders advised the governor that "anything controversial" should not be included.

See Industrial Opposition.

Opposition to the tax is expected to come from industrial organizations in the state and the Democrats, their eyes apparently on the 1936 primaries, showed reluctance to being given credit for increasing taxes so close to election time.

Some of those who met with the governor were reported to have advised him to permit legislation reducing the sales tax from 3 to 2 per cent, but it was understood that Mr. Horner refused to consider it.

The governor hopes that the session will not meet longer than ten days or two weeks, but the prospects for such early adjournment were not considered good. Two months is held by some to be the probable length.

Take Pluto Water For

CONSTIPATION LIVER AND GALL BLADDER TROUBLES

Constipation, liver, gall bladder troubles do come together—often when you're constipated, biliary drainage is not normal either. So ordinary laxatives temporarily relieving constipation still leave you feeling terrible. But Pluto Water (with amazing double action) helps all these troubles at same time. Gives a sure, gentle flush in an hour or less. Stimulates gall bladder, liver to normal, "free flowing" action. So relief is quick, thorough. For years, over 50,000 doctors have used or recommended Pluto. So do as doctors do when dull, listless from constipation, liver or gall bladder troubles. Take the tasteless non-habit-forming dose—1/5 Pluto, 4/5 glass hot water. Two hundred million bottles of Pluto have been used. The safest, most economical way. 25c and 50c at all drug stores.

SWEITZER TRIAL PUT OFF AGAIN; A WEEK'S DELAY

Defense Wins Fight for a Bill of Particulars.

Robert M. Sweitzer, deposed county treasurer, who is accused of withholding $414,129 in county clerk's funds from Michael J. Flynn, his successor in the clerk's office, will go to trial next Monday before Criminal Court Judge John C. Lewe. This was definitly decided when the case was called for trial yesterday and Sweitzer's attorneys obtained their seventh continuance.

The delay was made necessary when Judge Lewe granted the defense motion for a bill of particulars.

"I understood the preliminary motions had all been settled and the trial was to start today," said Judge Lewe when the defense demanded that the state supply the bill of particulars.

Insists State Specify Charges.

"We are ready and anxious to go ahead," said Attorney I. Harvey Levinson, a defense lawyer, "but we must have the state specify the charges. They are too general. More than 3,000 employés had access to these books and records" [of the county clerk's office].

Assistant State's Attorney Leslie E. Salter, former special assistant to the United States attorney general, who prosecuted Samuel Insull in federal court and later resigned to enter the state service, said:

"The defendant, Sweitzer, knows more about the case to start with than the state will ever know. By his own records he is short half a million dollars."

"That was a good political speech," said Benedict Short, trial attorney for Sweitzer, "but I see no reason for setting aside the rules of practice simply because Robert Sweitzer is on trial. There is no great public clamor for this trial. What difference does it make if Sweitzer is in jail before or after Christmas?"

Short Shuts Off Salter.

Mr. Salter started to reply and Short cried:

"You can't outshout me. We're ready for trial. As soon as these men get into the state's attorney's office they become legal sadists. Bob Sweitzer's whole life is on trial here. His liberty is at stake. We just want to know the particulars."

After further argument the judge granted the defense motion. The prosecutors then said that the audit of the clerk's office was their bill of particulars and that Sweitzer had a copy of this.

"I can't find an auditor in Chicago who understands this audit," said Levinson.

It was ordered by the court that any further motions by the defense must be made next Thursday.

The west wall of the courtroom looked like a library, with more than 100 volumes stacked there in preparation for the trial. Special guards have been posted over these books. If the defense insists on technical proof of the book contents the trial will be a long one.

GIRL CONFESSES SLAYING SWEEPS WINNER IN FIGHT

New Orleans, La., Oct. 21.—(AP)—A pretty 22 year old blonde hostess of a restaurant and beer parlor and her bartender friend were held here tonight in the slaying of Rolland C. Steele, 24, pleasure seeking Alabaman who recently won $40,000 in the Irish sweepstakes.

City Detectives Arthur Leininger and Albert Gerlinger made public a statement in which they said the girl, booked as Elva Cross, alias Elsie Smith, told of stabbing Steele in the back to protect the bartender in a butcher-knife fight.

The officers said she told them Steele had first swung a butcher knife at her and then attacked her bartender friend, who said he was Henry Langhauser, 33. They considered filing formal charges against the girl tonight, detaining the man at the same time.

According to Charles W. Wheeler of Greensboro, Ala., uncle of Steele, Steele came to New Orleans with him several days ago on a pleasure trip after winning $40,000 on the sweepstakes and planned to have a good time before settling down in Alabama on a farm and marrying his childhood sweetheart.

They went to a night club for entertainment Saturday night and then retired to their hotel, Wheeler said, when Steele persisted on going out again for "one more beer" and met his death in the stabbing tragedy in the saloon.

PROGRESS REPORTED IN REVISING COUNTY TREASURER'S OFFICE

County Commissioner Peter M. Kelly announced yesterday that the county board is making definite progress toward installation of a new accounting system in the office of County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill. Mr. Kelly is chairman of the committee of county officials appointed to formulate plans for the new system.

Several concerns engaged in the business of installing accounting systems and machinery have been consulting with the committee and making surveys of the treasurer's office, said Kelly. They have been asked to submit their propositions to the county board by next Monday.

"The county board realizes the need and urgency for revision of the system in the treasurer's office," Commisioner Kelly declared.

NORRIS DENIES HE'S CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Senator George W. Norris stilled one rumor about his political future today, but left unanswered the question of whether he will seek re-election in 1936.

The 74 year old Republican independent denied reports that he would seek the governorship of Nebraska after 10 years in the house and 22 in the senate.

The statement revived rumors that Norris would retire from public life.

STEADY SHOWER OF 1936 FUNDS FALLS ON G. O. P.

Many Contributions from South, Getz Reports.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Returning to his Chicago office yesterday after an absence of several days, George F. Getz, treasurer of the Republican national committee, discovered that a steady shower of campaign contributions had been falling on his desk.

"They may be small," he said, "but, like the leaves, they show which way the wind is blowing."

Treasurer Getz said he was highly pleased to see proof that throughout the country there is an increasing desire among men in all walks of life to give real aid in the big battle of 1936.

All Are Voluntary Gifts.

"We have not solicited donations either large or small," he said, "and all the contributions that have come in have been voluntary in every way, sent only because the sender wants to do his bit.

"It is true they are small amounts and add up slowly, but if $50,000 comes in I'd much prefer to see it come in $10 contributions from 5,000 men and women than merely to receive one donation of $50,000 from an individual.

Donations from New Sources.

"The early voluntary contributions not only are significantly numerous, but there are two other facts we have discovered that must have an important meaning. One is that there is considerable money coming in from the south, where there seldom is any widespread Republican spirit of that sort. The other fact is that some of the money is coming from states which have never given before."

Harrison E. Spangler, national Republican committeeman from Iowa, who as chairman of the Grass Roots conference and director of the Republican western headquarters, announced the establishment of his base of operations at the Palmer house last week, is now busy organizing the headquarters. Several additional rooms were taken yesterday and the several divisions being set up are expected to be ready for business late this week.

SHUN FACTIONALISM, LEADERS URGE G. O. P. WOMEN OF ILLINOIS

"Selfish, factional interests" must be forgotten if the Republican party is to regain power in the 1936 elections, members of the Illinois League of Republican Women, meeting at the Morrison hotel, were told yesterday. State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg and Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman for Illinois, spoke.

Urging the women to use their votes to restore Illinois to "its once proud position as a sovereign state," free from coercion by the federal government, Mr. Schnackenberg told of the growth of sentiment against the Henry Horner administration.

He said election frauds in which it is estimated that 300,000 votes were cast illegally at the last election in Illinois, are "the greatest menace to popular government," and yet "Gov. Horner has piously turned his back on every effort to wipe out such corruption."

Mrs. Baur urged the women to remember that work in the precincts was more important than the stimulation of club meetings.

ELECTION CLERK (ALSO A BANDIT) IS SENT TO JAIL

Gets 11 Months for Vote Frauds in 1934.

Two election officials were sentenced to eleven months in the county jail yesterday when Judge Win G. Knoch of Naperville, sitting in the county court here, found them guilty of contempt of court for frauds committed in the 18th precinct of the 26th ward during the April 10, 1934, primaries.

The men sentenced are William Babuck, 25 years old, 1538 School street, Democratic clerk, and Amerigo Agosto, 32 years old, 1734 East 72d street, Democratic judge.

Babuck is under bonds of $75,000 on charges of robbery. He appeared in court heavily bandaged and supporting himself with crutches. He was shot on Sept. 18 by a police telephone operator, whom he attempted to rob. Later he was identified as having taken part in numerous holdups which occurred while he was at liberty on bond on the election fraud charge. Sam Millice, an official of Babuck's precinct in the election of Nov. 6, 1934, also is held in $75,000 bonds charged with robbery.

Lawyer Pleads for Leniency.

Babuck's attorney, George Crane, pleaded with Judge Knoch for leniency for his client on the ground that Babuck would probably get a long prison sentence on the robbery charges. Crane asked that Babuck be sent to jail only for as much time as he could serve before his trial in the Criminal court.

Judge Knoch sentenced the two defendants to serve one year but gave them credit for the month they had spent in jail while awaiting the vote fraud trial, their actual sentences being eleven months.

"From the oral evidence and exhibits," the judge said, "it is highly doubtful if there was any real count of ballots in this precinct at all. Our present form of government is entirely dependent on elections. If the same methods were used in all precincts as in this one there would be no real elections."

"Spoils System" Attacked.

The "spoils system of politics" was deplored before a meeting of the City club in the Hotel Sherman yesterday by Floyd M. Saxon, an unsuccessful candidate for alderman of the 7th ward last spring, and Attorney Samuel J. Andalman.

Saxon charged that his political opponents had employed "forgery, perjury and conspiracy" to prevent him from competing with the "Democratic machine." He asserted that it was "as much a patriotic duty of every citizen to help clean up rotten politics as to go to war, and it's probably just as dangerous."

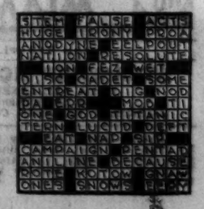
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



BAKERS ASSAIL AAA FOR 'PASSING BUCK' ON PRICES

Deliver Biting Reply to Veiled Charges.

A tart rejoinder to a brain truster's charge that the 38th annual convention of the American Bakers' association had, as one of the objects of its meeting, a plan to increase the price of bread, was sent to Washington last night by unanimous vote of the convention. The bakers are in session at the Hotel Sherman.

The letter was addressed to Donald E. Montgomery, consumers' counsel for the Agricultural Adjustment administration, who wrote to Henry Stude of Chicago, president of the association, making the insinuation that the bakers planned the price boost.

In reply, Stude and the resolutions committee wrote as follows: "In answer to your letter, your fifteen questions are all like the proverbial question, 'Have you stopped beating your wife?'

An Erroneous Assumption.

"All of your questions are predicated on an erroneous assumption that we are assembled here to raise the price of bread one cent. This is not so. This convention is not called for the purpose of increasing the price of bread.

"Nor has any convention in the 38 years of this association's existence concerned itself in fixing the price of bread. The price of bread is a completely localized matter subject to widely varying factors. Your letter assumes that we are meeting to do something illegal as well as impossible. It is erroneous and unfair in its implications."

The bakers resented the New Deal's attempt to place the blame on them for bread price increases in some sections of the country. President Stude declared that the increases should rightfully be blamed on AAA policies, which raised the price of ingredients.

Griffith Slaps New Deal.

Other slaps at the New Deal were taken by other speakers before the 1,500 delegates during the day. One of them was delivered by Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics of the Big Ten conference, who declared that the present national administration is attempting to formulate rules of competition under which "only the incompetent can win."

"Our old idea of competition was," said Maj. Griffith, "that if a man, because of his thrift, honesty, industry and intelligence, is more successful than another who is less thrifty, less industrious, less intelligent, the first man is not considered an enemy of society. The only question asked was whether he won fairly?

"Now the new idea, as it pertains to competition, has been very clearly explained by President Roosevelt, Prof. Tugwell, Secretary Wallace, and others who apparently have become enamored of the Russian collectivist scheme.

Merely Booby Prizes.

"These men are trying to make rules under which only the incompetent can win. There will be only booby prizes, because success to these rules makers is anathema. The American people know that the only way we can recoup our losses is through hard work, economy, and thrift. They know that it cannot be done by the herb venders, the witch doctors and the miracle men who tell us that all we have to do is to destroy some more property if we want to be happy and successful."

George A. Sloan, former president of the Cotton Textile institute, told the convention that if regulatory legislation is needed at all in industry, it should be self-regulation with industry proposing the rules subject to government veto.

2 TEACHERS LOSE POINT IN WAR ON RETIREMENT ACT

Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday upheld the right of the board of education to enforce a new state law retiring teachers over the age of 65 years when he sustained a demurrer to a petition to restrain the board from carrying out the act. The suit was filed by John E. Groves, teacher of mathematics at Crane Technical High school, who is an attorney, on behalf of himself and Mary E. Stanton, head assistant at the Ericsson elementary school. Groves is 69 years old and Miss Stanton is 66. Judge Finnegan allowed Groves 30 days in which to file an amended bill in an effort to get around the demurrer, which was filed by Attorney Ralph Condee, representing the school board.

NEW APPARATUS CORRECTS FUEL MIX IN AIRPLANES

Automatic Control Aid to Efficiency.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Two of the new devices developed by aviation engine manufacturers to increase efficiency and power of their motors are the automatic fuel mixture control and the exhaust gas analyzer. In conjunction with the new constant speed controlable pitch propellers, these gadgets, according to aviation experts, are helping to make the new high powered airplane motors virtually 100 per cent reliable and more economical in operation.

The economy results from reducing fuel consumption by 10 or 12 per cent through proper regulation of the carburetor mixture of gasoline and air. This saving not only cuts fuel bills but increases the pay load or lengthens the cruising range.

A Special Aerial Problem.

Carburetor adjustments in automobiles become necessary only a few times in a year because the motor operates in air which varies little in density and in temperatures which change only seasonally. In one flight, however, an airplane engine must cope with heavy atmospheric pressures and perhaps hot weather close to the ground, then with the thin air and frigid temperatures of high altitudes.

For years motor users have been well aware that engines give more power on less fuel if the fuel mixture is kept correct, and that they can operate for longer periods without overhauling. In an effort to attain reasonably proper mixtures, airplane pilots worked out a rough system of comparing cylinder head temperatures and propellor revolutions.

If the temperatures ran higher than normal and the "revs" began to fall off, the pilot increased the quantity of gasoline. At once, the power increased the cylinder head temperatures fell and the "revs" climbed back to normal.

Improve on Rough Methods.

Because these manual adjustments were far from satisfactory, engineers sought an automatic device which would constantly maintain the optimal mixture under varying conditions. Experimenters of Pratt and Whitney and of Curtiss-Wright worked out such mechanisms.

In both these devices, the control is based on a pressure drum which, as it expands or contracts under various air pressures, opens or closes the carburetor jet, producing a mixture neither lean nor rich.

Practice disclosed, however, that this apparatus was not quite so sensitive as might be desired. Accordingly, physicists developed the exhaust analyzer which connects with an indicator dial and shows whether the automatic mixture control is functioning faultlessly. The exhaust analyzer relies on the principle of varying conductivity in platinum wire when in contact with different gases.

Meter Shows the Situation.

A "bridge" or "balance" is established. One side of the bridge then is exposed to moist air which gives a known ratio of conductivity, and the other to the exhaust gases from the motor. The bridge becomes overbalanced and allows an electrometer to register on a meter.

By calculating the scale of the meter in advance, it is thus possible to determine the proper mixture ratio directly from the burned gases of the exhaust. When this device is used in conjunction with the automatic mixture control, a manual master control of the mixture is added, enabling the pilot to make fine adjustments when these are indicated as necessary.

7. Underground pipe work—$72,216.

8. Hydraulic fill work to "patch" declivities on the island—$278,196.

May Conclude Lease Today.

The Exposition authority is to acquire the 180 acres for its Fair by lease from the Chicago park district. Robert J. Dunham, president of the park board and state administrator of the WPA, said last night that the lease very likely would be signed today, renting the land for 25 years for "$1 and other consideration."

The park board's view of the matter is doubtless voiced by Ralph H. Burke, deputy WPA administrator, in his remark that the six million dollar groundwork "will be a permanent benefit to Burnham park, regardless of whether buildings are constructed."

ANOTHER $6,400,000

Beside the Chicago Fair grant, Controler General McCarl released yesterday $6,416,296 in WPA money for 173 other Illinois projects. Since Saturday the Chicago WPA office has handled releases on 396 projects involving $39,379,496.

The second largest single Chicago item yesterday was $542,123 for a general survey of street conditions to be carried on in conjunction with the improvement of 1,000 miles of city streets for which $32,543,000 has been granted. The Chicago board of education got two grants, totaling $657,697, for school renovation. Other grants here were:

Home for blind at 1900 Marshall boulevard, transcribing books into English Braille system, $5,100; Illinois Eye and Ear Infirmary at 904 West Adams street, repairs, $11,290; county jail and Criminal Court building, repairs, $11,220; city, repair of maps and plotting surveyors' notes, $14,650, and city, inspection and adjustment of house numbers on 410,000 buildings, $8,185.

Projects in Suburbs Approved.

Suburban project approvals included:

RIVER FOREST—Improvement and protection of 33,000 acres of forest preserve, $699,272.

FOREST PARK—Construction of a new park, $247,770; rehabilitation of water system, $60,030.

CRETE TOWNSHIP—Roads, bridges, and culvert improvements, $11,008.

BROOKFIELD—Repairs and extensions, Gross school, $8,415.

THORNTON TOWNSHIP—Road repairing, $18,367.

EAST HAZELCREST—Road repairs, $19,957.

GLENWOOD—Street and drainage improvements, $2,004.

CALUMET CITY—Construction of a concrete bridge over Thorn creek at 167th street, $19,856.

Mr. Dunham, WPA administrator for Illinois, has power to give priority to projects in localities where relief clients are to be transferred to the WPA pay rolls. At a conference with Mayor Kelly yesterday WPA officials decided to push parts of Chicago's $11,533,000 sewer project which would afford much immediate hand labor.

Because of curtailed federal funds the Illinois Emergency Relief commission will close on Nov. 2 a relief shelter and the welfare stations at 5716 Armitage avenue and in Elmwood Park in the expectation that WPA work will care for the clients affected.

WALLACE EXPECTS MODIFICATION OF HOT POTATO ACT

Gets Another Threat to Disregard It.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Changes in the hot potato control act by the next congress was predicted today by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. The prediction was made in answer to a fresh criticism of the act.

"There is every reason to think, if I may judge from comments by congressmen who are close to potato growers, that the potato law will be considerably modified by congress next January," Wallace said.

Gets Letter from Farmer.

The observation came in reply to a letter from an unnamed Pennsylvania potato farmer. Wallace quoted the farmer as writing:

"You had better get an appropriation to build more jails instead of trying to appropriate money to enforce the potato law, which I and thousands of others will set aside. We are not going to let a few boneheads tells us what we shall plant or raise."

The potato act, which rigidly sets potato quotas, provides for fines and jail sentences for consumers and producers of bootleg potatoes. Shortly after its passage Wallace announced that he would exert every effort to avoid enforcement of the law.

Called on the Carpet.

The announcement made Wallace the target of criticism at a hearing, called by the Agricultural Adjustment administration, to consider voluntary crop control as a means of evading the act. Senator Josiah W. Bailey and Representative Linday Warren, both of North Carolina, were cheered by a delegation of farmers when they charged Wallace was attempting to nullify an act of congress which he was bound to carry out under his oath of office.

As a result of the demonstration Wallace directed the course of the hearing from nullification of the act to consideration of ameliatory amendments. He modified his position against enforcement and said he would seek funds to enable him to carry out the law. Funds for enforcement are being withheld as the result of the defeat of the third deficiency bill in the filibuster which closed congress.

Spanish Slayer Married Before Going to Death

GRANADA, Spain, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Manuel Vargas, a convicted slayer who is to be executed at 7 a. m. tomorrow in a garrote [iron collar closed by screws], was married today in the prison chapel in order to make his child legitimate. Vargas was still hopeful of a last minute commutation and ate a hearty meal tonight.

NO HUMAN EYE HAS EVER SEEN the shaving edge of today's Gillette "Blue Blade." Only a beam of light, cast along its keen edges, can measure the incredible sharpness that brings you one quick, easy shave after another. Try the Gillette "Blue Blade."

Reputable merchants give you what you ask for. In stores where substitution is practised—insist on Gillette "Blue Blades."

GILLETTE BLUE BLADES

[A FABLE WITH A MORAL FOR YOU]

A man got into a legal tangle. He looked about for someone to handle his case. His logical choice was a lawyer who was noted for his ability and experience. But he said: "I'll get Doctor New-Comer. He did a neat job on my appendix last year and his fee wasn't stiff." So he persuaded the doctor to act as his counsel. The good "Doc," not being experienced in matters of this sort, overlooked a few important technicalities and lost the decision.

HE LET HIS DOCTOR PLEAD HIS CASE
. . . and he lost

WHEN you want sound advice, expert treatment, or economical service, get it through the man or the company who has had years of successful experience in giving the kind of advice, treatment or service you need. That's common sense. It is applicable now to millions of people throughout the country . . . perhaps to you.

Let's say you are going to buy a new car . . . a new oil burner . . . a new refrigerator . . . a fleet of trucks for your business, or an engine for your factory. HOW ARE YOU GOING TO FINANCE YOUR PURCHASE?

Time payment financing dates back many years. It is a highly specialized business requiring specially trained employees. It calls for a business man's knowledge of the article being purchased; a banker's knowledge of finance; an insurance actuary's knowledge of probabilities; a lawyer's knowledge of legal rights and obligations; and above all an expert personnel, familiar with and considerate in handling credit and collection problems. Only then can both the buyer and the seller be thoroughly protected.

When you are offered a new plan of time payment financing, by a company or institution new to the business, think carefully before you accept it. Lack of experience tends to create difficulties and embarrassments. You can't afford to experiment. Plans that seem cheap at the outset may prove costly in the end. It has taken experts many years to perfect the economical, safe system of operation that has made Commercial Credit Company an outstanding leader. But today, its reputation, experience and personnel guarantee your protection from annoyance, humiliation and even material loss.

For twenty-three years it has been helping millions to better and happier living. You can pay for a car, refrigerator, oil burner, engine or other needed equipment out of current income or earnings, at the lowest cost consistent with the complete service and kind of protection the Official Commercial Credit Plan gives you.

So, buy what you want and need . . . for your home . . . for your business. But bear one thing always in mind. In making arrangements to pay for purchases, insist on a financing plan backed by a company of long experience in nationwide operation. Tell your dealer you want the Official Commercial Credit Plan. Insist upon it when you buy on time.

HOW COMMERCIAL CREDIT COMPANY SERVES BUYER AND SELLER

Commercial Credit Company purchases current open accounts receivable, notes, and instalment lien obligations from responsible Manufacturers, Distributors and Dealers. Financing plans are provided to cover the time payment sale of automobiles, refrigerators, oil burners, engines, machinery and equipment, air conditioning units, heating plants, store and office fixtures, boats and a score of other such broad classifications, including hundreds of individual products.

In addition to financing wholesale and retail purchases of merchandise, Commercial Credit Company offers valuable special services to industrial concerns including the purchase of current open accounts receivable, notes, instalment lien obligations and financial assistance in the replacement of fixtures, machinery or other important equipment.

Founded in 1912 with $300,000 capital, Commercial Credit Company is today one of the largest institutions of its kind. It operates through more than 2,200 employees in 154 local offices in the United States and Canada, and is owned by nearly 15,000 stockholders.

With more than $45,000,000 capital and surplus, and a volume of more than $450,000,000 for the last twelve months, it offers large resources to promote local industrial activity.

HAPSBURG CAUSE HIT BY MEMOIRS OF HEIR'S WIDOW

Death of Archduke in '89 Called Suicide.

VIENNA, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Monarchists saw their cause weakened today for the second time in a week, with publication in Germany of the memoirs of a former Hapsburg princess in which she recounted her version of the death of her royal husband and his alleged sweetheart—a scandal of 1889 which has never been fully explained.

The widow, former Princess Stephanie, asserted her husband, Crown Prince Rudolph, and the beautiful Baroness Marie Vetsera, whose bullet pierced bodies were found in the royal hunting lodge at Mayerling, died as the result of a suicide pact.

Didn't Want to Die Alone.

Monarchists considered that publication of the memoirs, which they felt cast a bad reflection on the Hapsburg family, was a blow to their hopes of restoration of the Hapsburgs, coming as it did on the heels of removal from the Austrian cabinet of ministers Emil Fey and Josef Reither, both pro-Hapsburgs.

The 73 year old Stephanie, former Belgian princess who now is the wife of Prince Lonjay of Hungary, related that Rudolph, heir to the throne, associated with many women, plotted political moves and threatened suicide.

"He didn't want to die alone," she wrote, "and Vetsera loved him so blindly she went with him."

She said she had requested Emperor Franz Josef, father of Rudolph, to intercede, but he refused.

PLANNED POLITICAL COUP.

Stories of the deaths of Rudolph and Marie have been many and varied. At first the royal family merely announced Rudolph had committed suicide in his hunting box. Then it became known Marie had died of a gunshot wound by his side. It was never revealed just how the crown prince died.

In 1931 Dr. Friedrich Marx of Cologne published an article purporting to show that a rival for the love of Baroness Vetsera killed Rudolph.

Earlier, Countess Marie von Larisch, an Austrian, published "My Past" in London, in which she said she had brought the lovers together a few days before their death. She declared the actual facts of the death were only a matter of conjecture, but intimated there was political intrigue afoot and Archduke John of Tuscany had planned a coup with Rudolph. To uphold her theory, she pointed to the disappearance of Archduke John shortly afterward. He was reported to have gone to South America.

Valet Kept Secret.

Johann Loschek, former valet of the crown prince, died in February, 1932, at the age of 87, without telling what he knew to American journalists who reportedly offered him large sums for his story.

The valet had sealed a parcel containing an onyx ash tray owned by Rudolph, shortly after the tragedy. On the ash tray was written in mauve ink, in the handwriting of Baroness Marie, "rather revolver. Not poison. Revolver is more certain."

Loschek is reported to have told his secret to his son before he died.

An Austrian physician, Hans von Tietdjke, who died in 1932 at San Andres, Colombia, was reported to have spoken, just before death, of the Mayerling mystery and to have intimated he was "shielding another higher up."

The present badge has been in use for 40 years and has been adopted by several suburban fire departments. Corrigan asked Corporation Counsel Hodes to have the new badges copyrighted so that there will be no confusion between his men and suburban firemen. The new badges are chromium plated with "Chicago Fire Dept." in black enamel and the badge number in copper numerals. The city seal appears in the center.

COURT GRANTS EDITOR LIGGETT VENUE CHANGE

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Walter W. Liggett, Minneapolis editor charged with gross immorality, today was granted a change of venue from Hennepin [Minneapolis] to Ramsey county [St. Paul].

The order was signed by Judge Paul W. Guilford. It further directed that the case, which involves a 19 year old Austin, Minn., girl, and which Liggett charges is a political "frame-up," be brought to trial immediately.

Liggett asked the transfer last week on the ground that the case had been brought solely to silence attacks made by his newspaper, Midwest America, on Farmer-Labor officials. Because these attacks have been directed against Hennepin county officials, including Prosecuting Attorney E. J. Goff, Liggett declared he was convinced he could not obtain a fair trial in the county. Liggett has demanded Gov. Floyd B. Olson's removal from office.

SUPREME COURT TEST OF COTTON LAW DEMANDED

Georgia Governor Files Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, bitter New Deal critic, succeeded today in hailing before the United States Supreme court three cabinet members who have to explain why the New Deal cotton control laws should not be passed upon by the court at once.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, and Revenue Commissioner Guy T. Helvering are cited as defendants by Gov. Talmadge in his attack on the constitutionality of the Bankhead cotton control plan.

The Supreme court ruled today these three cabinet officers and Helvering must explain to the court on Nov. 11 why Gov. Talmadge on behalf of the state of Georgia should not be allowed to file an original suit in the Supreme court testing the constitutionality of the New Deal cotton program.

Affirms Wisconsin Decision.

The Supreme court also ruled today that it would not review the decision of the Wisconsin state Supreme court which had held the state's chain store tax unconstitutional, thus in effect affirming the decision. The court also refused to review the decision of the federal court which had upheld the bankruptcy proceedings against the defunct Detroit Bankers company, a holding company for the old First National Bank of Detroit.

Attorneys for Thomas J. Mooney, California radical, appeared before the court for the second time at this session, asking that the court reconsider its decision last week not to take the Mooney case out of the hands of the California state Supreme court.

Talmadge Complaint Filed.

Gov. Talmadge, through the Georgia attorney general, M. J. Yeomans, has already filed with the Supreme court the bill of complaint in which he urges the unconstitutionality of the Bankhead cotton control system. The bill was accompanied by a petition asking that it be received by the court. Wallace. Morgenthau, Cummings, and Helvering, the officials charged with administering the law, are now given an opportunity to show on Nov. 11 why they believe the bill of complaint should not be received.

Because the state of Georgia owns tracts of land in Baldwin and Tattnall counties, Talmadge is seeking to take court action with the state in the rôle of a cotton producer.

He charges that the state will suffer "irreparable injury" from the operation of the New Deal control law.

Nine grounds on which the Bankhead law is allegedly unconstitutional are urged by Attorney General Yeomans in his bill of complaint. He declared that the law is a usurpation of the powers reserved to the states, that the tax on excess cotton production is a penalty and not a tax for raising revenues, that raising and primary marketing of cotton are not interstate commerce, that the tax is not uniform or in proportion to population, and that the law deprives persons of property without the due process of law.

Refuses to Sign Up.

"Complainant has refused to sign the unconstitutional, illegal, and arbitrary rules and regulations set up under said law or to assent to the terms thereof," Talmadge says in his bill, "complainant, therefore, under the terms of the law, cannot market or dispose of its cotton.

"The so-called tax is simply a penalty exacted to compel obedience to the unconstitutional scheme to control the production of cotton in the United States."

Illegal delegation of legislative authority, the grounds which were fatal to the NRA, are also charged by Gov. Talmadge, who points out that Secretary Wallace is empowered to determine the exact rate of the tax.

HITS FARM LAW

FEDERAL JUDGE J. E. MAJOR.

FEDERAL JUDGES UPSET 2D FARM MORTGAGE LAW

Declare Measure Violates Due Process Clause.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Congress' second measure to create a farm mortgage moratorium was held unconstitutional in the southern Illinois Judicial district today by Federal Judges Charles G. Briggle and J. Earl Major.

In an opinion delivered by Judge Major the revamped moratorium section of the "conciliation" measure was held to deprive mortgage holders of full faith and credit in the decrees of state courts and to take property without due process of law.

The judges found, in effect, that the amendment adopted in August reducing the moratorium period from five to three years is no more constitutional than the original measure invalided last spring by the Supreme court.

Language Called Inept.

"It is," they stated in the opinion, "argued by the debtor [William W. Young, Fulton county] that the second provision of this paragraph gives the mortgagee the right to demand a sale of the mortgaged premises at any time after the court takes jurisdiction and therefore meets the constitutional objections pointed out by the Supreme court in the Radford case.

"With this reasoning we are not in accord. To place such a construction on the language of paragraph 3 would do violence to the whole purpose of the act. Neither do we think that the congressional debates on the subject lend support to any such theory. While the language of the act is inept and uncertain it undoubtedly was the purpose of congress to give the secured creditor the right to demand a public sale of the mortgaged property only when the preceding provisions had expended their force.

Cites Due Process.

"We conclude that the act in question destroys the right of the mortgagee to determine when a sale of the mortgaged premises may be had, subject only to the discretion of the court; and destroys the right during default to control the property subject to the discretion of the court and to have the rents and profits collected by a receiver for the satisfaction of the debt.

"These are property rights acquired by the mortgagee and cannot be taken from him without due process of law."

Young's farm was sold in foreclosure last June to J. W. Chapman and other holders of an overdue $10,000 note after his original petition for relief was dismissed when the Supreme court rendered its decision on the moratorium.

U. S. MUST KEEP PACIFIC WATCH, DERN DECLARES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 21.—George H. Dern, United States secretary of war, who arived here today aboard the U. S. S. Chester, declared that America's responsibility for guaranteeing the protection of the Philippine Islands through the ten year period of tutelage for independence precluded any withdrawal of the United States from the western Pacific.

Secretary Dern denied there have been any discussions with Japanese military leaders on the subject of guaranteeing Philippine neutrality in the event of war in the Pacific. He denied also that there has been any discussion pertaining to the forthcoming London naval conference and other far eastern issues.

He said his trip to China was merely for sightseeing.

SENATE SNOOPER IN MAGILL CASE SECRETLY FIRED

Agent Who Headed 'Staf' Here Out 3 Weeks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—An inquisitor for the senate lobby investigating committee, who had been under fire for employing Russian terrorist tactics in snooping into the affairs of an organization of investors for the charged purpose of halting protests against New Deal policies, was secretly fired three weeks ago.

This was disclosed today as Dr. Hugh S. Magill of Chicago, president of the American Federation of Investors, asserted he had been "annoyed, harassed and threatened" by senate lobby investigators when he refused to surrender personal and private correspondence for use in the inquiry into the battle over the Wheeler-Rayburn utility holding company bill.

The charge was made in a letter to all members of congress which set forth Magill's reasons for defying the committee by refusing to turn over the material demanded by the investigators.

Chief Snooper Is Ousted.

The discharged agent is C. F. Taylor, who with an assistant, J. J. Gleason, spent almost two months in Chicago examining the affairs of the organization. The spying activities of the two investigators was cut short last Sept. 26, when Dr. Magill denounced their tactics.

Dr. Magill at that time declared the agents had virtually seized his offices, using telephones, stationery and the help of the organization freely. Magill declared the agents took away documents without giving receipts during examination of the records of the organization which is opposed to the New Deal.

Magill balked at their intrusion when Taylor demanded to read all letters which members of the organization had written to Magill and to look even into personal letters. Taylor is said to have boasted to members of the committee that he once got a good insight into a man's mind in connection with the inquiry by reading the man's letters to his wife.

Taylor is reported to have made the same boast to Dr. Magill at the time he made his demand. Dr. Magill, a one time church leader, was somewhat bound by his former connection in answering Taylor, but his reply was punctuated with an assortment of "low's," "vile's" and similar adjectives, and he promised an exposure of Taylor's methods.

Flees to Washington.

Taylor left Magill's office hastily and returned to Washington. A few days later he was let out of employment. Knowledge of his dismissal came when he was sought for comment on Dr. Magill's letter to members of congress.

The investigation division of the committee reported that Taylor was no longer employed in the office. His whereabouts were unknown, it was said. A clerk said Taylor had left about three weeks ago, shortly after he fled from Dr. Magill's disclosure of his tactics.

Asked if Taylor had left voluntarily, the clerk said H. A. Blomquist, chief investigator of the committee, should answer the question. Blomquist was said to be in New York. Asked if Taylor had been fired, the clerk said that question should be put to Senator Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.], chairman of the investigating committee.

Senator Black's office reported the senator had been at his desk in the morning but went home when he became ill. Asked why Taylor had been discharged, the secretarial staf said the matter should be discussed by the senator.

Silent on Ogpu Tactics.

Pressed as to whether the firing of Taylor was not a disavowal of the Russian model of investigating of the committee's agents and a conciliatory overture to the Magill organization, the staf was silent.

The Magill letter found but few readers on Capitol hill today. Only a handful of senators and representatives are in their offices. Most of the letters are being forwarded to their homes.

Senator James J. Davis [Rep., Pa.] promised to look into the letter and its charges. Senator Duncan U. Fletcher said he thought the letter was one for consideration of members of the investigating committee.

Ex-Assessor Gene Oliver Cited Over $240 Alimony

Garfield [Gene] Oliver, former county assessor, was ordered yesterday by Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for being in arrears $240 in alimony to his former wife, Mrs. Mettie Oliver, of Country Club road, Chicago Heights. Hearing was set for Oct. 28. Mrs. Oliver won a divorce last June. Oliver was released from Leavenworth penitentiary in June, 1933, after serving 18 months for income tax evasion.

MORE SNOOPING BY U.S.—STORY OF A BUSINESS MAN

one for my company and one for myself personally. They asked me, among other things, whether I had ever paid anybody or had been paid myself for opposing the legislation. They even asked whether I had been in Washington since Jan. 1 and, if so, how much money I had spent there.

"I figure the committee's agents must have got my name when they searched through the files of the federation of investors."

Dr. Magill, informed of the questionnaires, said that the Jeffris letter was still in his files, but that the Black committee's snoopers had gone through the files and probably had noted it, even though they were not permitted to take the correspondence away.

Jeffris Replies to Senators.

The day after Mr. Jeffris received the questionnaires he addressed a letter to Senator Black. In this reply to the committee's demands he wrote:

"As it is not likely that I rate sufficient importance to be called before your committee, may I introduce myself in writing. I am a resident of Rhinelander, Wis., and when asked my occupation I write: 'Logging-real estate.' There isn't much business any more except in the ubiquitous federal spending agencies, so I have time for a letter now and then.

"I am simply one of a raft of small town business men, a director of a little bank, an owner of a few so-called securities that have shrunk terribly in value, and possessed of some interest in public affairs. I'm just a small towner.

He Goes to Waste Basket.

"Yesterday I received a couple of important looking envelopes, one addressed to me and one to my company. Your name appeared in the upper right hand corner of each—in place of postage. I got to thinking about them later in the day and retrieved one of them from the wastebasket where, on an impulse which you might find it difficult to understand, I had thrown them.

"At the top of the page of printed matter appeared my name in typewriting and some instructions veiling a threat that if I didn't answer the series of questions that followed, my records, books and accounts might have to be examined before the senate committee.

"It startled me a little but I calmly reflected that I could easily get the material into a suitcase and that a trip to Washington right now would not be so bad, even if made shackled to a United States marshal.

A Ride for the Marshal.

"I thought, 'Why, if he [the marshal] turns out to be a good scout I might even take him in my car and save the government my railroad expense.'

"Saving the government anything would be considered somewhat eccentric but I have a bit of imagination and I was thinking of what the newspapers would say when, with that distinction, I slipped into the fierce white glare that beats about you and your committee.

"The peculiarity might even be advanced by my attorney [I'd have an attorney or bodyguard, you bet] as an extenuating circumstance. It might even soften the temper of Torquemada himself to find that he had on his hands so fatuous an ignoramus.

"Well, to get on with the matter I read on through your insulting implications that I had bribed or had accepted bribes and wondered just why I had been put on your list. Of course, it might be because I had had the insufferable crust to write a protest to my representative against the enactment of an offensive, immoral, communistic law designed by rascals to make a trap for fools. Kipling would forgive me even if you don't.

Sends Dr. Magill Another $2.

"Again, perhaps some member of our American O. G. P. U. may have sleuthed out the information that I sent a couple of dollars to Dr. Magill. I'm sending him a couple more today with a copy of this letter. Or, again, the nasty unAmerican inquisition may have been sent broadcast to Republicans as a warning to keep their noses out of legislative affairs.

"Whatever the reason for the insult I want you to know that it is resented by at least one recipient in his every fiber. It speaks volumes of the character of the man or men who designed it, but it should rouse all subjected to it to renewed effort for a return to Americanism.

"After all, this is perhaps not a public document and I'd like to have it noted that I have attached the proper postage to this letter. In writing you, my dear senator, I should not want to lay myself open to persecution for even technical violation of the postal laws. I am also enclosing an editorial from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE which expresses my ideas about you and your work."

GIRL BARRICADED BY MOTHER FROM DOCTOR NEAR RECOVERY NOW

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Margaret Kerston's mother feels differently about American doctors today.

Margaret is going to leave the Perth Amboy, N. J., general hospital tomorrow or Wednesday and go home.

When Margaret became desperately ill Sept. 25 her mother barricaded the doors of their house and refused to allow police or doctors to move the 15 year old girl. She said she was afraid the doctors would kill Margaret. Finally a priest persuaded her to permit an operation.

Margaret's mother, Anna Kerston, a Hungarian, protested against the knife, saying her own mother died many years ago after an operation.

TWINS BORN, 3D SET IN JOBLESS FAMILY OF 18

Mrs. Clara Schultz of Beecher, 10 miles south of Chicago Heights, gave birth on Friday to her third set of twins, it was learned yesterday. The twins were the 42 year old mother's 17th and 18th children. All her family but one are living.

The infants are a boy and a girl. The second youngest set of Mrs. Schultz' twins, Betty and Bob, were were born 18 months ago. James, one of the first set, is now 3 years old. His brother died in infancy.

The father of the family is Edward Schultz, 48 years old, an unemployed painter. Twelve children were born to the Schultzes before they began coming in pairs. One of the children, now married, has twins of her own. The Schultzes will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary next June.

Vigilantes Raid Offices of Minneapolis Reds

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Headquarters of the communist party on the second floor of a loop building here were raided during the week-end by persons who broke down a door, smashed typewriters, ransacked desks, and carried away some of the records. Police attributed it to a group of vigilantes, organized recently with an announced anti-communist purpose. They also expressed the belief that an attack last week on Sam Davis, communist organizer, who was beaten by several men, and the raid on the headquarters are connected.

AWARD $15,000 FOR PRIZE BOOK EVERY 50 YEARS

Fund Provided in 1890 by William Bross.

An international literary competition carrying a $15,000 award was announced yesterday by Herbert McComb Moore, president of Lake Forest college. The prize will be awarded Jan. 1, 1940, under the Bross Foundation which was established at the college in 1879 with a donation of $40,000 by William Bross in memory of his son, Nathaniel.

Mr. Bross directed that at the end of every 50 years "a premium be given for a single book." This award will be the first since Bross died in 1890.

Open to All Nations.

The subject matter of the works to be submitted is described as follows in the announcement:

"Although there is no limitation upon the theme of the work or upon the field which the writer may elect to explore, the essence of the work must, under the terms of the bequest, demonstrate the divine origin of the Christian scriptures and show further how science and revelation coincide and prove the existence, the providence of any or all of the attributes of the Christian deity."

The founder stipulated that the contest should be open to "scientific men, the Christian philosophers, and historians of all nations."

"It's prime object is to call forth the best efforts of the richest talent and the ripest scholarship in the world," Bross said.

Awards for Lectures.

Decennial awards in sums up to $6,000 have been made in the past under the foundation for published manuscripts. These prize winning works are known as the Bross library. In addition the foundation has provided for special college lectures, the most notable being a series given in 1921 at the time of the inauguration of Dr. Moore as president.

Entries will be received until Sept. 1, 1939. Manuscripts must have a minimum length of 50,000 words and foreign contestants must submit theirs in English translation.

Mr. Bross was a strong figure in Chicago's early development. Born in 1813 and a graduate of Williams college, he came here in 1848 and first worked as a bookseller. He turned to journalism in 1851 and in 1853 became associated with J. L. Scripps in the Democratic Press.

Advice to Youths Recalled.

In 1858 this paper was merged with the Daily Tribune and Mr. Bross became a member of the original "Tribune family" with Joseph Medill and Alfred Cowles. He campaigned and editorialized for Abrahm Lincoln and was lieutenant governor of Illinois from 1865 to 1869.

After the Chicago fire, Bross, who was an eminent Presbyterian and was called "Deacon," issued a statement in New York saying: "Go to Chicago now. Young men, hurry there. Old men, send your sons. I tell you within five years Chicago's business houses will be rebuilt and by the year 1900 a new Chicago will boast a population of one million souls."

Mr. Bross was instrumental in obtaining the site for Lake Forest college which was chartered in 1857 and of which he later became a trustee.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Fiber Processing.

Oct. 21, 1935.

THE TRIBUNE experimental farms are ready to take the second step in helping farmers to introduce new crops and in reviving interest in old ones. In cooperation with processors, plans are being made to find out what products can be made from hemp, flax, and crotalaria, all fiber crops grown on THE TRIBUNE farm near Wheaton this season. An effort will be made to carry THE TRIBUNE farm crops all the way through the various processing stages down to the actual manufacturing of linen.

Two years of experience in growing these three fiber crops—last year at the Yorkville farm and this year at the Wheaton farm—has demonstrated to the managers that they can be successfully produced in this part of the country. The next problem is to stimulate interest in the development of useful articles made from the fibers so that farmers may have a profitable outlet for hemp, and fiber varieties of flax and crotalaria. Today these crops suffer in competition with imported fibers.

Hemp, flax, and crotalaria grown in small quantities on the Wheaton test plots this season will be taken to Ottawa, Ill., this week where they will be put through the first processing stage. By means of a newly developed machine being operated at Ottawa the plants will be decorticated. Through this mechanical process the fiber is separated in a few minutes, displacing the old laborious method of "retting" or rotting where the plants are exposed to the weather in the open field for several weeks.

Then the fibers will be turned over to a Chicago chemist who is able to blanch out the fibers until they are snow white. Arrangements also are being made to turn the blanched fiber over to a spinner who will remove the foreign matter through a process of combing known as garneting. After the fiber has been garneted and spun it will be woven into cloth.

If processors are successful in taking the fiber crops through all the various stages, men at THE TRIBUNE farms are hopeful that they will be able to exhibit the plants, fiber, cords, and cloth, and pave the way for the growing of additional crops to assist in expanding the midwestern farmers' diversified cropping system.

An attempt will be made also to see what can be done with the woody portion of the plants. It is known that paper and other products can be made from this cellulose material coming from hemp plants. One of the big problems is to cut the costs of producing fibers from hemp, flax, and crotalaria so that they can compete with crops grown in foreign countries. If the whole plant can be utilized the production costs may be lowered so that it will not be necessary to import large quantities of fiber.

At the present time only a relatively small amount of the hemp plant, for instance, is used. An average acre of hemp has been found to produce about 1,000 pounds of fiber and 5,000 pounds of hurds or woody substance and a small amount of pectin gum. Hemp fiber can be used in making burlap.

HAMILTON FISH, UPTON SINCLAIR CLASH IN DEBATE

Agree Only That New Deal Is Failure.

Hamilton Fish Jr., New York Republican congressman, and Upton Sinclair, California Socialistic Democrat, staged a debate on the state of the nation last night and agreed on one thing—that the New Deal has failed. They fired verbal shots at each other and the Roosevelt régime before a crowd of 3,000 persons in the Temple Sholom at 3480 Lake Shore drive.

The encounter was enlivened by hecklers in the front part of the auditorium who interrupted Fish periodically to shout: "What about Hoover?" It developed that there were Sinclair organizers in the audience and Sinclair urged his hearers to gather around afterward for the purpose of starting EPIC clubs in Illinois.

Wants EPIC in Illinois.

EPIC represents "End Poverty in California," the slogan upon which Sinclair, a prolific writer of books on socialism, ran for governor of that state unsuccessfully last year. Last night he declared that he had extended his end poverty movement to the entire country.

"EPIC means Economic Prostration in California," retorted Fish in rebuttal.

Fish, a regular Republican representing President Roosevelt's home district, pointed to figures of the American Federation of Labor that there are a million more persons unemployed now than in 1933 as proof that the New Deal has failed.

Calls Program Unworkable.

"The New Deal measures are unsound, unworkable, and un-American," asserted Fish. "They have destroyed business confidence. Sinclair would destroy the American system entirely. What we need is a return to fundamental principles that gave this nation the highest standard of wages and living that the world has ever known."

Sinclair asserted that prices were increasing as wages were decreasing, and that unless his plan was adopted there would be a permanent depression. He advocated the purchase of lands and machinery by the government to put the unemployed to work.

"The New Deal is spending 11 billions a year and doing nothing but manicuring roads and building swimming pools," said Sinclair. "Sooner or later this spending will come back to the people as taxes. When I saw President Roosevelt last fall he said he was coming out for production for use within six weeks, and then some one got to him and changed his mind."

Fish then declared that the American people were entitled to know how the President felt now about the Sinclair plan.

NEGLECTED NAVY CALLED SIX YEAR HANDICAP TO U. S.

Despite the present building program of the navy, the United States would suffer a six year handicap against Great Britain or Japan if war or a naval building race took place before 1942, Rear Admiral John Downes, commandant of the Ninth naval district, declared yesterday. He spoke before the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion in the Hotel Sherman.

This handicap, Admiral Downes said, is due to neglect of the navy between 1922 and 1933, when the United States not only failed to build vessels to bring the navy up to treaty strength but also failed to provide for the replacement of obsolete vessels.

The merchant marine, although a valuable auxiliary, is far too small, he said, for an adequate merchant marine is second in importance only to combat ships. The naval reserve, he concluded, also should be larger.

WEALTHY COUPLE IN POOR HEALTH COMMIT SUICIDE

Beverly Hills, Cal., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Apparently despondent over ill health, O. B. English, wealthy building products manufacturer, and his wife, Mrs. Alice English, both 60, today ended their lives by drinking poison.

Police found the bodies in the bedroom of their mansion. On a stand were glasses containing poison, and two notes which dwelt on their despair over failing health.

Solicitude for Mrs. English's three dogs was shown in a third note, which read:

"Lucy dear—Take care of my dogs."

Members of the family said "Lucy" is a daughter, Mrs. J. M. Cook, now on her way here from Chicago.

NERVOUS BREAK PUTS KEATON IN STRAIT-JACKET

Comedian Removed to Veterans' Hospital.

Los Angeles, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Somber faced Buster Keaton, suffering from a nervous breakdown which his physician ascribed to financial and domestic woes, was confined tonight in the National Military home at Sawtelle.

The once famed film comedian had suffered from influenza several days at his home in Cheviot Hills. He appeared irrational at times. Late yesterday his condition became so serious it was necessary to remove him to the veterans' home in a straitjacket, hospital authorities said.

Dr. John Shuman, Keaton's physician, said his condition was "very grave" and that complete isolation was imperative.

Twice Wed and Divorced.

Domestic and financial troubles have beset the comedian for several years.

His first wife was Natalie Talmadge, sister of Constance and Norma Talmadge, screen stars of the silent days. They were married in 1921 and divorced in 1932. Keaton then married Mae Elizabeth Scribbens, a nurse who divorced him recently.

While Keaton's second wife was obtaining her divorce, Natalie Talmadge Keaton was pressing her suit against him for back alimony. Preceding his latest divorce was his petition for bankruptcy, in which he listed assets of $12,000 and liabilities of $303,832.

Co-Respondent Charges Dropped.

The second Mrs. Keaton, in filing suit for divorce named Mrs. Leah Clampitt Sewell, wife of Barton Sewell, multi-millionaire Beverly Hills sportsman, as co-respondent and filed a $200,000 alienation of affections suit against her. Keaton and Mrs. Sewell denied the charges, and when the divorce case came into court Mrs. Sewell had been eliminated as co-respondent.

Keaton, who started his career as an acrobatic clown, was one of the highest paid comedians of the silent movies.

300 BEAUTY SHOP OPERATORS FIGHT MINIMUM WAGE

Organize to Appeal New Law in Courts.

More than 300 owners of beauty shops in Chicago and other Illinois cities indicated a willingness last night to join in fighting the Illinois minimum wage law as it affects their businesses.

Under this law, which was passed by the legislature two years ago, a $16.50 minimum wage for beauty operators went into effect yesterday on the order of Martin P. Durkin, state director of labor. The minimum figure was fixed by a state commission after hearings.

Will Go to Courts.

The meeting of beauty shop owners last night was held in the Morrison hotel. S. R. Rabinoff, attorney for the owners' organization, was cheered when he declared that the law is unconstitutional and that he plans to fight it, "to the Supreme court if necessary."

Rabinoff argued, and the majority of those present appeared to agree with him, that $16.50 is not too high a wage for operators, but that present conditions would not permit its application throughout the entire industry in the state. The smaller shop owners, he predicted, would be driven out of business and hundreds of operators thrown out of work if the law is enforced.

Says Contract Rights Impaired.

Grounds on which he hopes the law will be found unconstitutional were given by Rabinoff as the fact that it prohibits contracts between employer and employé and because it ignores the ability of the employer to pay the wage. He explained that under its provisions the director of labor is permitted the widest latitude in examining the books of beauty shop owners.

"This is not a fight between capital and labor," Rabinoff declared, "but of capital and labor against depression."

Boost Chicago for G. O. P. Anniversary Convention

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Chicago, where the Republican party nominated its first presidential candidate, Abraham Lincoln, 75 years ago, is the proper place to hold the party's 1936 convention, Representative Everett Dirksen, Pekin, Ill., Republican, has informed Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the national committee.

the more brazenly. It is an insult to decent people.

"The language throughout is utter profanity and vulgarity. There is not a redeeming line or gesture in the whole production.

"It has been argued that this play is justified because it supposedly depicts conditions as they really are in a section of the country. Without going into the question of the truth of the play, I do not see that this is an argument for inflicting upon the people of Chicago, including impressionable young people, a concoction so disgusting in its every aspect."

Caldwell said that the play "is no more profane than everyday life."

"It certainly is not a dirty play," he declared. "It ran with unqualified approval in many other cities and the original company is still playing in New York. It was even acceptable to censors in Boston."

Henry Hull, veteran actor who plays the leading rôle of Jeeter Lester in "Tobacco Road," asserted that the play was "just good, honest journalistic muckraking." He said he had letters from churchmen all over the country praising the show.

Mayor Kelly and Hull appeared together last night in a radio trafic drama broadcast from the Women's court on the ninth floor of the police building at 1121 South State street. The two men greeted each other amicably and no reference was made to the closing of the play.

Hull, Mary Servoss, another member of the "Tobacco Road" cast, and Caldwell are to address the Chicago Bar association at its luncheon today.

CHINESE SLAIN IN TAX RIOTS; JAP TROOPS MAY ACT

SHANGHAI, Oct. 22 [Tuesday]—(AP)—The Rengo [Japanese] News agency reported from Peiping today that widely spread rioting, with a score of villagers killed, had broken out at Hsiang-ho, resulting in a threat of drastic action by Japanese military forces unless the disturbances were ended.

The villagers were killed, the dispatches said, when members of a peace preservation corps fired a volley into a mob besieging the government office for tax relief.

Martial law was immediately declared at Hsiang-ho and in neighboring districts, the reports stated, including Tungchow, fifteen miles away, where the North China American school is situated.

CHICAGO QUAKERS GO TO NATIONAL MEETING OF SECT

Historic Influence of Small Group Discussed.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Several members of Chicago's two "meetings" [congregations] of the Society of Friends [Quakers] went to Richmond, Ind., yesterday to attend a delayed quinquennial [five year] national convention of this small but historic sect. The Rev. Milton H. Hadley, pastor of the Indiana avenue meeting, 6041 Kenwood avenue, who left for Richmond yesterday morning, said 400 Friends from all parts of the country would be present. The Richmond meeting should have been held two years ago.

Dr. Ogden Vogt, pastor of the First Unitarian church, 1174 East 57th street, which shares its Gothic edifice in worship with the Fifty Seventh Street Meeting of Friends, commented yesterday that the Quakers, though few, exercise an influence over Protestantism far out of proportion to their numerical strength. This situation, he said, has prevailed since their foundling in England by George Fox during the 17th century.

Cites Incidents of Influence.

Dr. Vogt cited two essential points in the American constitution which the free Quaker conscience greatly aided in establishing. The first was "the right to worship God according to the dictates of conscience," and the second, the amendments dealing with slavery. While Protestant churches were divided over the question of slavery, Quakers from the beginning, he pointed out, held the system abhorrent to the Christian conscience.

Both political and religious antipathy arose against the Quakers because of their passive resistance to church ceremonialism and to church-state affinities. The Quaker found God directly in the silence—"the inner light." Dr. Vogt remarked that during the centuries this inner light has not dimmed for the Quaker.

Admires Social Vision of Sect.

Another influential point, Dr. Vogt observed, is the Quaker's social vision.

"Wherever suffering, hunger, or trouble exists, the Quaker soon will be found," said Dr. Vogt. "Toward these things the Quaker believes in direct action—quickly! He will not enter a controversy, but asks only to be helpful, with the ability to be helpful his only, but adequate, reward."

POLICEMAN GETS A TOOTHACHE; IT'S IN HIS FIST!

Several days ago Lieut. Frank Egner of the Elgin police had trouble arresting Russell Schultz of Dundee, who has since been held to the Kane county grand jury as an automobile thief. In the encounter the lieutenant hit Schultz in the face. This ended the combat, but yesterday Lieut. Egner complained that his fist "felt like it had a toothache." The feeling was real. At the Sherman hospital physicians discovered that a portion of one of the Schultz teeth was imbedded in the lieutenant's fist. The tooth was extracted and the pain departed.

LEWIS-CLARK AID HONORED 91 YRS. AFTER HIS DEATH

Palmyra, Mo., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Ninety-nine years after his death, a metal marker was dedicated today at the grave of George "Peg-Leg" Shannon, youthful member of the Lewis and Clark expedition of 1804.

Shannon, believed to be the youngest of the band of 43 men who accompanied William Clark and Meriwether Lewis on their perilous pilgrimage through the northwest wilderness, was only 16 years old when the expedition started.

After the expedition he lost a leg in an Indian fight.

HIT THAT COLD A KNOCK-OUT BLOW!

Don't fool around with a cold. It's dangerous. Take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It usually puts a quick end to Mr. Cold because it does four things. It opens the bowels, combats the infection and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones the system. At all druggists.

PEACE AND WAR.

The American people have fought five major wars since the foundation of their national government, but they have never thought of war as anything but a deplorable interruption of their pursuit of happiness. It is assumed in the American mind that war is exclusively and inherently evil and therefore an affliction which all peoples and all governments may be depended upon to abhor and avoid if possible.

But it is essential to the adoption and maintenance of a sound American foreign policy that our citizenship should realize that our attitude toward war is not shared by all nations and governments. Wherever there are masterful men in power, as in Russia, Italy, Germany, and Japan, war is an instrumentality of personal or national prestige not restrained by any such profound distaste for war as prevails in America.

The ink is hardly dry on the signatures solemnly affixed to the treaty outlawing war as an instrumentality of policy, yet we have one of the signatories making war as an instrumentality of policy. We have only to turn to utterances of the Italian dictator to learn why. Mussolini, we are reminded by an Italian writing to the Times of New York, once wrote, "Whether war is the generator of all things, as Heraclitus thought; whether it is of divine origin, as Proudhon declared tweny-five centuries later; whether we agree with Renan in considering it the element in which are the roots of all human progress, the fact is that the war we have just fought [the world war], and in which I have the pride of having participated, is not the last one."

Americans who habitually face the future rather than the past have always been confident that their latest war would be their last, but Europeans do not forget the past, and, looking down the long perspective of human history, they accept war not as an eccentricity of fate but as an unescapable resort and sometimes even a beneficial one. Mussolini, writing in the Italian Encyclopedia, says: "War sublimates all the human energies and places the seal of nobility on the peoples that have the courage to face it. It is for this reason that the doctrin that leads to the postulate of perpetual peace is a stranger to Fascism." The head of the Fascist youth organizations has declared that "peace and war are two phases of the life of nations equally necessary for their development, their greatness, and their future," while a former secretary of the Fascist party—we quote again from the Italian writer—asserts that "peace is not justice but violence that prevails," and he looks upon peace as the "more or less lengthy pause necessary to prepare a new war."

This conception is, of course, abhorrent to the American intelligence and conscience, as it is to the British, whose vital interests, like our own, are in peace. It is abhorrent, no doubt, to many people in the old world, although they do not share our easy hope of abolishing war. But for us in America to ignore its influence in international relations is not only to invite disappointment but also to encourage policies which will lead us into unexpected and unnecessary dangers and sacrifices. Our feeling about war is not a safe basis for the conduct of our international relations, and even more certainly it is not a safe basis for an American program of defense.

THE NEW DEAL IN THERAPY.

At a cost of $125,000 to the taxpayers a house to house canvass is to be made in Chicago to discover the relationship of illness and unemployment. A member of the medical faculty of Johns Hopkins has been sent out here to run the show. When it is all over we shall know that some people are sick because they are unemployed and others are unemployed because they are sick. A few of the shrewder heads in the community had suspected some such relationship, but it will be nice to have the suspicions confirmed with neat tables of figures.

Once upon a time there was a Balkan general who, being a general of long experience, was fighting his battle from a farmhouse ten miles back of the lines. A colonel of the staf came dashing up to the farmhouse, his horse foam-flecked. The colonel was a very learned man, indeed, having studied at the general staf colleges in Germany and France and having read many books on the art of war.

"Excellency," cried the colonel [after saluting, of course], "Excellency, the enemy is surrounded. We have made a most careful check and it is our considered opinion that we have no less than 23,735 of them in the bag."

The general did not show the expected delight. "Don't count 'em," he shouted hoarsely. "Don't count 'em; kill 'em."

The naïve old general had assumed that the art of war was the art of disposing of the enemy. Naïve layman have been assuming for a long time that the art of medicine is the art of healing the sick. Obviously they were wrong. "Don't cure 'em; count 'em," is the New Deal's latest contribution to the relief of pain and disease among the unemployed. Apparently it is better to spend $125,000 to count a hundred thousand sick people than to cure 5,000 of them.

Perhaps these remarks are unjust. Maybe, after a sick man has been counted and carefully questioned as to his middle initial and when he first began to have headaches, he will feel a lot better. Maybe.

SLOPPY PAROLE.

Gov. Horner's judgment that no irregularity is responsible for the release on parole of the robber Maetanis will give little satisfaction or reassurance to the law abiding community. On the contrary, many of us will feel that it makes the affair all the more disturbing. If corruption or connivance had been discovered it could be punished and the officials responsible for it removed. But if all was regular there is something wrong with the regular processes of the system we are maintaining to deal with criminal offenders.

The offender in this instance had invaded a home with four other robbers, all armed with deadly weapons. Having accomplished their robbery, they departed, but thanks to the alertness and efficiency of the then police chief of Lake Forest, Tiffany, and his men, they were promptly gathered in and upon trial by a jury were found guilty and sentenced to an indeterminate sentence of one year to life. Four are still in prison; one, the present parolee, Maetanis, is set at large by the action of the parole board. If the action stands he will have been penalized by three years and eight months in restraint. We think the community will consider this inadequate punishment and the grounds on which the parole is said to have been granted unsatisfactory. They are that he had had no record of criminality before this crime and that his conduct in prison had been good.

We do not think either reason justifies this prisoner's release. Good conduct under prison restraint may be very satisfying to prison officials whose troubles are diminished, but as evidence of future conduct, after restraint is removed, its value, it seems to us, is greatly overestimated by parole boards. Good conduct previous to the crime deserves consideration, but the mere absence of a criminal record should not carry too much weight when the offense proved is as serious as that of Maetanis. A youth who invades a private house armed with a deadly weapon is a potential killer and reveals a moral condition which is not likely to represent a sudden lapse from virtue.

But parole policy has more to consider than these dubious estimates of criminal character and potentialities. It has to consider public security. When the perpetrator of a serious crime is released upon payment of a penalty which seems to the common conscience clearly inadequate, public justice suffers discredit and criminality misses the restraint that punishment for crime is supposed, we think rightly, to impose. The philosophy which seems to govern parole, where it is not perverted by political pull or other forms of corruption, seems to ignore this consideration. We are convinced that this is one of the weaknesses of parole. It is not only mistaken but, worse still, it covers more sinister influences. The unscrupulous politicians and lawyer criminal hide their manipulation behind false and gullible humanitarianism and parole thus becomes an aid of crime and corruption instead of a reliable means of adjusting the treatment of criminals to the real interests of society.

Hardly a week passes in the United States that the need for a thorough reconsideration of our parole system is not disclosed. The indeterminate sentence, which throws upon parole boards responsibility for the actual punishment of criminals already tried by a jury under a procedure which meticulously guards their rights, also calls for reconsideration. The criminal in the United States has too many trials.

Editorial of the Day

MR. BORAH'S LETTER.

[Hartford, Conn., Courant.]

Mr. Borah would have the Republican party go back not merely to the "trust busting" of the father of the man to whom he addressed his letter but to the populism of 1890 for its issue in 1936. He reminds Col. Roosevelt that Republicans were the leaders in the movement that led to the adoption of the anti-trust laws, and he also reminds him that "those were the days when the party was invincible." What he fails to consider is that since then economic conditions have vastly changed and the economic structure has become vastly complicated. If both old parties, as Mr. Borah charges, have failed when in power to enforce the Sherman act, the reason may not be that they are mere tools of the "interests"—which is at once the simplest and the most dramatic reason to advance—but that they have perceived the difficulty, if not the impossibility, of attempting to turn back with a statute economic forces of an almost irresistible character. The problem of regulating business has not been solved, but the proposal of Mr. Borah to solve it with the formulas of 1890 is not likely to appeal to persons who have studied the growth of business in the last four decades.

In the east at least the letter of Mr. Borah is likely to eliminate him finally as a candidate for the nomination next year, although his declaration will serve a useful purpose if it reminds the leaders of the Republican party that they cannot go before the voters in 1936 in the rôle simply of a negative critic of the New Deal. Much that Mr. Borah said in his letter is worthy of thought by persons who disagree with his program, such as his advice that "we should realize, and act upon that realization, that without the adjustment of our economic problems the constitution will inevitably give way to the fearful impact of human suffering and human passion." The popular followings of the Huey Long, Father Coughlin, Upton Sinclair, Dr. Townsend, and other spokesmen of discontent are evidence that he is not entirely alarmist.

What response Mr. Borah will get to his letter, what plans he may have for seeking the presidential nomination as the spokesman of the policies that he outlines, what he might do if, after seeking it, he were to be denied the nomination, all are matters for the future to disclose. At the moment he seems prepared to lead a movement that may produce an exceedingly lively convention next year, but Mr. Borah has been known to inaugurate crusades before only to abandon them. The manner in which he has disappointed his followers in the past may deter many from enlisting under his banner now.

"N. Y. EDUCATOR SAYS National Anthem Too Militaristic; Should be Abolished."—Headline. Tsk! tsk! tsk! what's militaristic about it? Show me any large numbers of Americans singing the national anthem and I'll dare you to tell me how they're going to get all het up over it and want to start right on the warpath. Why, listen to the singing:

"Oh say, can you see,
By the dawn's early light,
La la la la la la,
La la la la la la,
Oh la la la la la,
La la la la la la la,
La la la la la la,
La la la la la la."

I ask you, is there anything in that to make a man want to poke a bayonet in the ribs of his fellow man? Is there anything in those simple words that would make people wish to drop gas bombs on cities and villages below? No, not a thing. Instead of that it tends to soothe people down, to quiet their nerves and make them want to go out and give nosegays and roses to their worst enemies. No, it's a sweet, peaceful song and the way we sing it makes everybody kind and gentle and full of sweetness and peace to all mankind.

Oh la la la la la,
La la la la la la
La la la la la la la
La la la la la.

THE GOVERNMENT is going to put tags on potatoes to show that they've paid their tax and weren't bootlegged. Which means, I suppose, that the potato bootlegger will soon be around, if he isn't already. Any day now I expect a mysterious looking man to buttonhole me and whisper in my ear, "Lissen! this is all on the Q. T., unnerstan'. I've got my pockets filled with a peck of the finest spuds that ever came outten Idaho and the G-men are after me and I've got to unload quick. I'll take one-half the market price. What say?" Well, we used to get a lot of kick buying whisky from a bootlegger and I suppose it will be the same way about potatoes. What a thrill it will be when a friend calls me up and asks me over to dinner and says, "Don't say anything, but I've had a streak of luck and I've got a half dozen pre-war potatoes out in the pantry, and we're going to open 'em tonight." As the saying goes—"oh boy!"

SONNET LXIII.

The ashes of death fall gently (oh not like rain sweetly falling, freshening beneath the heart that lies anesthetized by pain), but softly fall, smothering the breath of agony that it may no more cry aloud to heaven in a thunderous voice;
the ashes of death weigh lighter than a sigh and yet crush out his shrill triumphant noise.
Life gives us everything: the heart to bare,
the shining dagger and the strength to send it,
a warning moment that we may prepare, and a practiced hand to hold the heart and mend it.
And over all, like feathers floating down, gray ashes for a brief and gentle crown.

JEANNE DELAMARTER.

NO, IT IS UNTRUE! What is untrue? I was coming to that. It is untrue that after the Linebooks of 1935 are published this coming December we are going to kill half the edition and plow under one-third of the remaining Linebooks in order to run the price up from ten cents to twenty-five. No, we would not be guilty of such acts. Let the AAA do things like that if it wants to. Every little Linebook that comes off the press shall live and be given the chance to go out into the world and sell his concentrated sunshine and joy for the same price it has always cost—ten cents, 10 cents, one dime, the tenth part of a dollah. By mail, 13 cents. On the hoof, ten cents.

THE GOVERNMENT BOARD at Washington on the pronunciation of geographical names has officially announced for the help and comfort of we, the American people, how to pronounce the names of places in Ethiopia. Diredawa is correctly pronounced Dire-dau-wa and Jijiga as though it were spelled Jee-jig-a, and so on. But shucks, who wants to pronounce 'em, anyhow? It looks to me like a scheme to get us going to work on how to pronounce Ethiopian names so that we won't keep worrying about how high our income taxes are going to be. I don't give a hoot whether Webbe Shibeli is pronounced Wa-ba Shy-bee-li or Bah-Bah Sky-hell-i, but I would like to know if I'm going to have street car fare left after I dig up the coin for my taxes this fall. They can't put you in jail even if you pronounce the dum thing Gah-gah Shy-a-bell-ski, but if I don't come across with my income tax—oh good morning, warden; what a lovely place Leavenworth is!

CHALLENGE.

North wind, braggart wind
Prate not of victory
Though you have beaten to the ground
My lovely maple tree;
When spring returns, like Lancers
A dozen warrior shoots
Will stand with blades uplifted
On those torn and twisted roots.

Cold wind, death wind
I have no fear of you
Although you strike and lay me low
'Tis all that you can do;
So take my body for your loot
Marauding pirate king
But from the ashen chrysalis
I go on irised wing.

ONE CAUSE OF FATIGUE.

THERE are many persons who manifest a mild degree of deficient thyroid secretion. Sometimes this shows itself only in the circulation with an undue sensitiveness to cold. These individuals rarely carry a normal temperature and the heat of their bodies may be from one-half to one degree below the accepted normal of 98.6 degrees F. With care in making the measurements the basal metabolic rate will be discovered often to be from ten to twenty points below the standard level.

While we recognize obvious cases of myxedema [too little thyroid], all too often patients who lack but a small amount of thyroid, and who do not show the glaring symptoms of thyroid deficiency, are treated for this and that until by pure accident the gland failure is discovered.

As a rule, these patients will show marked dryness of the skin, thinning of the hair, indefinite pains, constipation, and localized edema. This last symptom may manifest itself in the feet and lower legs and unless particular care is taken a diagnosis of heart failure or kidney disease may be made. They also tire easily. This symptom is often coupled with mental depression, nervousness, irritability, and even insomnia. Some authorities have called attention to the fact that in women the condition is frequently associated with an excessive menstrual flow. There may also be obscure abdominal pain. Many secrete too little hydrochloric acid from the stomach glands and there is a tendency to gain weight in spite of rigid dietary restrictions.

On the whole, the heart rate is relatively slow, although there are some exceptions. The blood pressure is not increased except in a few instances. Should one of these patients, despite fatigue, drive himself through a day of excessive activity, there may follow a rapid increase in the heart rate and the development of so many nervous symptoms as to lead to the diagnosis of a neurosis.

A business man, 33 years old, complained of pain in the chest which radiated to the left shoulder and arm. He particularly emphasized a feeling of pressure on the breast bone [sternum]. Morphine was occasionally resorted to for relief. A careful check disclosed the fact that his basal metabolic rate was minus twenty. The feeding of small doses of thyroid gland substance was followed by complete relief.

As may be judged from the above enumerated symptoms, many distinct disease entities are indicated. In fact, the complaints are so numerous, vague, and indefinite that they are rarely associated with the typical condition of thyroid deficiency.

Just what has happened? Here is a group of individuals who, until the age of 30, were perfectly normal from the standpoint of thyroid secretion. The best explanation appears to be that an infection such as influenza may have damaged the thyroid tissue in some slight degree and, as a result, reduced the output of that important gland.

Rest in bed and freedom from care will bring about improvement, but there is no permanent gain inasmuch as when activity is resumed the former symptoms of weariness return.

Ordinarily, it is not safe to make a diagnosis of too little thyroid when the basal metabolic rate is but ten or fifteen points below normal. However, a study of a series of 53 cases reported by B. T. Seward indicates that more attention should be given to certain ill defined symptoms, particularly if the rate is consistently substandard by as much as ten or fifteen points.

With this group Seward used thyroid substance. None of the patients presented typical symptoms of myxedema although each showed a slight lowering of the metabolic rate. The resulting improvement in most of the cases was striking. In some, hydrochloric acid was combined with the thyroid medication.

ITCH MITES.

L. P. J. writes: You say that the itch mite can be readily destroyed by sulphur. I have had the itch for four months and tried sulphur but have not been cured.

REPLY.

If your trouble is scabies, and the application of sulphur has not cured it, the technique of application may have been incorrect. According to a leading authority, the following method is satisfactory:

Take a hot bath, scrubbing the skin well with soap. Apply the ointment each night for five nights, not taking a bath until the sixth day. The same underclothing should be worn during the period of treatment, and should be sterilized by boiling after the second bath is taken.

We have a leaflet giving instructions on a Danish remedy worked out by Lomholt. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for this.

GRINDS TEETH.

I. A. P. writes: Our 5 year old boy, who is in good health, grinds his teeth in his sleep. Is this a sign of worms?

REPLY.

This symptom occurs frequently in neurotic children suffering from some nervous irritation which may come from the digestive tract. The symptom does not indicate the presence of worms. Try a light evening meal, and avoid late afternoon and evening excitement.

PROPERTY OWNERSHIP.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am interested in a certain piece of property, but upon looking up owner in recorder's office could not locate him. I found the name of a party who is supposedly paying taxes on the building, but letters to him were returned unclaimed. The question is [1] who owns this property now? 2. What is the owner's address? If I cannot get this information in the recorder's office [3] where can I get it? 4. Could you advise me who I could see concerning this property? W. B.

1. Presumably the owner whose name you found on the records in the recorder's office.
2. If you have covered the old tax records we can suggest no other source of information.
3. See 2.
4. It is possible that you might make a title by acquiring a tax deed and paying subsequent taxes, but before embarking on such a project we would advise you to have a personal interview with an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SETTLING ESTATE.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father's will has been in the hands of a lawyer for two and one-half years and he has not as yet settled matters on account of the inheritance tax, for which he is trying to get a reduction. 1. Is such a thing possible and (2) what would the tax be on $3,000? L. C.

1. Yes, on proper facts.
2. The tax depends on the size of the gift and on the degree of relationship between the deceased and the beneficiary. Your lawyer is in a better position to advise you than we are.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SHARING PROPERTY.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband's father bought and paid for a home in the city. In return my husband and I are buying the home from his father by paying rent and taxes, etc. The contract reads: "John B. and Bertha B., husband and wife of first part, to Fred B. of second part." 1. Should my name have been on there as L. B., wife of second part? 2. My husband does not want me to share the property with him. 3. If something should happen to my husband, would I automatically get his share the way the contract reads? L. B.

1. If your husband's money is paying for the property we see no basis for you to object.
2. When he obtains the title you will have a dower interest.
3. Yes, if you have no children, except that probate proceedings would be necessary.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PROMISSORY NOTE.

La Grange, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I hold a promissory note. The party who issued it is owner of a farm and recently made a joint tenancy agreement with his wife, including all his property. Will you kindly advise me about the legal standing of this note? Should he pass away, will this note hold good against his or her property after his death? S. H.

If you have not reduced your note to judgment it is not a lien upon the property, and after the death of the maker it could not follow the property into the hands of the surviving joint tenant except on the principle that a gift by a debtor can generally be set aside as a fraud on creditors.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HENRY BUCKLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID.—Spain's recent change of government has caused political observers to point out that while the monarchy averaged one government a year during its last sixty years, the republic has so far averaged three cabinet changes annually.

The latest cabinet, headed by the financial expert Don Joaquin Chapaprieta, is government number thirteen since April 14, 1931, when the republic was established. Since that date 72 persons have occupied ministerial rank—and thus qualified for a life pension of $1,500 annually. Some of these office holders have occupied seats in various ministries—the 70 year old Alejandro Lerroux has been in nine cabinets since 1931; six times premier and three times minister of foreign affairs.

The Chapaprieta cabinet is to concentrate on economy, reducing the annual budget by $50,000,000, which is a big slice in Spain's relatively small national expenditure.

Its first economy measure set Madrid's always restless students afire with indignation. The subscriptions for entering the medical courses in Madrid university were raised from $3 to $5 because the government had cut the annual grant to the school of medicine to one-fifth of its previous figure. Several thousand students rioted and proclaimed a strike when the courses opened. Spanish universities, it may be pointed out, depend almost entirely on state aid; Spain's wealthy citizens rarely contribute. A considerable part of the present reductions are being made on education.

The mechanics of the last political crisis which put the veteran Lerroux into a back seat still remain a mystery. Lerroux resigned because two ministers of his coalition had resigned. Their party, the Agrarian party, approved their conduct. They said that they could not continue in view of a decree transferring control of the ports and roads in Catalonia to the local authorities in that region.

Yet the new cabinet not only includes the chief of the Agrarian party, Martinez de Velasco, but also a representative of the Catalan league, the party of Cambo, the Catalan financier and politician. The latter party demands not only that control of roads and other public works be given to Catalonia, but also all the privileges conceded in the statute of Catalonia, which has been suspended since last year's revolt.

So speculation in Madrid's noisy cafés turns on what the real reason of the Agrarian party was for provoking a change of cabinet.

The new cabinet omitted a forceful personality, Manuel Portela Valladares, a veteran nearly as old as Lerroux but with a sparkling temper. He was the only minister in the last cabinet who challenged José Maria Gil Robles, head of the Clerical party and Spain's "strong man." The latter as war minister wanted control of the police. Portela refused.

Gil Robles demanded in vain the appointment of nominees of the Clerical party in the provincial governorships. In Spain governors are named by the Madrid government and have wide powers. They control the police in their area; can censor and even suspend newspapers; and can fine up to $700 without interference by, or appeal to, the courts of justice.

Portela Valladares was a minister during the monarchy, but he is a Free Mason. This, added to his refusal to let Gil Robles obtain control of the police forces of Spain, has earned him the bitter hatred of the clerical press.

Since his appointment as minister of the interior last May, maneuvers and intrigues to oust him have never ceased. Now, at last, they have triumphed. The clerical press welcomes effusively the new minister of interior, De Pablo Blanco, who, although a radical Republican, is a young man, under 40, and lacking the character of Portela.

THE FORGOTTEN WOMAN.

Palatine, Ill., Oct. 15.—I see that it is claimed $50 is insufficient for WPA workers in Cook county. My husband has had from $35 to $30 a month, six months a year, for three years. We have an old home to keep up, pay a state tax of $75 a year, and real estate and personal property taxes of $30. Gas and electricity together cost us about $50 a year and my husband has to keep up the car to travel 14 miles a day. I do sewing and some nursing to help out. Tell me how it is the WPA workers cannot live on $55 a month. I know. It is because we poor people pay those big fellows for talking and the WPA people for having a good time. We have a few here and they run nice cars, go to all entertainments, and have a good time while hundreds are out of work.

THE CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION.

New York, Oct. 15.—Mrs. A. W. Dilling, who writes from Kenilworth, Ill., in your issue of the 7th, reveals herself as a diligent researcher when she replies to me by quoting from an obscure article of mine on "Freedom in the United States and the Soviet Union."

Mrs. Dilling used the quotation to prove her contention that the Civil Liberties union is not impartial in defending civil rights, and "sides with communists." The quotation indicated no such thing. It indicated nothing about the position of the American Civil Liberties union as an organization. It indicated only that I personally am on the side of workers in their struggle with employers. It indicated that I personally support the soviet government as a form of workers' rule, whatever exceptions I take to its denials of civil liberties.

But all this is a personal attitude not shared by many of my associates in the Civil Liberties union. The American Civil Liberties union, as a free speech organization, embraces persons of all political faiths, capitalists and anti-capitalists alike. It does not discriminate in defending the rights of any persons or organizations, whatever their philosophies or programs. ROGER BALDWIN.

STUDENT AID.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—I note that De Paul university with a student body of 4,500 is allotted 156 positions with an expenditure of $20,436 from the federal student aid fund, while Loyola university with a student body of about 3,500 is allotted more than twice the number of positions and $42,233. Armour institute with an enrollment of little more than 800 is allotted 95 positions. Apparently more than 10 per cent of the student body will be receiving aid. The same is true of the University of Illinois, which has been allotted 1,375 positions with an expenditure of over $183,000, yet the enrollment barely exceeds 10,000.

It is hard to understand why any allotment at all should be made to the University of Illinois. No tuition is charged residents of Illinois outside of the initial fees. However, if this so-called student aid can be applied to room and board we might better all go down to Urbana. L. S. M.

PROBASCO'S BUILD.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—I just read an article in THE TRIBUNE of Oct. 16 by Doris Lockerman about the Dillinger case. In this article she intimates that James Probasco weighed 250 pounds and for that reason the G-men could not have dangled him out of a window.

Allow me to state that I have known James Probasco for about 29 years and I am sure that at no time in his life did he weigh more than 150 pounds. In fact, shortly before his death he was very sick and I went to visit him and he told me he weighed 128 pounds. He was short in stature, not more than 5 feet 6 inches, and last but not least he was about 63 years old. JOHN SHANNON.

THE MASSACRE.

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 16.—For some time I have been following your editorials and your "Massacre" dial, calling attention to automobile fatalities, and I think that you overaccent the importance of elevated highways.

No doubt elevated highways would serve to cut down the death rate, but not 98 per cent, as you state in today's paper on page 19 when you say: "Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway."

On the same page, to the left of the "Massacre" dial, THE TRIBUNE gives an account of six deaths caused by automobiles. These deaths occurred on ordinary streets and it would not be feasible to elevate any one of them.

And even on elevated highways there would be accidents, caused by the careless, thoughtless, inconsiderate drivers who go slowly in fast lanes, straddle lanes, and turn in and out without signals. This is especially true of the "Sunday" driver, who would also use the elevated highway.

To the right of your "Massacre" dial, in another article, you quote Mr. Lynwood L. Noyes of the Inland Press association on "the golden rule of driving." I believe Mr. Noyes has the right idea.

If the newspapers, the automobile manufacturers in their advertisments, the secretaries of state when licenses are issued, the motor clubs, and other organizations would keep continually before motorists the "golden rule of driving" the accident rate would soon go down.

Evanston's law compelling motorists to have their cars inspected twice a year should be adopted by every city. Cars in good condition do not cause many accidents. CHARLES J. CONNOR.

THE AUTHORITY ON TERMITES.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—In the item in today's TRIBUNE, "New Deal Takes Up Love Life of Social Termite," an injustice is inadvertently done to Dr. Thomas E. Snyder of the United States bureau of entomology. Dr. Snyder is recognized in this country and abroad as the foremost authority on termites. He has made a thorough and comprehensive study of them, and as a result of these studies has proposed practical methods which have enabled thousands of building owners to protect their property from the devastating attacks of the termite.

Dr. Snyder was the most capable scientist of the bureau of entomology, doing real scientific work long before the pseudo-scientists and crackpots of the New Deal were brought to Washington to fatten on the public pay roll. Like most of your readers, I appreciate your efforts to expose the wasteful expenditure of public funds by the administration, and hope you will continue to do so. However, to classify Dr. Snyder's work with the sophomoric hodge-podge of the New Deal activities is to be unfair to an extremely high class man whose training, labor, and writings have won him respect and recognition the world over. J. I. BYRNE.

APPRECIATION.

Traverse City, Mich., Oct. 16.—Those of us who are vitally interested in this region very much appreciate the news items and the special feature items appearing in the columns of your paper referring to the many advantages and special attractions of our territory. We all were particularly gratified by the article which James O'Donnell Bennett wrote with reference to the beauties of autumn tours in western Michigan.

Those of us who have been privileged to enjoy the riot of color each autumn have apparently been too busy concentrating on the advantages of our summers to realize that others might enjoy our autumn colors also.

Dunham Woods Hunt Ball Will Be Held Nov. 9

Date for Annual Function Is Announced.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE is something about the words "hunt ball" which brings to mind the brilliance, magnificence and formality of a function of this sort in England, and throws a glamor over similar affairs here, although the formality and pink coats are more English than American.

Something of the British hunt ball's atmosphere of a country gathering with members of the hunting families present in full force, from grandparents down to the young girls who just are "out," has crossed the Atlantic, however, and there always are enough pink coats to color our balls.

This atmosphere especially is true of the hunt ball held by the Dunham Wood Riding club each fall, for all of the "landed gentry" in the Fox river valley make a point of attending the party each year. Quite a few young people from Chicago and the north shore who belong to the club attend the ball, too, and as many of them as can be accommodated in the charming little old clubhouse spend the week-end there. This year the ball will be given on Saturday, Nov. 9. Invitations to it will be out at the end of this week.

The Longmeadow Hunt club believes that its members have enough thrills and pleasure out of their meets to forgo a ball for themselves, and instead they give a party annually in November for the farmers over whose lands they hunt. Last year the club held this party at the Vista Del Lago club and had about 500 guests. The evening starts with dinner and continues with a cabaret and dancing, and is a big party of the year for the farmers and their families who live in the area west of Winnetka to the Des Plaines river. Each year, usually on the Saturday after Thanksgiving, when the closing hunt of the season is held, Clark J. Lawrence, M. F. H., and Mrs. Lawrence entertain members of the hunt at breakfast in their Hubbard Woods home.

Mill Creek Hunt Also Holds Ball.

The Mill Creek Hunt club also holds a hunt ball each year, but no date has been set for it as yet. The date for the hunter trials still is undecided. It is at these exciting trials that this club entertains the farmers over whose lands the members ride during the hunting season and each year between the morning and afternoon events the farmers of Milburn and their families are guests of the club at a barbecue luncheon.

Members of the Onwentsia club have received announcements of the club's "harvest brawl" on Saturday, Nov. 2. This will be the final dinner-dance of the season and members and their friends are anticipating that it will be one of the gayest, as well as the last, affairs of this season. "Wear your gingham frock and bonnet, or old pants with patches on it," the jingled invitation suggests.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THE first showing of Howard Raftery's lithographs of old Chicago houses at the Roullier galleries the other day was more than an art opening. It was something of a rite. Nearly every one who had once called the houses home or had dined inside their wide doors and danced in their ballrooms, gathered to do honor to a memory. The older generation was there, represented by Mrs. William J. Chalmers and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hinde and others who remembered when the social life of Chicago centered in Prairie avenue and in Rush street. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Barnes and Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, who still live in the old family homes depicted in two of Mr. Raftery's enchanting lithographs, were there, and so were a still younger generation, Mrs. Shreve Badger and her cousin, Mrs. Patrick C. Hill, who, as Dodo Winterbotham and Ginny Carpenter, lived in the old houses at 40 East Huron and at 700 Rush. The parents of both Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brewster had lived in Prairie avenue, and they were members of a gay young group frequently entertained in the home of Mrs. Arthur Caton, later Mrs. Marshall Field, whose house, furnished and staffed with servants, survives in something approaching its original dignity. Others who remembered brilliant parties there came to look at its mansard roof and French elegance, reminiscent of the days of Napoleon III., and to gaze at the old Glessner house, recalling the excitement when Richardson built it and Eastlake designed its furniture. "The arty commended it, but it was a little queer for the general," comments Mrs. Brewster in her preface to the catalog of lithographs.

Rite—Old House—Signs.

Mr. Raftery may or may not have been aware that he was creating heirlooms as well as lithographs. At least a half dozen Chicagoans I know of purchased lithographs on sight, and they will survive as family treasures long after the houses themselves, "relics of an architectural taste long dead," are no more.

SOME months ago when a suggestion was made in this space that some one should do a book on old Chicago houses [Mr. Raftery must have long before started on his series of lithographs] a letter was received with some informal and touching data on the old Lowden mansion just off Prairie avenue.

"It used to be a rooming house, three years ago. What it is now I don't know," reads the letter. "But I do know that it has registers that used to register heat, wall brackets in every room and marble washtubs in the basement. Also in the basement there probably are remnants of the old library, with bookcases that have mother-of-pearl inlays and ebony pieces. In the servants' quarters, where the bell indicators are, you will still find Frank O. Lowden's name underneath his tube. Every room has a fireplace. The man I knew who moved in found an album full of pictures. It contained little personal pictures, gay ones, and one of them was of a group of men who had something to do with the World's Fair of '93. The walls were of heavy silk brocade that had to be removed because it was fraying. The enamel, or paint, had never been removed and this man told me they used all manner of gritty dirt removers and the paint remained undamaged."

A GIRL named Charlotte Natchwey strolled down Michigan avenue a few mornings ago and became so annoyed at various signs that she sat down and wrote a letter about it. She saw—

A hand-penciled sign in the window of a leading bookshop reading "A Book for a Buck."

A black and white placard in a corseter's window that said "We Fix Flats."

In the Chicago Public library a large notice on the bulletin board reading "New Childrens Books."

Good Morning!

Best thing Peter Grimm does is return.

We now witness the screen return of the stage play featuring him—a play that was considerably talked about in its day because of its dippings into the subject of spiritualism. David Warfield played the title rôle.

"The Return of Peter Grimm" makes an interesting picture. Most films featuring Lionel Barrymore are that way. For this master of characterization invests any rôle he plays with authenticity and humanness. And he knew just what to do about Peter Grimm.

Peter is a stubborn, genial, lovable old fellow who raises tulips and children and doesn't believe in "spooks."

This nonbelief is a bone of constant contention between himself and his bosom friend and family physician, Dr. Macpherson.

One day the two make a deal. If there is such a thing as the return to earth of a spirit that has left its mortal coil, then whichever of the men who goes first will come back and apologize to the other fellow.

Living with Peter are Catherine, an adopted child whom he adores; his small nephew, William, whose mother had vanished mysteriously some years before; an upstanding young secretary, James, who's in love with Catherine, and Marta, the devoted Swedish housekeeper. Also Toby, the dog—Toby being first to greet Peter on his "return."

Shortly after the picture opens Frederik, a nephew who has spent years abroad, comes back at his uncle's request. For Peter has set his heart on Frederik's carrying on the tulip business, marrying Catherine and rearing his children under Peter's roof. [I may as well tell you here that Frederik is a snake.]

Peter dies suddenly. And when the veil is lifted he sees a lot he hadn't dreamed of while alive. He returns to right the wrongs he had innocently done—and has a heck of a time accomplishing his purpose. But he finally succeeds and the picture ends on a happy note.

The story has been screened with good taste. And humor! For this you are profoundly grateful as the piece could so easily have been maudlin. . . .

Mr. Barrymore's splendid performance is bulwarked by sterling cast portrayals and apt direction.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

"White camellia" is a new and romantic perfume, as fashionable as the flower itself, that has just made its debut.

As you probably know, the camellia is giving the dear old gardenia a terrific run for its money these days as the flower choice of fashion-wise women. But we'll bet you didn't know about the camellia perfume. It's brand, spanking new and already something of a sensation.

"White camellia" is a romantic perfume, but richly so. While it's a straight floral scent it's hardly cool and light or suggestive of an old fashioned garden. It's much more reminiscent of tropical hideaways.

The scent will be charming with your dressier winter clothes. You'll love a whiff of it on your fur scarf, for one thing. There's always something elegant about the combination of fur and one of these now warm, now cold scents. You'll like it in the evening when the distinguished stateliness of your entire ensemble needs a humanizing, romantic touch.

One thing about this white camellia perfume is that the mere touch of it makes you feel dressed up, just the way the real flower makes you feel that your dowdy suit isn't so bad after all. You'll feel like pretty much of an orchid when you're wearing it—and that's one grand and glorious way to feel when you need bolstering up.

Like gardenia, the camellia is neither light nor heavy, but somewhere in between. There is the undertone of heaviness, to be sure, but the top note is one of cool sweetness. On the whole, the camellia is probably lighter than the gardenia and it escapes completely the piercing quality that sometimes makes gardenia a bore.

You'll like this rich white camellia if you'd like a little romance in your perfumes. Look it up, anyway.

Opera Patrons Enjoy Delilah of Van Gordon

BY HAZEL MOORE.

"Samson and Delilah," by Saint-Saëns, was presented by the San Carlo Opera company at the Auditorium last night with no apparent abatement of the prosperity which Fortune Gallo seems to have brought with him. And though one does not think of French opera as the medium for this touring organization, the performance proved that, properly cast, it lines up well with the more familiar Italian.

Cyrena Van Gordon returned to the rôle of Delilah, which she first sang as a young girl with the Campanini company on the same stage. She was no less effective last night, singing Delilah's lush music with great warmth and beauty of tone. She is now a mature artist, assured and poised.

She was fortunate in having as Samson, Aroldo Lindi, a Samson of heroic stature to match her own. Lindi was a believable Samson, and one did not blame him for yielding to the seduction of Miss Van Gordon's beautifully sung "Mon Cœur S'ouvre a ta voix." On his own behalf, with or without his shorn locks, Lindi sang exceedingly well.

Harold Kravitt, whose value grows more apparent with each performance, carried the rôle of the Old Hebrew with dignity and style. Mario Valle was a suave voiced high priest. The ballet postured pleasantly, and Conductor Peroni gave a musicianly reading of Saint-Saëns' lovely score.

HEIFETZ RECITAL

Appearing in what is announced as his only Chicago recital of the season at Orchestra hall last night under the auspices of the Chicago section of the National Council of Jewish Women, Jascha Heifetz filled the hall and brought back old times by placing an overflow audience of some 200 on the stage. And sweet charity and sweet music went hand in hand.

It would be a pity for Heifetz to stay away too long, for he supplies the ultimate in violin playing. One can speak of his superlative left hand, the perfect craftsmanship, the matchless ease of his style, the sensitive musicianship which never errs, the exquisite purity of his tone, and in the end one has merely said that Heifetz played.

Heifetz today is merely the outgrowth of the Heifetz of yesterday, of the day before yesterday, back to the day when a cherubic boy of twelve, he amazed the musicians of Berlin with the same technical wizardry of today.

Of late Heifetz has added a new angle to his art. He has enriched the standard violin literature by over forty transcriptions for violin and piano, twenty of which are published.

He played the ever old but ever new Mendelssohn Concerto. This was preceded by the Chaconne by Vitali.

A third group offered the Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso by Saint-Saëns, and the last group an arrangement of a Schubert Impromptu by himself, a waltz by Godowsky, Ibert's "The Little White Donkey," De Falla's "Nana," and the Carmen Fantasy by Sarasate. He was beautifully assisted by Emanuel Bay at the piano. After his present tour in this country Heifetz plans an extensive European tour.

Paul Longone sends the following announcement to the Saturday night subscribers of the Chicago City Opera:

"The American Ballet will be presented in the Civic Opera house Saturday, Nov. 9. There will consequently be no opera performance that evening.

"Your subscription will include the opening night, Nov. 2, and also the closing performance on Saturday night, Dec. 7, thereby giving you the usual five performances."

Traditional Witch Furnishes Motif of Novelty Quilt

Snoozers, Built for Men, Taken Over by Women

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Long suffering gentlemen, with irreproachable chivalry, have stood about and watched us women appropriate their best and most wearable ideas in clothes. All this without a murmur of protest, most of them seeming actually and amazingly delighted that we appreciate their best ideas and obligingly do everything they can to make the taking easier. Last spring we almost snatched the good looking bi-swing separate jackets off their backs, we've copied their dashing uniform caps for years and the last raid on masculine attire is the dash for the men's newest sleeping pajamas.

When first discovered in the swankiest of haberdashery shops, these two piece outfits were available for gentlemen only, but it didn't take the highly approving sisters long to realize what a find they were. So the designers again obliged with the same two pieces scaled down to feminine specifications.

These sleeping pajamas are called "snoozers" and live up to the casual comfortable name. The tops are of horizontally striped softly knitted lisle, made slip-on style. They have short sleeves, one chest pocket, with stripes that are neat, not gaudy. The super-comfortable slacks are of comfortable cotton broadcloth in plain colors to contrast the striped glory of the top. Both pieces of this duet are expertly tailored with all the casual swank of English tweeds.

With the navy slacks or trousers you can wear the white with blue striped tops, the navy crossed with narrow red bars, or the white with red stripes. Brown slacks are worn with white with yellow striped tops and the brown with yellow stripes.

There's no good reason why these "snoozers" can't be worn for lounging about the house—worn now or saved for a summer session on the beach. What could an ardent sun worshiper use to better advantage than one of these outfits for the dash to and from the semi-porch? The price tags are just as comfortable to read as the pajamas are to wear.

The wedding is planned for the beginning of the new year.

Bogan Urges Parents and Principals to Help Deaf Children

The coöperation of parents and school principals in the examination of pupils for hearing difficulties was urged yesterday by William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, as Hard of Hearing week officially opened. Of the 476,000 children in the public schools, 500 are taking courses at the deaf oral centers, he said. In borderline cases, however, seating a child near the front of the room often serves to overcome the handicap. Dr. Austin A. Hayden, president of the Chicago League for the Hard of Hearing, urged all persons, adults as well as children, to have periodic examinations of their ears to prevent deafness.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

BORDER BREED

By William MacLeod Raine

SYNOPSIS.

Young Dan Clifford is driving a mule team carrying freight when he meets and befriends 17 year old Milly Sutherland. She and a young brother and sister are en route to Los Pinos, wild border town of the untamed west. Their father died on the way. In Los Pinos Dan, through Polly Doble, gets Milly work washing, and Ah Sin, a Chinaman, to help her. Jasper Ford, gambler and killer, forces his attentions on Milly. Dan publicly humiliates him. Ford challenges Dan to a duel. Dan can't shoot. Sam Jones of the rangers advises Dan to choose bowie knives as weapons and he'll circulate reports of his prowess at slashing. Ford backs out. Sam gives Dan shooting instructions. Dan wins another victory over a friend of Ford's named Le Page. Milly gets another job, teaching school. Dan and his teamsters, String Beans and Yorky, leave for the salt lakes. When they return to Los Pinos an attachment is put on the wagon loads of salt. It is claimed the salt lakes, long public property, have been taken up by one Zack Black, representing the gamblers. Dan dumps the salt in the muddy road. A Mexican, Chaves, suspected of intentions to take salt from the lakes, is arrested. Ford has him bailed out, but holds him hostage. Dan kidnaps Ford and forces him to order Chaves' release. Ford again challenges Dan. In the encounter Dan is shot, but by Le Page, who is killed by Ford. Dan's friends believe Ford arranged the shooting and killed Le Page to prevent his talking. Black, Lou Stone, and a group of gamblers are besieged at the salt lakes by Mexicans. Dan and Sam Jones act as peacemakers and accomplish their rescue, but they are forced to give up all claim to the salt deposits. Lou Stone breaks with Ford. Jonathan Edward Hart, a famous killer, who was sent to prison 16 years before because of Ford's testimony, arrives in Los Pinos. Dan meets Hart at Polly Doble's hotel. In prison Hart studied law and got religion. He tells Dan he is through killing.

INSTALMENT XXXII.

MOSTLY MORAL SUPPORT.

Jasper Ford spoke harshly, stung into fury by the thought of his enemy.

Milly drew her slender body to its full height and looked at him. "You are insulting me now, are you not?" she said.

"Are you going to marry this fellow Clifford?" he demanded.

The color poured into the cheeks of the girl. "I will not discuss my business with you, sir," she told him haughtily. "Please let me pass."

Ford knew that he was making a mistake. He had stopped her on an impulse, to satisfy his thwarted vanity.

The gambler choked back his anger. "I am wrong. When I think of the insults I have endured from this young whippersnapper my blood boils. You could not look at him twice. I realize that. He is not a gentleman."

"And since you are one, of course you will let me pass when I ask it," she mentioned, not without irony.

"Since you do not hate me, I offer you my friendship," he insisted. "You are alone in this rough place without father or brother to protect you."

"I do not wish your friendship," she said bluntly. Then, lest his anger

"Why waste your time in teaching," he asked.

turn against Dan Clifford, she added more gently: "Your ways are not my ways. It is impossible for me, alone as I am, to meet strangers outside my narrow circle. The school trustees would not like it. I am in a position where I must be discreet. You will see that, I am sure."

He saw it, plainly enough. He was a professional gambler, of unsavory reputation with women. A young woman of good position could not accept him as a friend and retain her social standing.

Defiantly, he said, "I have power in this town and can guarantee that no friend of mine will suffer because of gossip."

"I shall not ask you to make good such a guarantee," Milly said quietly, knowing that his boast was impossible. "I cannot be too careful. It is expected of a teacher. You know that, Mr. Ford."

"Why waste your time in teaching?" he asked. "Old maids should do that, not beautiful girls like you."

Milly did not answer him. She had caught sight of the Rev. Philip Washburn and she hailed him as a deliverer.

"O, Mr. Washburn, may I see you a minute about the church social?" she called, at the same time walking past Ford to join the minister.

The face of the gambler darkened. He turned abruptly into the nearest saloon.

Washburn made no reference to Ford, though the fact that he had been talking with Milly shocked his sense of propriety. The two discussed church affairs for a minute or two. Presently Milly broke through to what was on both their minds.

"He stopped me and I could not get past him," she explained. "He offered me his friendship and I told him I could not accept it."

"You did right," the minister told her warmly. His eyes had rested on this young woman often with approval, and he was likely to think that anything she did was right. "He is the head and front of the vicious element in this town. It looks to him as a leader. Last night a man was shot down by a holdup on a side street. Two others were robbed. Every day there is lawlessness of one kind or another and nothing is done about it. We need strong energetic officers. There was a meeting yesterday of some citizens at the office of the mayor. It was decided to ask young Clifford to become marshal of the town."

"O, no," Milly cried. "He's been through trouble enough. Don't ask him to do that. They hate him now, Ford and his men do. If you make him marshal you send him to his death."

Washburn looked at the girl's white frozen face. For weeks he had been trying to make up his mind whether to ask her to marry him. He knew now the answer to the question was of no importance. He did not have to consider whether she would make him a good minister's wife or would fit happily into the group where he would lead his life after this frontier experience was past. Taken unexpectedly, Milly had betrayed her secret. Philip Washburn knew he was not in the picture.

"He may not accept it when it is offered," the young parson said gently.

The girl found no consolation in this. "He will too. You know how foolhardy he is. He has some queer kind of notion that a man mustn't run away from danger."

. . . . . .

Dan looked round on the little group with a sardonic smile. "Wouldn't some of the rest of you gentlemen like the job?" he asked. "I don't want to hog the honor."

The mayor said, sheepishly, "You're the only man in town for the place."

"Why?" Dan wanted to know.

"You've proved to these scoundrels you are not afraid of them. The feeling is you've got them on the run."

"And where will I wind up?" Dan said grimly. "In a box on Boot Hill?"

"I don't say that being marshal of a wild town is as safe as sitting on a fence and chewing a plug of tobacco," the mayor admitted. "You'll have to keep your eyes peeled."

"What's the matter with Jonathan Edwards Hart for marshal?" Dan suggested. "You claim you want a man who is tough, dead game, and quick as greased lightning. He fills the specifications every way from the ace. Why pick on a tenderfoot amateur like me?"

"He isn't at all the kind of man we want," Philip Washburn said quickly. "As I understand it, we want law brought to Los Pinos, but we don't want a lot of men killed, even those who are enemies of the public. To appoint Hart, even if he would take the place, would be to serve notice that we were going to have a carnival of shooting. But I don't think it is fair to ask Mr. Clifford to carry this burden alone. I am a man of peace, but I believe it my duty to fight for the right. If Mr. Clifford calls on me to serve on a posse to help arrest criminals I shall not shirk the task."

"Good for you, parson," Waller applauded. "That's the way to talk. We'll all give Dan our support."

"Mostly moral support, don't you reckon?" Dan drawled.

Fashion Alters Arrangement of Back Hair

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The newest thing in the coiffure field, as I see it, is the change in back end treatment. The tight sausage rolls, and even the moderate sausage rolls have gone the way of all change. One now sees enormous wave curls. They're large and wide of structure. They're neither curl or wave, but some of each. The blondes, so far, seem to have a corner on this full blown end hair style. It gives a grand chance for light to play on the golden locks.

There isn't any one particular style of coiffure right now that dominates the rest. It's a year in which you may go as individual as you please, and, indeed, go a little haywire if you're the kind of girl who can get away with it. One sees every kind of coiffure at the spots where one expects style trends to appear. Just so long as it's becoming to your particular self, it's all right.

The value of having one's hair restyled after a long run of one mode was noted recently in a friend's experience. She'd been wearing her naturally blonde hair in a longish bob. She went to one of the best styling artists and off came those trailing ends, but the hair was left with a flat but well shaped back end treatment. The beautiful swirl in this case, and the thinning out and reshaping of the head in consequence, with huge big waves over the entire head, brought no end of approving exclamations wherever the young woman appeared.

This, when we were being told that the bobbed hair was going out. Proving that nothing is going out in hairdress that is best for your particular features and profile. The point was raised, in the case of this friend, that she had features and she had a profile, but the hair bulging recklessly over the ears and flowing copiously in the back concealed her best features.

Let Your Child Gain by Errors of Your Youth

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"I'm so glad Marie has gotten acquainted with a congenial group of young people," said a... aunt the other day as her niece went off to a supper party. "That trip to the lake this summer did her a lot of good, and started some nice friendships."

"Yes," said Marie's mother. "It did, thanks to you. You are so good to the child, Anne," she added.

"No, I'm not, specially," said the aunt. "But my childhood was devoid of so many things I should have had that it makes me really happy to see Marie get some of them."

"You know how young I was when mother died—and I was extremely shy—and then we had to move suddenly to a strange city and a huge public high school. I really grew up without the happy, jolly life and normal boy and girl pleasures that a girl in her teens should have. And I'm going to do everything I can to help you see that Marie gets them."

There are two ways in which this determination to give your child what you didn't have works out.

One is in the arbitrary forcing on a child of your idea of an education, culture, a career. Or in making a child do something which satisfies your own thwarted desire to go on the stage, perhaps, or to college. Or in giving your child lots of money [too much money] because you as a child were actually poor. Any one of these is an unwise way of giving your child something you have missed.

The other way is to give your child something really important that you may not have had. Perhaps you were unhappy in your childhood and are determined that your child shall be happy. Perhaps your parents were severe and cold, and you know that you are going to be understanding and warm to your "young." Perhaps your father and mother were so busy with their social or professional life that they had not time for you—but you assure yourself that your child will not be pushed aside. Or circumstances deprived you of the natural pleasures of childhood and, like the aunt in our story, you are determined that the young person you love shall not suffer a similar deprivation.

Parents of teen age children have found helpful our fully written booklet, "Understanding the Adolescent," which will be sent on receipt of a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Date for Annual Function Is Announced.

are lingering in their summer home at Green Lake, Wis., extended an invitation to Mr. Selfridge and his niece, Mrs. Hobart P. Young, and his nephew, Buckingham Chandler, to be their guests tonight, but it is likely that Mr. Selfridge will fly back to Chicago after the dinner.

Mr. Selfridge is stopping at the Blackstone hotel. The Countess de Sibour [Violette Selfridge] will join her father here on Wednesday, and that night they will leave by airplane for Hollywood.

R. Martin Stevensons Are Parents of Son.

A son was born yesterday at St. Luke's hospital to Mr. and Mrs. R. Martin Stevenson. He has been named Robert Martin McCutcheon Stevenson Jr. and is the first child of the former Virginia Doering and Mr. Stevenson, and the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Doering.

Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. Cecil Barnes, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Rawleigh Warner, Mrs. John Paul Welling, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Oliver S. Picher, Mrs. Louise E. Laflin, Mrs. William B. Hale, and Mrs. Frederick M. Schmidt will be among those entertaining box parties in Orchestra hall this afternoon when the first Tuesday symphony concert will be given.

Hold Rehersal Today for St. Luke's Show.

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock all the young women who will model in St. Luke's fashion show tomorrow will assemble in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel for the final rehersal. It is a very important occasion, not only because they must practice walking down the runway but because the new models will be initiated into the technique of the dressing room.

The businesslike way in which the dressing room is run invokes great admiration each year from those who know about it and it is one of the reasons why the show runs so smoothly and professionally.

Mrs. Walter McLallen, who has the same lovely coloring that Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge had when, as Miss Katherine Eddy, she attended the wedding of Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and Prince Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin in 1901, will wear tomorrow the gown and hat that Miss Eddy of Chicago wore to the royal wedding. The gown is a very fussy afternoon one of pink broadcloth with trimmings of velvet and braid, and the hat, darker than the dress, is trimmed with pink roses and blue ribbon.

Only box seats are reserved for the afternoon showing so tickets may be purchased at the door, but all seats for the evening showing and dinner-dance are reserved. The doors will open at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow.

Mrs. Welch Dickinson will be hostess at a cocktail party today from 5 to 7 o'clock at her residence, 220 East Walton place.

Admiral Byrd Will Speak Twice Today.

Because of the oversubscription for seats in Thorne hall on McKinlock campus tonight for Admiral Richard E. Byrd's illustrated lecture on his explorations in the antarctic, the explorer will give the same lecture in the hall this afternoon. President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university will introduce the admiral this evening. Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers will be among those dining with the Scotts, preceding the lecture.

Many Winnetka women are taking advantage of the fact that "every one" in the north shore town has a ticket for the opening concert of the Artists' Series tomorrow night to give dinner parties. Mme. Kirsten Flagstad, the handsome opera star, is to be the artist.

A visitor who is seeing old friends is Mrs. Herman H. Kohlsaat, formerly of Chicago but now of Rome, Italy. She is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer.

Mrs. Lloyd Laflin and Mrs. Robert S. Pirie have gone to the Island club on Lac du Flambeau, Wis., for several days of partridge shooting.

Mme. Dmitri Ivanenke Will Visit Chicago.

Mme. Dmitri Ivanenke will arrive in the city about Nov. 1 to spend a month as the guest of Mrs. Robert R. McCormick. The charming young Russian lived in Chicago at one time and has many friends here, so there undoubtedly will be much entertaining for her during the weeks she is here.

Dr. Wilfred H. Osgood will speak on Ethiopia before members of the University club and their wives and guests at their first ladies' night of the season this evening. Dr. Osgood is curator of zoölogy of the Field museum.

Clifton Utley will give the first of a series of five lectures under the auspices of the Evanston Junior league at 8:15 o'clock this evening in the ballroom of Mrs. George B. Dryden's home on Ridge avenue. The lectures will be given every other Tuesday evening.

WEDDINGS

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Roberts Wriggins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wriggins of Germantown, Pa., to Frederick Tenney Conger, son of Dr. and Mrs. Guy Park Conger of Riverside, on Oct. 10 in St. Paul's church, Elkins Park, Pa., followed by a reception in the home of the bride's parents. Mr. Conger and his bride went to White Sulphur Springs, Va., and Riverside on their wedding trip and are now at home in Mount Airy, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Lutz of Kenilworth announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth Lutz, to Frederic David Boyd of Santa Marta, Colombia, South America, on Oct. 18 in New York City. The bride is a graduate of Northwestern university. Mr. Boyd is in charge of a radio station at Santa Marta.

Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Adamson of 6026 Kenwood avenue announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Edna Adamson, to Frank Bruce Lamb of Springfield, Ill., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lamb of Fort Gage, Ill., next Saturday in Christ Episcopal church. A reception will follow in the Hotel Windermere East. Mr. Lamb and his bride will make their home in Springfield. Both are graduates of the University of Illinois.

Announcement is made of the marriage in Pittsburgh last Sept. 18 of Mrs. Ruth Smith Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Richard Smith of Pittsburgh, to Cutler Robert Swanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Swanson of Gowrie, Ia. Mr. and Mrs. Swanson now are at home at 515 Briar place.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eldred Timson, 425 Grove street, Evanston, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Ann Timson, to Bruce De Loss Mateer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Mateer, 3943 North Kostner avenue, on Nov. 16 at St. Luke's pro-cathedral, Evanston. The ceremony will take place at 8 o'clock in the evening, with a small reception following at the Timsons' residence.

Humble Foods Gain Glory in Glace Coating

The booklet, "What for Dessert? Thirty-two answers," is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Candied sweet potatoes may have started it all years ago. Or, perhaps the glistening glacé coating on a baked ham had something to do with the movement. Anyway, the idea, whatever its origin, of coating fruits, vegetables, desserts, and even meats with a shiny coat of crystal glory is one to inspire uproarious cheering from the home benches this season.

Candied onions you probably know as well as glacé nutmeats. We hope you're equally at home with glazed carrots and parsnips, candied turnips, bananas, apples, and glazed top pies. In general, the procedure goes like this: For a hard glazed surface coat the favored food in a sirup [boiled until a test is brittle in cold water] made from ½ cup sugar, ½ cup white corn sirup, and 2 tablespoons hot water. For a chewy coating use a mixture of ½ cup corn sirup, 1½ tablespoons water, and 4 tablespoons of butter, heated only until well blended.

If you need impetus in beginning your career as the "candy kid of the kitchen" here are some candied treats that are sure to meet approving nods.

CANDIED BANANAS.

Peel 6 bananas and arrange in an oiled baking dish. Mix ¾ cup dark corn sirup with ⅓ cup water, and pour over bananas. Dot with one tablespoon of butter and bake in a 375 degree F. oven until the fruit begins to soften, basting during the cooking. Then place under broiler for a minute's browning and serve either as a meat garnish or dessert.

Glazed Onions.

8 small white onions
2 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons dark corn sirup
2 teaspoons water

Boil onions until almost tender. Mix other ingredients over low heat and reheat onions in mixture, stirring occasionally until onions become brown and glazed.

Rice-Raisin Pie with Apricot Glaze.

½ cup uncooked rice
½ cup raisins
2 cups milk
⅓ cup sugar
1 egg
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ teaspoon vanilla

Wash rice thoroughly. Steam rice and raisins in milk for 30 to 40 minutes, add beaten egg, sugar, salt, and vanilla, and then mix. Pour into an unbaked pie shell and bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees F., for 10 minutes, and then continue baking at 350 degrees F. When baked and ready to serve cover with apricot glaze, made like this:

¼ pound dried apricots
1 cup sugar

Soak apricots several hours, cook slowly until tender, force through a sieve and mix with the sugar while hot. Pour over the baked pie filling, cool, and serve.

Pineapple Dates Glacé.

1 slice canned pineapple
1 cup sugar
1 cup white corn sirup
½ cup water
1 package pasteurized dates

Stuff each pitted date with a small segment of well drained pineapple. Cook sugar, sirup, and water until sirup begins to discolor, about 310 degrees F. Place sirup pan in larger pan of boiling water, dip each date into sirup, lift with fork, and drop on waxed paper to cool.

5 Elementary Urges Supply Action Motive

BY HUGO WESTERBERG.

When you have practiced observing the relative dimensions of upper and lower lips, it is fitting that you notice other features. There are in human nature five elementary urges that furnish the motive for action: [1] The desire for personal gain, shown by the mouth; [2] the desire for information, expressed by the tip of the nose; [3] the desire to rise above others, indicated by the development of the upper bony part of the nose; [4] the desire to please people, also indicated by the bony part of the nose, and, finally, [5] the desire for material pleasure, which is suggested by the red parts of the lips.

MAY ROBSON.

The purpose of these articles is to decide likes and dislikes between people. Now you should go on to examine the features with this in mind. If your nose is high ridged in its bony part [best seen in a side view], you have a strong desire to rise above others. You will then like and be liked by a person with a desire to please, which is indicated by an undeveloped, that is, a curved-in nose.

May Robson could bring solace in grief and comfort in trouble to the most misunderstood person. Her heavy nose which droops over a long upper lip is an assurance of a complete comprehension of any personal matter under consideration. She will not be carried away by her emotions, but will remain in a state of calmness, fitting the rôle of counselor where acumen and keenness of intellect are required. Her pointed chin denotes a willingness to leave people to their own devices if they don't need her help. At the same time there is also a readiness to take a hand when her shrewd, sagacious insight decides a change of conduct on their part is desirable.

[The Tribune has arranged with Mr. Westerberg to make individual analyses in words and pictures of its readers from a photograph, preferably a profile or three-quarter view. See coupon. Photo will be returned if sufficient postage and envelope large enough for photo are enclosed. A snapshot will do.]

The Stage

The company which is now appearing in "Rose-Marie" at the Grand Opera house will give a special matinée performance of Noël Coward's operetta "Bittersweet" next Saturday. The organization was rehersed in both productions before the tour began, and this staging of "Bittersweet," therefore, will not be a catch-as-catch-can affair. Roy Cropper and Adele Ardsley will appear in the leading rôles.

"Three Men On a Horse," scheduled to end its long run in the Harris theater next Saturday night, will extend its stay in Chicago for several weeks after that date. A special matinée will be given next Friday for the benefit of the Actors' Fund. "Personal Appearance," a notable hit of the last season in New York, will come to the Harris theater immediately after the departure of "Three Men On a Horse." C. C.

According to CULBERTSON

THINKING OUT THE PLAY.

The time for thinking about the lock on the stable door is while the horse is still safe inside. It is much easier to keep him there with a little forethought than to try to think him back with a great deal of afterthought. Declarer's precious contract in a bridge game is a horse of identical color and should be safeguarded with similar precautions. The ability to play the hand mentally before actually winning a single trick is what makes experts.

Planning the play should begin at declarer's first opportunity to win a trick, sometimes before. Usually, while the opponents are winning tricks which cannot be contested, he must let them do as they choose, perhaps throwing a little judiciously administered dust in their eyes by false-carding. Principally declarer should pay careful attention to the fall of the cards and to the sequence of the defenders' plays. When his own chance comes he should chart the course of the entire play before he wins or loses the crucial first opportunity trick.

You have heard the fable that a real bridge expert can tell every card in both his opponents' hands as soon as the opening lead is made and the dummy is exposed. This is an exaggeration, of course, but it is true that a good player first tries to picture his opponents' distribution and the location of their high cards, and often his first idea is correct. Sometimes the mental picture can go no farther than deciding how the cards must be placed if the contract is to be made. The important thing is to conjure up an outline, however hazy and unclear, that will serve as a working drawing of the hand. This is the foundation on which the plan of play may be built.

Careful Foresight.

The declarer, in the hand shown below, looked ahead and prepared for a bad break in trumps and in his long side suit, clubs. He first imagined that the bad breaks existed, then he found that he could overcome them by refusing to win the first trick that was offered to him.

The bidding [both sides vulnerable]:

South.	West.	North.	East.
1 ♠	2 ♥	Pass	Pass
3 ♣	3 ♥	3 ♠	4 ♥
4 ♠ (Final bid)

West opened the heart king and continued with the queen. South could have trumped the second heart lead, but he realized that if there were four spades in one hand against him, and four clubs in the other hand, he would run out of trumps before establishing the clubs. He threw his small diamond on the second heart, for he would have lost a diamond trick anyway. West could not lead another heart or dummy would ruff, so he led a diamond. South won the diamond ace, drew four rounds of trumps, and then, feeling that the same hand would not be short in both spades and clubs, led a small club toward dummy's ace, and when West played low finessed the nine spot. It won the trick and South, after giving up a club trick to the queen, won the rest of the tricks.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Is it ever proper to make an opening one no trump bid without having 4-3-3-3 distribution?

Answer: One no trump occasionally may be bid with 4-4-3-2 or 5-3-3-2 distribution, if the long suit or suits are minor suits and if the doubleton is not weaker than K x. An example is ♠ K 10 5, ♥ A Q, ♦ K J 10 6, ♣ A 9 4 3.

Children Declare Whipping Is Chief Fault of Parents

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Dr. Fred McKinney of the University of Missouri reported today that children regard whipping as one of the chief faults of their parents.

Dr. McKinney, a psychologist, said children also objected to domineering attitudes, nagging, ridicule, pleas for sympathy, and stifling of discussion.

On the other hand, he said they praised their parents for being intelligent companions, for earning their respect and confidence, for free discussion of the many questions perplexing the adolescent and for setting standards and ideals.

The Eighth Woman
WHY SHE IS ALWAYS HERSELF

ALL women are not born "free and equal," Nature being what it is. Many readers of this newspaper know this to their sorrow. A woman's days are not all alike. There are difficult days when some women suffer severely.

There didn't used to be anything to do about it. Eight million had to suffer month after month. Today, a million have accepted the relief to be had from Midol.

As a rule, it is a knowing woman who keeps that little aluminum case tucked in her purse. One who knows what to wear, where to go, how to take care of herself, how to get the most out of life. That "eighth woman" who has learned to rely on Midol!

Are you a periodic sufferer? Midol might spare you such pain. And even though it didn't make you perfectly comfortable, you would receive relief well worth while!

A smart woman doesn't try every pill or tablet somebody says is good for periodic pain. But Midol is recommended by specialists. It can form no habit because it is not a narcotic. Taken before the time, it often avoids the pain altogether. But Midol is effective even when the pain has reached its height. It's effective for hours, so two tablets should see you comfortably through your worst day.

Any drugstore has these tablets. Or, a card addressed to Midol, 170 Varick St., New York, brings a trial box free and postpaid, plainly wrapped. Do you wish one?

And the smooth inviting surface of Perfect Sleeper Mattresses provides hitherto unknown comfort. Look for Billy Sleeper and the Perfect Sleeper Mattress at your furniture or department store. The mattress and box springs to match are priced at $39.50 each.

RUNYAN LOSES TO ZIMMERMAN IN PRO GOLF

CARDINALS WILL PROTEST DEFEAT AT PITTSBURGH

Bidwill Hits Work of Official.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Charles Bidwill, owner of the Chicago Cardinals, prepared yesterday to file a protest with Joe Carr, president of the National Professional Football league, over the Cardinals' 17 to 13 defeat at Pittsburgh Sunday. The defeat dropped the Cardinals out of the league lead.

CHARLES BIDWILL.

Bidwill's chief complaint is against Earl Cavanaugh of Pittsburgh, the field judge who ended the game when the Cardinals were on the Pirates' one yard line. The Cardinal owner does not expect a ruling in favor of his team, but he anticipates action that will preclude a recurrence of circumstances which he claims deprived the Cardinals of their third victory of the season.

The explanation Bidwill brought back to Chicago yesterday was as follows:

"The Cardinals had reached the Pirates' six yard line on a series of passes by Phil Sarboe, quarter back. Lou Gordon, tackle and captain, asked Cavanaugh how much time remained and was told there were two minutes and 17 seconds.

Grabs Official's Watch.

"Sarboe called for a pass to Bill Smith, end. There was holding on the play, but it was not called. The pass fell incomplete, which automatically makes time out. Sarboe then carried the ball five yards through the line to the one yard line. As he got up off the ball, Cavanaugh shot the gun announcing the expiration of time."

The Cardinals then made a rush for Cavanaugh. Bidwill dashed on the field from the bench and snatched the watch out of Cavanaugh's hand. It showed, he contends, that 28 seconds remained to play. Bidwill surrendered the watch to help prevent Cardinal players from assaulting Cavanaugh.

Other officials, Bidwill says, refused to be drawn into the argument.

Time Ticks On.

If the Cardinals were correctly informed when they asked how much time remained, the game could not have ended on two plays, one of which called for stopping of the watch. It was evident, Bidwill avers, that Cavanaugh neglected to stop the watch when Sarboe's pass to Smith failed.

While the Cardinals nursed their bruises at Pittsburgh yesterday preparatory to going to New York, where they meet the Giants Sunday, the rest of the league buckled down to the last ditch fight which appears inevitable before the championship is decided. The Bears, who went into first place in the western division with their 24 to 14 triumph over Brooklyn, face the Green Bay Packers at Wrigley field Sunday.

PITTSBURGH VERSION

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Pittsburgh Pirate officials said tonight that they believed Charles Bidwill was completely confused in his version of the finish of the Pirate-Cardinal game Sunday.

Bidwill's description of the Cardinals reaching the Pirate 6 yard line on a series of passes was all right except that the particular advance he referred to ended in Al Nichelini's touchdown for the Cardinals, it was pointed out. It was at that time that he was informed there was 2 minutes and 17 seconds remaining.

A kickoff followed and the Pirates ran three scrimmage plays before the Cardinals recovered a blocked punt on the Pirate 19 yard line, according to the local version. An incomplete pass and Sarboe's five yard gain followed. Apparently Bidwill confused the two times the Cardinals had possession of the ball in the closing minutes, Pirate officials said.

Denies Yielding Watch.

Field Judge Earl Cavanaugh vigorously denied that the stop watch had ever passed out of his possession. "After I stopped the game the Cardinal players rushed me and tried to get the watch," Cavanaugh said. "However, I had it firmly tied to my wrist. It belonged to Harry Robb, the umpire, and I returned it to him after the excitement. . . .

"I recall distinctly during the time out before the next to last play, which was the incomplete Cardinal pass, that I informed Referee Halloran that 28 seconds remained. He then informed both teams very audibly. They managed to run those two plays during those 28 seconds because the watch was stopped after the incomplete pass. Time ended with Sarboe carrying the ball and I officially ended the game when the ball was declared dead on the one yard line."

In the WAKE of the NEWS

IT'S COL. WAKE NOW.

WHILE we shall not insist on use of the title at all times, This Wake Is Now Conducted by Col. Harvey T. Woodruff, Help! Help!

Our engraved commission, with blue ribbon, fancy gold seal and all, as an aide-de-camp on the staf of Gov. Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky, arrived from Frankfort yesterday. No explanation of this belated recognition of our services in behalf of the commonwealth of Kentucky accompanied the document. So we are somewhat at a loss to know which of our many meritorious deeds is rewarded.

At first we figured it must be for bravery. We have been attending Kentucky Derbies annually for 20 years. In those earlier years before we knew the ropes we suffered untold hardships in securing sleeping accommodations and food. One year we slept in the swimming tank of a hotel from which the water had been drained to give more room for guests. Again, it was a cot in the American Legion shelter. Of late years it has been at hotels with minimum charges of $60 for the four day Derby period—take it or leave it.

Meantime we have encouraged the breed of thoroughbreds at our own expense, since there is no place on expense accounts for losing wagers. Likewise we have tried to comport ourself as colonels might in the consumption of old bourbon and mint juleps. But surely such self-sacrifice and fortitude would have been recognized with a distinguished service cross or double cross long ere this.

So the thought suggests that perhaps Gov. Laffoon has read our Feed Box interviews with the Derby candidates just before the race and wishes to get such information first hand, thinking that as an aide we will feel obligated to instruct him in the equine dialect at which we are so proficient. At any rate, we're Col. Wake in Kentucky.

For the benefit of those, if any, who have not been made Kentucky colonels, we present the language of the commission:

In the name and by the authority of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, Ruby Laffoon, governor of said commonwealth, to all to whom these presents shall come, greeting:

Know ye, that Hon. Harvey T. Woodruff, Chicago, Ill., having been duly appointed as Aide-de-Camp on the Governor's Staff, with the rank and grade of Colonel, I hereby invest him with full power and authority to discharge the duties of said office according to law.

And to have and to hold the same, with all the rights and emoluments thereunto legally pertaining for and during the term prescribed by law.

In testimony whereof, I have caused these letters to be patent, and the seal of the Commonwealth to be hereunto affixed. Done at Frankfort, the 9th day of October in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, and in the one hundred and forty-fourth year of the Commonwealth.

Football Retrospect.

In Saturday's football forecast The Wake had 48 winners, 23 losers, 9 ties, and 3 unaccounted for. Season to date: 216 winners, 62 losers, 23 ties.

On so-called major games in middle west, east, and Pacific coast our count was 18 winners, 3 losers, and 2 ties, but Southern conference and smaller college games wrecked our percentage.

DUCK HUNTERS BLAZE AWAY AS SHOOTING OPENS

Thousands Fill Blinds in Illinois River Area.

BY BOB BECKER.

Waterfowl hunters in Illinois opened the 1935 season yesterday morning at 7 o'clock when federal regulations permitted the hunting of ducks, geese, mudhens, and snipe in this and adjacent states. Thousands of shooters occupied blinds in the popular Illinois river area where day operators of hunting places and private clubs had been preparing for weeks for the big opening day rush.

Under the new regulations, sunrise hunting of ducks, geese, and other species of waterfowl is prohibited by law. Thus the eager shooting army had to wait until 7 o'clock before taking opening shots at birds that had moved into the sloughs and marshes.

Fox Lake Region Crowded.

An army of hunters numbering between 3,000 and 4,000, according to an estimate made by Conservation Warden James Lynch, hunted the region around Fox lake yesterday, most of the shooters gathering on Grass lake to bombard the mudhens. Nearly all of the rowboats from the various lakes in the Fox lake chain were hauled to Grass lake to accommodate the shooters.

A steady downpour of rain didn't stop the hunters, and most of the boats were in the weed beds around the shores and in the center of the lake before 6:15 a. m., waiting for the whistle from one of the lake resorts to signal 7 o'clock—shooting time. The hunters were too impatient, however, and the roar from shotguns started at 6:55, beating the whistle. A check at one of the boat landings showed that more than half of the shooters were getting their limit of 15 mudhens. Many men got their limit in the first half hour, just after the birds were scared from the top of the water by the continual shotgun blasts.

Only One Accident Reported.

Only one minor accident marred the opening of the season in the Fox and Grass lakes region. Sherif Lawrence Doolittle was told that Michael Faust of 2935 North Seeley avenue, Chicago, incurred a minor wound when he was struck on the lip by a shotgun pellet. The sherif said it was the first time in years that the opening of the season had not been marked by one or more fatalities and serious accidents.

Sportsmen who hunted in the upper Illinois river country had plenty of ducks and ideal weather for the opening day. From 7 o'clock in the morning, when a heavy rain was falling, until 10:30 a. m., ducks were constantly working the ponds west of Dresden dam, where we were hunting.

Get Plenty of Action.

Frank Collins of Morris, Ill., and I put out 24 block decoys and then moved into our blind on a small pond. The teal and mallards were in the air in large numbers. From then until late morning there was plenty of action. Six species of ducks, including mallards, pintails, baldpates, blue winged teal, green winged teal, and spoonbills were swinging into our decoys.

Although the opening day's flight was one of the largest in recent years, there was a surprising scarcity of hunters.

All hunters found with guns in their possession in the forest preserves will have their weapons confiscated, Clayton F. Smith, president of the forest preserve district, said yesterday.

Kid Chocolate to Give Up Comeback and Be Referee

HAVANA, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Kid Chocolate, who held both the featherweight and junior lightweight boxing championships of the world, has decided to become a referee. Twice the Cuban has tried comebacks and found that at 24 he has burned himself out. Next Saturday night he will officiate in a Havana ring.

WHY ROAST DUCK TOPS HUNTERS' MENUS TODAY

Miss Adeline Lenzen does the shooting and her boy friend operates the oars at Grass lake yesterday as the duck season opened. Rain didn't keep either the ducks or the hunters at home and many shooters bagged the limit in record time.

O'Mahoney Throws Chief Little Wolf

Danno O'Mahoney successfully defended his wrestling championship at Chicago Stadium last night by defeating Chief Little Wolf after 31 minutes and 30 seconds.

Wolf fell victim to a body press, but he didn't think he had been thrown, so he started a little commotion by slugging O'Mahoney after the match had been officially ended.

8,727 See Match.

The crowd of 8,727, the largest to attend a show at the Stadium this season, didn't think Wolf had been thrown either. They booed the young Irish champion as he left the ring and cheered Little Wolf. Gross receipts were $15,315.

As the bout started, O'Mahoney bounced Wolf off the canvas several times in short order. Wolf, emitting a series of Indian war whoops, grabbed Dan and tossed him over his shoulders. O'Mahoney quickly clamped two body scissors and a reverse arm lock which caused Wolf to howl and moan. After the 10 minute mark they slugged each other to the delight of the spectators.

A few minutes later Wolf went to the canvas on his back from a push in the face and Dan flopped atop him. The Indian squirmed from under, but O'Mahoney kept right after him and acquired another grip. This put them under the ropes and Referee Ted Tonneman forced O'Mahoney to break his hold.

Dean Wins Easily.

Before the match was 30 minutes old O'Mahoney was vieing with Wolf in the grunting line. It was said to be Dan's first experience as a bona fide grunter. O'Mahoney weighed 219, Wolf 215.

Man Mountain Dean, bewhiskered 317 pound curiosity, didn't waste any time making his Stadium debut a success in the semi-final. It took him just 2 minutes and 39 seconds to make his 237 pound opponent, Floyd Marshall, hold still for three seconds required for a fall.

Olaf Oleson, 225, of Sweden wrestled Ernie Dusek, 235, of Omaha, 30 minutes to a draw.

George Calza, 225, Italy, pinned Pat Murphy, 205, Ireland, in 6:43 with a front wrist lock.

Jim McMillen, 215, Antioch, Ill., threw Emil Dusek, 213, Omaha, in 22:46 with a series of flying tackles.

Ray Steele, 210, of California, downed Ricardo Santos, 205, Philippine Islands, in 14:09 with a series of head locks.

BATTAGLIA WINS FROM PHAGAN IN 10 ROUND FIGHT

Frankie Battaglia, Winnipeg, Man., middleweight, outfinished Johnny Phagan of Chicago to gain the decision last night in a ten round slugging match at Marigold Gardens.

Battaglia opened a cut over Phagan's left eye early in the bout and outslugged him until the fourth. Phagan rallied to win the next three rounds, but weakened as Battaglia staged a spirited offensive in the remaining rounds. Battaglia weighed 161 pounds to 155¾ for Phagan.

Milt Aron, 142½ Dubuque, Ia., won by a technical knockout over Marty McHale, 145, Cleveland, in the fourth round of the five round semi-final. Jackie Sherman, 150, Detroit, stopped Tommy Quinn, 153¾, Chicago in the opening round of another five rounder.

Duke Calloway, 118½, Chicago, beat Bobby O'Dowd, 119, Sioux City, Ia.

Wisconsin Plans to Honor Richards at Homecoming

Madison, Wis., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—John R. [Big John] Richards of Los Angeles, Cal., who played on the teams of 1892-'96 and coached the Badgers in 1911, 1917, and from 1919 to 1922, inclusive, will be an honored guest at the Wisconsin annual homecoming event Nov. 8 and 9, the committee announced today.

His last visit to the campus was in 1931. Although his teams never won a conference championship they won 17 games and were defeated only nine times.

Richards will be the principal speaker at the Friday night pep meeting in preparation for the Purdue game. Badger followers are hoping his presence will inspire the team as did that of Pat O'Dea, Wisconsin's long lost football hero, a year ago when Wisconsin beat Illinois, 6 to 3.

DISCOVERY WILL SEEK BIG PURSE AT CONEY TODAY

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Discovery, the great handicap champion of the year, will race here tomorrow at the Coney Island track in the $10,000 added Cincinnati handicap at one mile and one-quarter. The Vanderbilt star has been assigned 132 pounds and has drawn tenth, or outside, post position.

St. Bernard also is entered, and will carry 105 pounds, which will make him a dangerous rival. Whopper, another handicap performer which has shown well lately, is in with 106 pounds. Other entrants are Chance King, Wise Bessa, Beaver Dam, Paradisical, Open Hearth, Tear Out, and Golden Rock II. Wise Bessa and Open Hearth will be coupled as the H. G. Shoemaker entry.

ARMOUR TAKES 39 HOLE MATCH FROM DUDLEY

Revolta and Watrous Come Through.

Four Left

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 21. — [Special.] — Results of the 36 hole quarter final matches in the National Professional Golfers' association tournament here today, with pairings for tomorrow, follow:

Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore., defeated Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., 3 and 2.

John Revolta, Milwaukee, Wis., defeated Eddie Schultz, Troy, N. Y., 4 and 2.

Tommy Armour, Chicago, defeated Ed Dudley, Philadelphia, 1 up, 39 holes.

Al Watrous, Detroit, Mich., defeated Horton Smith, Chicago, 1 up.

Semi-final pairings [36 holes]:

Armour vs. Watrous.
Zimmerman vs. Revolta.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 21.—Al Zimmerman, a boy from Portland, Ore., who believes the best things are made at home, today defeated Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., the defending champion, 3 and 2, in the quarter-final round of the national professional golf tournament at the Twin Hills club.

The 27 year old Zimmerman has been working his way through the tournament for the last four days with a putter made by his own hands, a half rounded block of wood covered with aluminum. Today he went up against not only the champion but one of the most gifted putters in golf. Supported by a finished iron game which has earned the praise of his elders, Al and his homemade putter came through with the outstanding upset of the tournament.

Armour Wins at 39th.

Zimmerman's victory over Runyan would have been sufficient to gratify 3,000 golf loving Sooners, but one of the old masters, Tom Armour of Chicago, rounded out the day with the longest extra inning debate of the tournament, a 39 hole triumph over Big Ed Dudley of Philadelphia. This was one of those old fashioned thrillers in which a sneeze from the gallery would get the offending one at least life, if not the chair.

Zimmerman and Armour are far from done with the business of winning this big show of the pros. There remains the matter of tomorrow's 36 hole semi-finals, and each is well aware that he will not be out for any jolly Sabbath round with a member.

Watrous Beats Smith.

Armour, who ran off with this party in 1930, will have the pleasure, if it may be called such, of walking around with Al Watrous of Detroit, golf's greatest baseball fan. This jovial best friend and severest critic of the Tigers today defeated Horton Smith of Oak Park, the other of the surviving Chicagoans, 1 up.

Zimmerman has an even more interesting problem in the person of Johnny Revolta, the Milwaukeean of the Abe Lincoln features. Johnny had a spell of trouble this morning with Eddie Schultz, a husky German boy from Troy, N. Y., but finally wound up an easy enough 4 and 2 winner.

Open with Par Round.

The customers hereabouts were somewhat startled this morning when Zimmerman verified the suspicion that he could play a golf shot or two by matching Runyan's par 70 for the first 18. Al then violated all of the rules in playing champions by going three up on the afternoon ninth, and, after trading the 10th and 11th with the smallish Paul, matching the champion shot for shot with annoying precision to the finish. This towheaded native of Grove Lake, Minn., who has dominated the Pacific northwest fairways for a half dozen years, has been three under par for the 102 holes in the four matches he has played thus far.

A too casual second nine in the morning prevented Armour from being at least three up on Dudley at the intermission. It may have been that the Silver Scot was upholding the fine traditions of golfing showmanship in the absence of such losers as Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen. In any event, after being three up through the tenth, he lost four of the next eight holes to Dudley, and so was one down going to lunch.

Armour was 1 up at the ninth of the second round, but Dudley squared that at the 13th. Tom took the 16th, and it appeared to be a matter of halving the next two for a victory. His birdie on the 17th was matched by Dudley, and it was all even when Armour took a penalty shot off the home fairway. They halved the next two. Then a pair of disastrous shots by Dudley, followed by a dubbed third, cost him the argument.

Watrous Takes Early Lead.

Watrous and Smith played the tightest match of the day. With Horton playing none too well in the

MAROONS START PREPARATION FOR WISCONSIN GAME

Squad in Good Condition After Purdue Battle.

The University of Chicago's Maroons were a serious lot yesterday as they started to prepare for the appearance of Wisconsin at Stagg field Saturday. The Midway team was thoroughly outplayed by Purdue in its Big Ten opener last Saturday, but local opinion is that Chicago will be able to meet Wisconsin on terms that are at least even.

"We couldn't catch 'em," is the way Coach Shaughnessy interprets the 19 to 0 score the Boilermakers ran up at Stagg field. Position for position, every Purdue man was faster than every Maroon, Shaughnessy said. He refuses to criticize any individual Maroon player.

Injuries Are Slight.

Hurts on the Maroon squad following the Purdue game were limited to bruises and a few charley-horses, Sam Whiteside, center, having sustained one of the latter afflictions to an extent sufficient to keep him out of practice for several days. Those who played against Purdue were given a light signal drill yesterday, but reserves scrimmaged against the freshmen.

The practice program for the next three days will include long periods of pass defense. In losing to Michigan, 20 to 12, last Saturday the Badgers not only outgained the Wolverines by a 2 to 1 margin, but threw 16 completed passes in 33 attempts. Tommerson twice threw touchdown passes to Wilson. The forthcoming game at Stagg field may develop into a basketball affair, since Jay Berwanger threw 24 passes against Purdue, 8 of which were good.

BADGERS STUDY PLAYS.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin football team, defeated in its first four starts, this afternoon began preparations for the Chicago game Saturday by taking a look at Maroon plays as portrayed by the freshmen, while the regulars rested on the sidelines.

Wisconsin survived the Michigan game in good physical condition and all of the regulars will be ready for scrimmage tomorrow. Eddie Jankowski and Clarence Tommerson are nursing minor bruises, but are ready for work.

Ohio State Plans Offense for Indiana

Columbus, O., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Rain hampered the Buckeyes in their workout today and practice was held beneath the stadium. Coach Francis Schmidt ordered a light signal drill. The squad worked out new plays for the game with Indiana Saturday at Bloomington.

All of the Buckeyes came through the hard battle with Northwestern in good physical condition and members of the first elevens who played longest in the contest were excused to the sidelines today.

The play of Ohio's sophomores in the Wildcat game proved a leading topic of today's practice session. Joe McDonald at full back, Sol Maggied, who entered his first game at guard, and the kicking and passing of Joe Williams, which was unknown to the public before the Northwestern game, all drew favorable comment of Coach Schmidt.

PURDUE IN GOOD SHAPE.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Purdue's football squad took time out today to look over the injury list and find that it was in very good shape, following three hard struggles against strong opposition. Cecil Isbell and John Drake, cripples who were sent into the Chicago game in a surprise move, did not further aggravate their hurts and are expected to be in top form within a week.

Colby Reed, regular left end who was unable to play in the Chicago game, may be out of the Carnegie contest this Saturday, but will be ready for Minnesota. Tony Wright, received a wrenched shoulder in the Chicago contest, but it is not severe and he will be back in the lineup in three or four days.

INDIANA LINEMEN HURT.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 21.—[Special.—Two sophomore linemen, Jack Kenderdine of Fort Worth, Tex., and Jim Sirtosky of Thompson, Pa., were on the casualty list today as Indiana began preparations for its homecoming football game against Ohio State Saturday. Kenderdine, an end, suffered a wrenched shoulder in the Cincinnati game last week and Sirtosky, guard, received a twisted leg in the encounter.

In an effort to build up replacements, Coach Bo McMillin made several shifts in positions. Briggs was shifted from half to full back, Cavacini from half back to end, Risher from the fifth back field position to guard, and Fred Johnson from center to the fifth back post. Capt. Kelso will play both guard and center, as he did last season, although this year he has been devoting full time to the pivot job.

MICHIGAN FACES COLUMBIA.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Safely over its first two Big Ten hurdles, Michigan started its preparation today for its dual assignment in intersectional competition, games with Columbia and Penn coming up on the next two Saturdays.

The fact that Columbia took a 34 to 0 beating from Penn last Saturday indicates the Wolverines will meet the softer of the two eastern foes first when they engage the Lions at Baker field in New York this week.

Possibility that Bob Cooper, sophomore back, might be available for the closing games against Minnesota and Ohio State was seen tonight by Dr. Frank Lyman, team physician. The knee he injured Sept. 25 is beginning to respond to treatment.

New Notre Dame Secondary Defense Stops Long Pitt Run

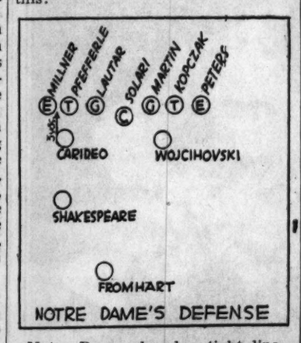
BY WILFRID SMITH.

Notre Dame, in the first half of its game last Saturday against the University of Pittsburgh, tried out a new type of secondary defense. While that defense was abandoned completely in the second half, there is no doubt but that it made possible the great defensive play by Wallie Fromhart and William Shakespeare by which Hubert Randour, Pitt half back, was stopped on the Irish 18 yard line after a run of 63 yards.

Customarily Notre Dame uses a seven man defensive line with a box secondary. This is vulnerable to quick kicks. When possible, a six man line, with a box defense and a safety man, is used. This defense is commonly called the 6-2-2-1 formation.

Leaves One Place Open.

Last Saturday Notre Dame decided it needed seven men in the line. But Coach Layden experimented with his defensive back field formation, deliberately leaving one position open to possible forward pass attack in order to cover on kicks and to have a safety man. The Notre Dame defensive formation, used in the first half in midfield and in Pitt territory, looked like this:



Notre Dame played a tight line—that is, the ends, Millner and Peters, were drawn in close. The ends also played a floating defensive game. They did not smash into the Pitt interference, but floated wide trying to keep the play in front of them.

Solari, at center, was a step or so back of the line of scrimmage, ready to cover for line attack or pull out and help on wider thrusts. Carideo protected the left side and was about three yards behind the line of scrimmage. Wojcihovski protected the right side of the line. Shakespeare had the left deep corner of the defense, about ten yards back. Fromhart, however, instead of completing the box defense, was back of Shakespeare and somewhat toward the center. He was at least 25 yards back, perhaps a few yards more.

Use Single Wing to Right.

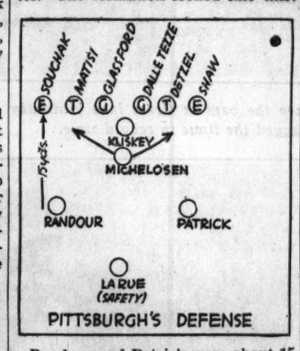
On Randour's 63 yard run Pitt used a single wing back to Pitt's right, which brought the Pitt end in front of Pfefferle and the wing back between Millner and Pfefferle. Millner floated wide and finally Randour cut inside of him after a wide sweep to the side line. Carideo was taken out of the play and Wojcihovski, like the defenders on the right side of the line, was behind the play.

Fromhart, from his defensive position, met Randour and his interference along the east side line. He couldn't drive in because of the interference, but he did pocket the runner at the side line and retreated, keeping his feet. Randour was forced to slow up, and this hesitation permitted Shakespeare, who had warded off a blocker, to come from behind and tackle Randour on Notre Dame's 18 yard line.

Only One Man Shifts.

If Fromhart had been at the deep right defensive position in a box, it is quite likely he would have been out-run, and certainly he would not have been able to force Randour into a pocket.

Pittsburgh's defense against Notre Dame in midfield and in Notre Dame territory was the 6-2-2-1 type. There was one important variation, however. The defensive line did not shift to meet the Notre Dame back field shift. The six men held their stances and the shift in attacking power was met by John Michelosen. Before Michelosen shifted, he lined up behind Nicholas Kliskey, Pitt center. The formation looked like this:



Randour and Patrick were about 15 yards back of the line of scrimmage to protect against passes and support the ends of their line. La Rue was the safety man. If Notre Dame shifted to its right, which brought Wojcihovski in front of Souchak, then Michelosen shifted to protect that point. On the Notre Dame shift to the other side Michelosen followed again to protect his right.

The advantage of this arrangement is that the defensive line cannot be caught off balance. Only one man changes position.

Irish Weak on Sweeps.

Notre Dame's defensive weakness against Pittsburgh was in checking wide sweeps. In Pitt's 48 yard march for a touchdown Shedlosky raced around Peters for eleven yards to put the ball on the Irish 13 yard line. Notre Dame, now near its own goal, was using a seven man line and a box secondary. The secondary was drawn too close together and this permitted a sharp, hard forward pass to Souchak for nine yards, placing the ball on Notre Dame's 2 yard line.

Fromhart tackled Souchak as he received, but he was one step short of knocking down the ball.

Pitt's weakness was the center of its line. Carideo's fifteen yard smash through center was all important to Notre Dame's touchdown drive. Two more drives, one at Pitt's left guard and the other at center, left the ball on the Panther 4 yard line. Then Shakespeare, behind a charging line, hit the pile at Pitt's left tackle, sidestepped, and found an opening inside tackle through which he ran untouched.

Prairie Player Dies of Pneumonia After Leg Injury

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Elmer Bland, 19, former football star of Technical High school here, tripped over his own interference and broke his leg in an independent football game here last Saturday afternoon. Tonight he died of pneumonia.

LINDBERG JOINS ILLINOIS TEAM IN SCRIMMAGE

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Les Lindberg, Illinois' triple threat star, who suffered a foot injury in the opening game against Ohio university, scrimmaged today for the first time since then.

Lindberg's appearance in action was a surprise, but the veteran took his turn in carrying the ball and apparently showed no distress. In punting practice Lindberg booted many long ones.

Hope is high that Lindberg will be able to play part of the Iowa game. Every one of Coach Bob Zuppke's regulars participated in scrimmage against the reserves. The back field consisted of Henry, Spurgeon, Lindberg and Wilson.

On the reserves Howard Fletcher, sophomore tackle, appeared for the first time, having been promoted from the B team. Bill Bennis and Ed Skarda were the reserve ends and the back field was Gano, Cole, Grieve and Theodore.

IOWA SHOWS SPEED.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—The first of three remaining hard practices in preparation for the Illinois game was completed under lights at the University of Iowa today, Coach Ossie Solem putting the squad through an hour and a half of scrimmage.

Solem made good his word that there will be plenty of work for everybody when he dismissed the squad last Saturday, but the players apparently were ready for hard drill. Aided by brisk football weather and a week of comparative rest, the two varsity teams showed more speed in scrimmage than they have displayed all season.

Lineups in the practice game against freshman teams indicated that the Hawkeye coach will not make more than one change in starting personnel against the Illini. Paul Akin, a 170 pound junior, was at the left half back position in place of Dwight Hoover in today's practice for the third consecutive day.

Gordon Matson, end, was used in scrimmage for the first time in three weeks, indicating that he will be available for the conference opener. The veteran probably will not start, however. The first string back field included Akin, Dick Bowlin, Ozzie Simmons, and Capt. Dick Crayne.

Champions of Prep Leagues Meet Nov. 30

The annual Chicago high school championship football game, bringing together the winners of the Public School and the Catholic league titles, will be played at Soldiers' field, Saturday afternoon, Nov. 30.

The date for the game, which is held each year as a part of Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit, was set yesterday by Mayor Kelly, chairman of the benefit. Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, is secretary of the benefit committee, Col. A. A. Sprague, is treasurer.

Proceeds of the game, will go to the fund of the Christmas Benefit.

Lindblom Last Year's Winner.

The football game last year attracted more than 50,000, who saw Lindblom High school, champion of the Public School league, beat Leo, Catholic champion, 6 to 0.

"I am confident that Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit will rise to greater heights this year," Mayor Kelly said, "and I am certain that the championship football game will play even a more important part than it did last year."

Proceeds Go to Needy.

"The Christmas Benefit is now established as an annual institution that offers itself as a veritable and practical Santa Claus to the unfortunate children of Chicago. Business, civic and social leaders of the city are again behind it with their wholehearted support.

One of the important games on the prep schedule for the week-end involves Lindblom and Phillips in the central section of the city league at Normal park Friday. Lindblom is undefeated in three starts, while Phillips has won two and tied two. Due to the system of scoring two points for a victory and one for a tie, Phillips is tied for first place with Lindblom.

Parker, with Lindblom, the only one of the 28 teams in the city league undefeated or untied, draws Fenger as its foe in the south section Saturday at Gano field.

Although the Leo-St. Philip charity game at Soldiers' field Sunday afternoon doubtless will pull the largest crowd of the season, the outcome will have no bearing upon their sectional standings. Leo operates in the east group and St. Philip in the west.

New Trier, setting a fast pace in the suburban league, is preparing for its fifth league clash against Deerfield at Kenilworth Saturday.

GOPHERS FORCED TO SHIFT LINEUP FOR N. U. GAME

Injury to Seidel Moves Le Voir to Quarter.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—A chalk talk and a look at the Nebraska motion pictures of a week ago represented the day's program for the University of Minnesota Gophers as they started preparations for the homecoming game with Northwestern at Memorial stadium Saturday. This will be the first western conference contest on the Gopher schedule.

In the meantime principal interest was attached to the realignment caused by the broken collarbone suffered by Capt. Glenn Seidel in the 20 to 0 victory over Tulane Saturday. Coach Bernie Bierman said he would shift Babe Le Voir to quarter back again, just when he was becoming accustomed to his new duties at right half back following double duty at full back and quarter back this year.

Right Half Position Open.

With Le Voir returning to quarter, a wide open fight for right half back again will be in effect, with Sophomore Bill Matheny the leading candidate, followed by George Rennix, senior, and Andy Uram, sophomore who has been working at left half.

N. U. CANCELS REST DAY.

Another strenuous week-end confronts Northwestern's football team, which will engage in its third conference game of the year against Minnesota at Minneapolis Saturday.

In order to lose no time in preparation for the encounter the Purple passed up the usual Monday respite from practice yesterday. Only five players who participated in the Ohio State game were excused from drill. They were Bob Swisher, Wally Cruice, Don Heap, backs; Vance Burnett, tackle, and Steve Reid, guard. The Wildcats came through the Buckeye game in good shape, the only injury being a cut finger received by Steve Toth.

Passing Attack Improves.

While not overlooking the fact that the team still showed need of improving its tackling and ball handling, Coach Lynn Waldorf was pleased with certain aspects of the Wildcats' play against Ohio. The passing attack was greatly improved and the ball carriers piled up more yardage than against Purdue.

MAHONEY GIVEN TWO SETBACKS IN OLYMPIC BATTLE

Sherrill and Lewald Clash with A. A. U. Head.

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The vociferous verbal battle over America's entry in the 1936 Olympic games at Berlin, centered mainly about the issue of Germany's domestic treatment of Jewish athletes, today developed a rebuttal from two official sources to the latest attack on Nazi policies by Jeremiah T. Mahoney of New York, president of the Amateur Athletic union of the United States.

In Berlin Dr. Theodore Lewald, president of the German Olympic committee, declared "There is no question of religion in German sports" in reply to Mahoney's charge that he [Dr. Lewald] is being "used as a screen to conceal the German government's most flagrant violations of Olympic ideals of fair play to all."

All Have a Chance.

"Every Jew," added Dr. Lewald, "and every German Catholic has exactly the same chance and right to compete for places on our 1936 Olympic teams as any athlete of another confession."

Mahoney, in a lengthy summary of the "case against Germany" as spokesman for the American athletic forces seeking either to take the Olympics from Berlin or keep this country from participating in the games next year, had challenged the accuracy as well as the authority of Dr. Lewald's statements. The chief executive of the American A. A. U. insisted indisputable proof existed of Germany's discrimination against Jewish, as well as Catholic athletes, and called upon Dr. Lewald to resign his Olympic office.

Sherrill Opposes Mahoney.

Meanwhile Brig. Gen. Charles H. Sherrill, one time famous Yale sprinter and now an American member of the international Olympic committee, returned from a seven weeks' visit to Germany and immediately took issue with Mahoney.

"It does not concern me one bit the way the Jews in Germany are being treated, any more than lynchings in the south of our own country," said Gen. Sherrill. "Germany has invited two outstanding Jewish athletes — Helen Mayer, the fencer, and Gretel Bergmann, the high jumper—to participate on German Olympic teams. Whether or not they accept the invitation doesn't matter. Germany has done her part by inviting them, in good faith. That ought to answer any charges of discrimination."

Alarmed at U. S. Situation.

Gen. Sherrill declined to comment on a request that he urge the withdrawal of the United States from Olympic participation, made to him by the "committee on fair play in sports." This request was presented by William B. Chamberlain, secretary of the committee, in the form of a letter signed by George Gordon Battle and Henry Smith Leiper.

The general viewed the situation at home with some alarm, however.

"You've got 500,000 athletes in this country preparing to try for the Olympic games and a trip to Germany," he said. "Now then, if these athletes suddenly realize that about five million Jews out of approximately 120 million people in this country are attempting to or have succeeded in depriving them of their opportunity, we are almost certain to have anti-semitic trouble that will last for many years."

According to Dr. Lewald, there are "about ten Jewish athletes now in Olympic training camps" in Germany. He added "for all of them the possibility of participating in the Olympics exists, depending upon their performance."

LOUIS TO FIGHT TWO BOUTS AT MADISON SQUARE

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Joe Louis will engage in two bouts at Madison Square Garden this winter, it became known today, with the disclosure of a deal between the Garden and Mike Jacobs, who promotes fights under the title of the Twentieth Century Sporting club. One fight is to take place in December, the other in late February or early March.

Jacobs, who holds a contract to promote all bouts for Louis through 1940, will pay the Garden a rental and a percentage of the receipts. The deal was completed late last week by Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, Garden president, and Jacobs.

The new plans indicate Jacobs has abandoned his idea of staging a December bout for Louis in the New York coliseum. More important, however, is the fact that the agreement revealed today is an opening wedge toward a Louis-Jim Braddock fight for the heavyweight championship. The Garden holds the contract of the titleholder.

MICKEY RODAK ENTERS STADIUM 6 DAY BIKE RACE

Mickey Rodak, one of Chicago's leading six-day bicycle riders, will compete in the Chicago Stadium race, which starts Nov. 10. Rodak is now training for the race.

Announcement also was made yesterday that Alfred Letourner of France had entered the race. Letourner won eight six-day races in a row last fall and winter.

Freddie Miller Defends Boxing Title Tonight

Boston, Mass., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Freddie Miller will defend his featherweight boxing title against Vernon Cormier of Worcester in a 15 round bout tomorrow night. Miller, who has led his division since 1933, appeared to be having trouble making the 126 pound limit as he finished training.

TRIS SPEAKER is accompanying Mickey Cochrane on his bear hunting tour in Wyoming. . . . The Purdue team which whipped the University of Chicago Saturday was one of the smoothest running football units this department has seen in the last two or three years. . . . The Colgate football team will stop off in Mattoon, Ill., for a two hour workout Oct. 31 en route to New Orleans where it will meet Tulane. . . . Solomon Sponaugle, center, and Paul Weinrich, half back on the Franklin-Marshall eleven, never had ridden on a train until the team went to New York to play Fordham early this season. . . . Goose Goslin, whose single won the world series for Detroit, wanted to quit baseball after failing as a rookie pitcher, but Lew Wendell, a catcher, persuaded him to stick around awhile. . . . Buck Newsom of the Senators, who became a father last month, named his son Alan Griffith. . . . The first name was after Buck's friend on the St. Louis Browns, Alan Strange. . . . The middle name, well, it won't do Newsom any harm with his boss.

Bud Boeringer, line coach at the University of Detroit, recently scouted four opponents within 24 hours. . . . He watched Duquesne play Catholic university in a night game at Pittsburgh and next afternoon saw Bucknell play Villanova in Philadelphia. . . . From the beginning of the season football fans have been picking the Notre Dame-Ohio State game as tops for 1935. . . . The teams have only to leap one more hurdle apiece to justify the public's confidence. . . . Both will be playing away from home Saturday, Notre Dame meeting the Navy at Baltimore and Ohio State engaging Indiana at Bloomington. . . . The Cubs installed a new public address system for the world series but have not purchased it. . . . Look out for DePauw's table tennis team. . . . Billy Condy, Chicago's top ranking player, and Jimmy McClure, Indianapolis star, have enrolled there.

Lawson Little has just completed a story on how golf galleries affect players, which he hopes to sell to a national magazine. . . . Joe Louis promises to establish an enviable knockout record, but Stanley Ketchel's still stands out prominently. . . . Ketchel stopped 45 of his 51 opponents and was knocked out himself only twice, once by Billy Papke and again by Jack Johnson. . . . He went out of his division to fight Johnson. . . . Iowa's 1921 Big Ten champions had eleven regulars who started every game of the season. . . . Corner flags in the rugby football match between the New Zealand team and a club representing Cornwall and Devon were mounted on rubber posts to minimize risks of accidents.

Twenty-two of the 31 varsity football players on the U. C. L. A. squad attended prep school in Los Angeles. . . . All except one are from Southern California high schools. . . . Noel Workman, former Iowa State coach, is doing most of Marquette's football scouting this fall. . . . Nick Kearns, Big Ten official, will conduct a tour to the Olympic games next summer, provided there are any Olympic games. . . . Thirty-two of the 47 players listed on Notre Dame's B team roster are from the east. . . . New York leads. . . . Bill Farnham, who broke with Gene Sarazen after managing the Sarazen-Didrikson tour, got a check from Sarazen for 80 cents as his cut on a debated item. . . . Farnham sent the check to the Ethiopian Red Cross.

Ten Years Ago Today—Fielding Yost and his Michigan team were resolved that Red Grange would not repeat his great running exhibition against the Wolverines. . . . The Maroons wound up practice for Pennsylvania without an injury. . . . Christy Mathewson Jr. was named a director of the Boston Braves ball club. . . . Ace Hudkins defeated Mike Ballerino in ten rounds at Los Angeles.

CHARGES FEDERAL FUNDS BUILD UP FOOTBALL TEAMS

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—A charge that "certain college football teams" were being subsidized by the federal government through its national youth administration was made by Milton Prensky, a senior in Teachers college, Temple university, at a conference of the community council of Philadelphia today.

One of thirteen young men and women participating in a "panel discussion" before 1,000 persons at the conference, Prensky asserted that there was no complaint about the maximum sum of $15 a month given to college students by the NYA, but there was criticism of "the way the fund is administered."

"Members of football teams seem to get the preference for this student aid, rather than others who need the money more," he declared. "There is also the problem of the upstate senators telephoning the administration officials to be sure and fix a job for their particular student friends."

Isaac C. Sutton, state director for the NYA, challenged Prensky to give details to substantiate his charges.

"To my knowledge," said Mr. Sutton, "no football team in the state is subsidized by NYA funds. If Mr. Prensky will supply me with names I assure you that we'll take immediate steps to end this alleged practice. Our federal policy is against the subsidization of any phase of college life and every college has been so informed."

Purdue, Indiana Harrier Teams to Race Today

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Indiana and Purdue will engage in a cross-country meet, the first of the season for the Hoosiers, here tomorrow afternoon.

Barnstorming Is Right; Rowe and Pals Rained Out

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe and his Detroit Tiger teammates, Tommy Bridges and Charley Gehringer, cut short their exhibition baseball tour here today.

"Barnstorming is the right name for it," grumbled the Schoolboy. "I don't know where the barn comes in, but it stormed every place we went."

With Mrs. Rowe, the Schoolboy left for their home in El Dorado, Ark., where Rowe will make preparations for the hunting season. Bridges and Gehringer went to Detroit.

MICHIGAN OPENS BASKETBALL; 20 CANDIDATES OUT

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Among twenty Michigan basketball candidates who reported to Coach Franklin Cappon tonight were two brothers, Earl and John Townsend of Indianapolis, who are expected to be of help in the try to bring the Wolverines out of the Big Ten second division.

Earl, who has only a year to play, had his first two years at De Pauw. John, a sophomore, is one of the best prospects that has ever come up from freshman ranks here. Each is 6 feet 4 inches tall.

Grimm Balks Operation on Cavarretta

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Charles John Grimm, who has not been heard to curse his Cubs for not winning the world series, made a flying trip to Chicago yesterday and took occasion to cuss the rainy weather which has interfered with his fall plowing at his farm near St. Louis.

Mr. Grimm dashed to Chicago when he heard reports that a doctor was about to unsheath his scalpel and do some cartilage whittling in one of Phil Cavarretta's knees. While not questioning the surgeon's knowledge and judgment, the Cub manager has an old-fashioned theory that a first baseman needs all the cartilage he can get in his knees, hence the hurried dash to Chicago.

Put Away That Knife!

Grimm hadn't been here an hour before he had a battery of X-ray machines turned on Cavarretta's ailing knee. Then there was a huddle of specialists, after which Grimm told Cavarretta to tell his doc to put his sword back in the scabbard.

The Cub boss, after the huddle of specialists, told his youthful first baseman to stay off his feet as much as possible during the off season and placed a positive ban on basketball and other winter sports.

Charley said he expects to come to Chicago in two or three weeks and get affairs lined up for activity at the minor league meetings in Dayton, O., the third week in November.

Won't Tie Last Year's Deal.

At last year's minor league meeting in Louisville Grimm and Pie Traynor completed the biggest deal of the year, the French-Lindstrom-Bush-Weaver-Herman transaction. Charley said he had no transaction of that magnitude on the fire this year, but may do some important swapping when he gets to Dayton. He expects every major league manager to be at the Dayton confabs.

"So far no National league manager has made a pass at me in the matter of trading," Charley said yesterday. "And I haven't put out any feelers myself."

Maj. Griffith to Address Notre Dame Club Luncheon

Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of western conference athletics, will speak today at the weekly luncheon of the Notre Dame club of Chicago in the Ivory room of Mandel's Men's grill. Fred L. Steers, '11, is chairman of the speakers' committee.

Arizmendi Named No. 1 Challenger for Miller's Title

The Illinois boxing commission yesterday followed the New York and California boards in designating Albert Arizmendi of Los Angeles No. 1 challenger for the featherweight crown held by Freddy Miller, Cincinnati, O. The commission also agreed that Miller must defend the crown against Arizmendi within 60 days.

George Nelson and Jackie Reed, likely candidates in the welterweight division of the 1936 Golden Gloves tournament, will meet in a return bout tonight at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue. The match, one of eight scheduled, will be at five rounds. In their previous meeting Nelson was awarded the decision.

Ernest [Laddie] Tonelli and Billy Celebron, yesterday were matched to fight ten rounds at 147 pounds at Marigold Gardens next Monday. . . . Art Sykes, the heavyweight, left yesterday for Cincinnati, where he clashes with Nate Bartell tomorrow. . . . Bobby Pacho, California junior welterweight, will be out of action for at least two weeks because of cuts above his nose sustained in his recent battle with Wesley Ramey at Grand Rapids, Mich. . . . Oscar Rankin, middleweight stablemate of Pacho, worked out yesterday afternoon at Trafton's gymnasium for a ten round encounter with Tait Littman, at Milwaukee Nov. 4.

Pat Newman, Seattle wrestler, will be in quest of his sixth consecutive triumph at Merry Gardens tomorrow in his windup match with Young Lewis.

Amateur boxing will be inaugurated at the arena at 3741 West North avenue, starting tomorrow. The card: Leo Pilla and Clarence Lane, John Grant and Al Ware, Frank Klotz and Pete Poulos, Bob Washer and Bill Mitchell, Frank Zale and Henry Newmann, John Klimczak and Mickey Robey, Ralph Walando and Walter Maguire, and Ed Rite and Bill Krueger.

Dublinsky and Jannazzo Fight Ten Round Draw

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Harry Dublinsky, Chicago welterweight, and Izzy Jannazzo, sturdy east sider, who battled to a draw recently, repeated tonight at the St. Nicholas palace, where they fought on even terms for ten rounds. Dublinsky was off to an early lead as he speared his rival with long lefts, and going into the fifth round was in front by a good margin. But after this Jannazzo staged a rally, which brought him on even terms.

Irish Varsity Gets First Day Off This Season

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's first eleven, which played 52 minutes as a unit in defeating Pittsburgh, 9 to 6, last Saturday, was given its first Monday rest today since practice began Sept. 10.

The rest of the squad, however, started preparations for Saturday's game with Navy at Baltimore. Coach Elmer Layden reported there were no serious casualties Saturday, but that the team was tired and bruised from its hard fought battle.

He expressed the conviction that a reaction downward from Saturday's peak is inevitable, while Navy will undoubtedly react upward after its disappointing 7 to 6 defeat at the hands of Yale.

With the Navy and Army games in Baltimore and New York close to sellouts, and with the Ohio State game at Columbus already sold out for two weeks, it became apparent that Notre Dame will total the greatest football crowds since 1930 this year, and the third greatest in its history. The 1930 team drew 520,000 fans and the 1929 team drew 560,000. It is estimated that more than 470,000 fans will see the Irish in nine games this year.

NAVY IN GOOD SHAPE.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Remembering the narrow defeat by Yale Saturday only as a spur to greater efforts against Notre Dame in Baltimore Saturday, the Navy squad began special preparations this afternoon for the contest.

For those who took part in the Yale game, the work of the afternoon consisted of hearing Head Coach Tom Hamilton go over the play of that contest.

The scrimmaging was all done by third and fourth strings, with the plebes as opponents, while the regulars rested from field work.

The players came through the hard game in remarkable shape. Ned Thomas, half back, is limping slightly from an injured ankle, but no other player shows a sign of damage worse than a scratched face or cut lip.

Mid-City Golf Title Goes to Wallenberg, 6 and 5

Frank Wallenberg beat George Piper, 6 and 5, in a 36 hole match for the Mid-City Golf club championship yesterday. In the 18 hole semi-finals, Wallenberg beat Mike Polacci, 1 up, and Piper beat Pick Weagant, 1 up on the 19th.

It's Date Night at Rock Island Gridiron Friday

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—One of the first schools in this vicinity to inaugurate ten cent admission, Rock Island High school will sponsor its first "date night" Friday when it plays Monmouth in a Northwest conference game. Coupons were issued those purchasing advance tickets for a bargain tilt Saturday with Galesburg, entitling man and wife or sweetheart to see this week's game for only one regular admission. Five thousand are expected to attend.

BLACKHAWKS GO THROUGH SPEEDY SHOOTING DRILL

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Manager Clem Loughlin of the Chicago Blackhawks, who confined his activities to the potentialities of nine rookies for eight continuous days, turned his attention to the regulars for the first time this morning at the University of Illinois rink.

The members of last year's team have been allowed to skate to their heart's content and practice in the manner they liked best since their arrival last Thursday, but today Loughlin mapped out work which will be the order for the daily workouts from now till the start of the season Nov. 7.

Hawks Practice Shooting.

Today's drill was entirely devoted to shooting. With the exception of Goalie Chabot, who was away again from practice because of an injured knee, the entire regular squad, forwards and defense players alike vied for prizes given for accuracy in sniping from all sorts of angles and distances at stationary and moving targets. Louie Trudell, Johnny Gottselig and Tommy Cook were awarded a tie apiece from Manager Loughlin at the conclusion of today's practice.

Scrimmage Starts Soon.

The Hawks are expected to start scrimmage work Wednesday, as the time is approaching for the selection of the four right wingers who will operate in the exhibition games Friday and Saturday.

WINTER'S NEAR! HUNGRY HOSSES RUN FOR OATS

Slow Ones Show Speed at Sportsman's Park.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Weather prophets among the horsemen and players at Sportsman's Park yesterday regarded some goings on during the afternoon as certain signs that a long, cold winter, with oats and hay scarce, is not far away.

They watched Mokena, a two year old, make her tenth start of the season and then wind up in the winner's circle for the first time since she came to the races. And she was the favorite, at that, when she made her winning run.

Then they watched Corida, which had been out 30 times this year with three victories to her credit, none of which have been scored since early summer, go to the post as the 8 to 5 favorite. They began to stroke their chins and look up into the cloudy skies when she came from far back and registered a victory.

That's Horse Sense!

"It's just a horse's way of showing its owner that it wants to be sure of food and shelter during the winter months," observed Phil Riley to a group of cronies. "You don't reckon an owner will fail to take good care of a horse that can win for him so late in the season," Col. Riley continued.

Then came the clincher of Col. Riley's argument. The 4 year old Kissie, owned by E. L. Kelly of Chicago, went out to run in a 6½ furlong race. In 35 previous races this season she never had enjoyed even a fleeting glance of the winning post.

Kissie almost must have known about the approaching winter, too. She turned in a whale of a race, ran like a stake horse at times, and turned up as the winner by half a length.

"Didn't I tell you," observed Col. Riley. "Let the snow and the blizzards and the ice come on along. I'll bet my watch and chain that Kissie is well taken care of through it all," he said.

Despite her 35 failures in a row Kissie also mustered quite a few backers in the crowd of 6,000 which braved rainy weather to see the program run off. She paid off in the mutuels at $14.60 for a $2 ticket.

Wild West Disqualified.

The best race on the program was the Forest Park claiming purse. Its running brought all sorts of excitement. Little Duke romped out into an early lead and held it, although he was floundering badly near the end, to win by a head. Wild West finished second and Mintogee third.

The three leaders had run heads apart all the way down the stretch. Jocky Haber let Wild West resort to foul tactics in order to get nearer the lead. Wild West was on the outside and then came over so sharply on Mintogee that the latter was knocked out of the contention.

Wild West was disqualified immediately by the stewards. This moved Mintogee into second place. High Pockets got third money as a result of the foul.

Little Duke ruled as the co-favorite but it was a wild betting race. He paid $10.60 for a $2 ticket.

Ban Jocky Anderson.

Jocky A. [Texas] Anderson was barred from Sportsman's Park by the stewards yesterday for his ride on Busy Spain in a race Oct. 15. Busy Spain finished fourth.

The ruling, signed by C. J. Fitzgerald, Illinois commission steward; C. W. Hay and J. J. Graddy, read as follows:

"For an unsatisfactory ride of the horse Busy Spain on Oct. 15, and for violation of rule number 204, which prohibits jockies from betting except on their own mounts and only through the owners of the horse, Jocky A. Anderson is denied the privileges of Sportsman's Park and his case is referred to the Illinois racing commission, with recommendation that his license be suspended."

Time, :24, :49 4-5, 1:03 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Mokena, $7.40 straight, $3.80 place, $3.20 show; Batting Eye, $4.60 place, $3.60 show; Obstreperous, $3.40 show. Winner trained by A. Wallin. Went to post at 2:00. At post 7 minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily; place driving.

MOKENA displayed good speed from the start and apparently superior in the going, increased her margin steadily and won cantering. BATTING EYE began fast, was hustled in contention early, was forced wide at the first turn, losing much ground, gave improved speed under severe punishment, closed gamely, but was no match for the winner. OBSTREPEROUS, a strong factor throughout, held on well in the drive.

SECOND RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $475; second, $75; third, $30; fourth, $20.

Time, :26, :51 4-5, 1:18 4-5, 1:26. Two dollar mutuels paid: Kissie, $14.60 straight, $6.20 place, $5.20 show; Pent House, $5.00 place, $4.40 show; Thipdar, $6.00 show. Winner trained by S. J. Kelley. Went to post at 2:37. At post 4½ minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place same.

KISSIE, away well, was taken in hand after attaining a forward position, responded gamely under pressure and outfinished PENT HOUSE. Latter, away in stride, set the pace under mild reserve, gave way when challenged, but rallied to punishment and came again in the closing stages. THIPDAR, a contender throughout, held on gamely in the drive.

THIRD RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $475; second, $75; third, $30; fourth, $20. [Daily double, 2d and 3d races, paid $30.20.]

Time, :25 2-5, :50 4-5, 1:17 4-5, 1:25 4-5. Weather raining. Two dollar mutuels paid: Corida, $4.60 straight, $3.40 place, $2.60 show; Imelda, $8.20 place, $4.60 show; Oderic, $3.80 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 3:09. At post ½ minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place same.

CORIDA, shuffled back at the start, was cleverly handled thereafter and brought to contention gradually, saved much ground throughout, gave improved speed in the stretch, overhauled the leaders and won drawing clear. IMELDA, a strong factor throughout, held on gamely when challenged, but could not withstand the winner. ODERIC, placed forwardly throughout, offered good contention, but was not good enough.

FOURTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $550; second, $90; third, $40; fourth, $20.

SEVENTH HEAVEN [Webs'r]	109	5	7	4¹½	4h	2½	1²		W.C.Goodloe	2.90-1

GRANDMA GIRL [Martin]	112	3	4	3¹	3¹	4²	7⁷		Mrs.G.Miller	37.00-1

Time, :25 2-5, :51, 1:18, 1:25 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Seventh Heaven, $7.80 straight, $4.00 place, $3.00 show; Sun Voter, $6.20 place, $3.60 show; Dorothy W., $3.20 show. Winner trained by A. Wallin. Went to post at 3:36. At post 1½ minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won ridden out; place driving.

SEVENTH HEAVEN, favored by the going, improved her position gradually, came wide entering the stretch, wore down SUN VOTER and won going away under strong pressure. Latter took command early, continued with good speed, but could not withstand the winner. DOROTHY W, slow to get going, gained gradually, finished fast, but was no threat.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs, out of chute. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

LITTLE DUKE [Boganowski]	111	4	1	1h	1½	1¹	1½	1ⁿ	W.L.McCue	4.30-1

FANDAN [O.Webster]	111	8	10	10	10	10	10	10	C.Holt	13.00-1

*Disqualified. Time, :23 4-5, :50, 1:16 4-5, 1:31. Two dollar mutuels paid: Little Duke, $10.60 straight, $5.20 place, $3.60 show; Mintogee, $5.80 place, $4.20 show; High Pockets, $7.40 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 4:05. At post 5 minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place same.

LITTLE DUKE, away in motion, was placed in the lead, then cleverly rated, continued in front under occasional pressure, stood a long drive gamely and lasted under a powerful ride. WILD WEST, a strong factor throughout, came around the outside entering the stretch, forced MINTOGEE into close quarters, for which he was disqualified. MINTOGEE forced the winner's pace throughout, was offering stubborn contention when impeded and might have been a keener contender with clear passage. HIGH POCKETS, slow to attain his best stride, closed resolutely.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $550; second, $90; third, $40; fourth, $20.

DUSTY LANE [J.Leyland]	112	8	5	7h	8⁴	5½	3⁴	1⁸	Mrs.J.Forte	7.10-1

BUDDY APOLIS [R.Haber]	112	7	3	6²	7³	10	10	10	A.Janicki	10.30-1

Time, :24 2-5, :50 3-5, 1:17 2-5, 1:46 3-5, 1:51 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Dusty Lane, $16.20 straight, $8.00 place, $5.40 show; Mutual Friend, $28.80 place, $12.60 show; Ned O, $10.40 show. Winner trained by D. D. Fuchs. Went to post at 4:37. At post 1 minute. Start good. Won easily; place driving.

DUSTY LANE, suddenly improved, slow to attain his best stride, gained steadily when subjected to strong punishment, overhauled the leaders in the stretch and won going away. MUTUAL FRIEND, improved under different handling, disposed of EXCLUSIVE, but could not withstand the winner. NED O, far back early, gained fast in the final stages and was up for third in the final strides.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $550; second, $90; third, $40; fourth, $20.

BOBBY SWEEP [L.Wilson]	115	6	1	2³	1³	1³	1¹½	1²	Mrs.Starks	1.90-1

Time, :25 3-5, :51 3-5, 1:18 3-5, 1:47 1-5, 1:52. Two dollar mutuels paid: Bobby Sweep, $5.80 straight, $3.40 place, $2.60 show; Demagogue, $5.20 place, $3.60 show; Fair Boy, $2.80 show. Winner trained by B. Johnson. Went to post at 5:04. At post 2½ minutes. Start good. Won easily; place driving.

BOBBY SWEEP, much the best and displaying the most speed, took a commanding lead early, continued gamely and won easing up. DEMAGOGUE, closest to the pace throughout, offered good contention, but was overmatched. FAIR BOY, slow to get going, moved up fast after half a mile, closed gamely, but could not menace the first two.

SIDNEY SMITH'S FUNERAL WILL BE TOMORROW

Services for Cartoonist in Church at 2 P. M.

Funeral services for Sidney Smith, noted cartoonist of THE TRIBUNE and creator of "The Gumps," will be conducted in the Fourth Presbyterian church at 2 p. m. tomorrow by the Rev. Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson. Interment will be at Rosehill cemetery.

Mr. Smith was killed early Sunday in an automobile collision just south of Harvard in McHenry county. His automobile, in which he was driving alone toward his farm at Shirland near Rockford, collided with another sedan driven by Wendell Martin, Watseka, also alone. Martin is in a serious condition in a hospital at Harvard.

List of Pall Bearers.

Active pall bearers at the funeral will be Ednyfed H. Williams, Mr. Smith's attorney; Alexander J. McKay, William M. Dewey of the Edgewater Beach hotel, George Mason Jr., Lloyd Maxwell, A. D. Plamondon, Michael J. Lanahan, and E. R. Fifield.

Honorary pall bearers will include Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, and many friends and associates.

Mr. Smith is survived by his widow, two children by a former marriage, Mrs. Gladys Smith Luckow of Lauderdale Lake, Wis., and Robert Sidney Smith Jr. of Arizona. There are two brothers, Dr. Thomas H. Smith of Bloomington, Ill., and James T. Smith of Los Angeles, Cal., and three sisters, Mrs. Charlotte Heafner, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Fan Jo Coolidge, Bloomington, Ill., and Mrs. James Zorge, 5018 Sheridan road, Chicago.

Removed to Town House.

Dr. Smith and Mrs. Luckow arrived in Chicago yesterday for the funeral and the son will arrive this morning from the west.

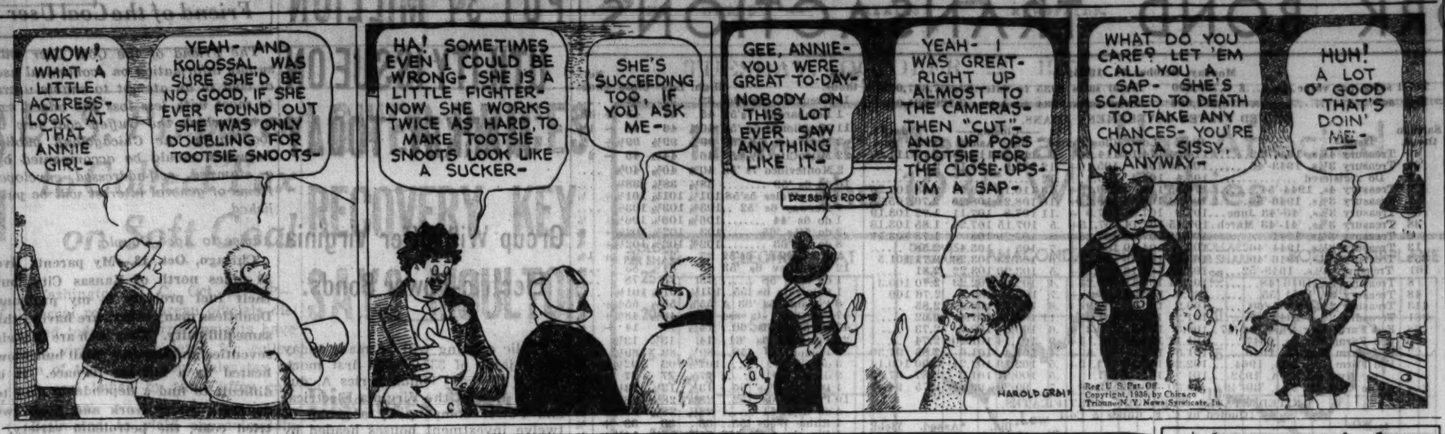
The body of Mr. Smith was removed Sunday from an undertaking establishment in Harvard to the town residence at 1500 Lake Shore drive, where it will remain until the funeral. Messages of sympathy to the family include a telegram from Mayor Kelly, a personal friend.

An inquest into the accident begun on Sunday morning was continued to Oct. 30.

Mr. Smith was born in Bloomington, Ill., on Feb. 13, 1877. He was educated in the public schools of the city and early began displaying the genius for drawing and humor that later was to make him famous. At the age of 18 he was drawing cartoons for a Bloomington paper, and he worked on papers in Indianapolis, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and Toledo.

He came to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in 1911, and created "The Gumps" in 1917. His comic strip was syndicated to 300 papers throughout the world. He was a member of the Chicago Athletic association, the Bob o' Link Country club, the Lake Shore Athletic club, and the Tavern club.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Her Double's Life



L. E. MITCHELL, 73, PLAYWRIGHT, DEAD IN EAST

'Becky Sharp' Written from 'Vanity Fair.'

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Langdon Elwyn Mitchell, noted playwright of New York, died today in the University of Pennsylvania hospital of nephritis. He was 73 years old.

The son of Weir Mitchell, Philadelphia physician and author, Langdon Mitchell was born Feb. 17, 1862. He studied law at Harvard and Columbia and was admitted to the New York bar. Then, after traveling abroad he took up practice in Philadelphia, but soon turned to writing. In later years he resided in New York.

Dramatized "Vanity Fair."

His first play "In the Season" was produced in London in 1893. He dramatized Thackery's "Vanity Fair" under the title "Becky Sharp" and this, with a play dealing with American life, "The New York Idea" were included in the repertoire of Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske.

Other plays by Mr. Mitchell included "A Kentucky Belle," a dramatization of "The Kreutzer Sonata," which was played by Madame Bertha Kalich; "Step by Step," "The New Marriage," and "Major Pendennis." He also wrote several books of verse.

Widow Former Actress.

Mr. Mitchell was married in 1892 to Marion Lea, an actress, formerly of Philadelphia. She survives him together with two daughters, Mrs. Kenneth Day of Philadelphia and Mrs. William Gammell of Providence, R. I., and a son, Weir Mitchell of New York.

GEN. McCAUSLAND SON ON TRIAL IN TENANT'S DEATH

Spencer, W. Va., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Sam H. McCausland, son of John J. McCausland, famous general of the confederacy, went on trial today for his life.

McCausland, whose father led bold raids into the north—once burning Chambersburg, Pa.—is charged with killing Howard Chester West, decorated by several governments for world war service, a tenant on the McCausland farm in Mason county.

After the selection of a jury the state balked the attempt of McCausland's attorneys to draw out evidence supporting a plea of self-defense.

Attorney F. G. Musgrave tried on cross-examination of Sam Martin, state witness, to secure a statement that Martin's stepfather, West, had struck McCausland. The court overruled Musgrave's effort.

MRS. B. GOUDY, WIFE OF TYPE DESIGNER, DIES

Marlborough-on-Hudson, N. Y., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Bertha M. Goudy, sole compositor and typesetter for the books issued by the Village Press, owned and operated by her husband, Frederick W. Goudy, died this morning following a heart attack preceded by a nervous breakdown. She was 67. While Mr. Goudy was becoming widely known as a designer of new type faces, Mrs. Goudy achieved a reputation among printers and bibliophiles for the perfection of her work in composing and setting type. Her last work was on Mary Woolstoncraft Shelley's "Frankenstein," all the long text of which she set by hand.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Goudy leaves a son, Frederick T. Goudy, of Marlboro, and a sister, Mrs. George Thompson of Chicago. Mrs. Goudy was known as America's greatest woman printer. She was a clerk in a Chicago office forty-five years ago when she met Mr. Goudy, an Indiana youth, who even then as a bookkeeper had a notion of making beautiful type. She was then Miss Bertha M. Sprinks of Berwyn, Ill., and was married to Mr. Goudy on June 2, 1897.

When Mr. Goudy first conceived the idea of designing type more than thirty years ago it was Mrs. Goudy who helped him set up a shop, a hand press in their home at Park Ridge. They named their shop the Village Press and Mrs. Goudy set the type on the first work, "The Essay of Printing," by William Morris.

J. W. McCoubrey, Liggett Drug Head in Canada, Dies

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—(AP)—James William McCoubrey, 55, vice president and general manager of the United Drug Company, Ltd., and president of the L. K. Liggett Company of Canada, Ltd., died here suddenly during the week-end. McCoubrey had been an outstanding figure in the drug trade of Canada for years. He was born in Lambton county, Ont., in 1880. Following graduation from the Ontario College of Pharmacy, University of Toronto, he went to San Francisco and from there to Detroit where he joined the Liggett organization in 1908. He leaves his widow, Florence Mae Commer McCoubrey, and three daughters.

Only One Property Owner Blocks Park at Hospital

Mayor Kelly was informed yesterday by a delegation of physicians that only one property owner stands in the way of the proposed park between Congress, Lincoln, Harrison and Wood streets across from the county hospital. The mayor was asked to use his influence to get the property owner to sell his land at the northeast corner of Honore and Harrison streets at a reasonable price. The physicians were brought in by Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], who, with County Commissioner Peter M. Kelly, has been working for several years to get a park at that site.

SUFFERS FATAL STROKE AS SHE REJOINS CHURCH

Mrs. Mary Krueger, 3544 South Hoyne avenue, formerly was a member of the Nazareth Lutheran church at 6000 South Spaulding avenue. She had not attended services there, however, for thirty-one years. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Krueger went to the pastor, the Rev. Herbert Kohn, and announced that she had determined to join the church.

While she was explaining the reason for her return to the fold she suddenly became ill of a cerebral hemorrhage and fainted. She died soon afterward without regaining consciousness.

NOTED COMPOSER AND EX-FOLLIES STAR MARRIED

Colorado Springs, Colo., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Vincent Youmans, composer, and Miss Mildred Boots, former New York Follies star, were married today in Castle Rock, Colo.

Youmans, who composed "Hit the Deck," "No, No, Nanette," "Flying Down to Rio," and many other popular songs, came to Colorado Springs sixteen months ago to make his home.

Youmans' home formerly was in New York, where he headed the music publishing concern of Vincent Youmans, Inc.

OTIS E. GLIDDEN, MANUFACTURER OF FOODS, DIES

Otis Ensign Glidden, 1107 Lake street, Evanston, identified with the manufacturer of a number nationally known food and health products, died Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. R. Heimlich, in Le Roy, N. Y., according to word received here yesterday. Mr. Glidden was 63 years old and had been in ill health for several months.

Mr. Glidden began his business career as a clerk in a country store. From 1897 until 1916 he was manager of the Jell-O enterprises at Le Roy, and for the next six years he headed the Jiffy Desert company at Waukesha, Wis.

In 1922 Mr. Glidden became president of the Petrolagar Laboratories, Inc., and its associated concerns, as well as the Affiliated Products, Inc., group. He left them recently to form his own company with offices in Evanston.

Mr. Glidden is survived by two children, Ernest, of Waukesha, and Mrs. Heimlich, at whose home the funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon.

DORRANCE TAX ARGUMENT LOST BY GOVERNMENT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Heirs of John T. Dorrance, who already have paid the state of Pennsylvania $14,394,698 and the federal government $4,359,413 in estate taxes, today won a complete victory in a controversy over the federal taxes.

The internal revenue bureau had claimed $3,988,343 more to be due. But by the settlement accepted by the internal revenue bureau and attorneys for the estate it is agreed that $57,202 too much tax was paid to the federal government. This sum will be refunded.

New Jersey has claimed $16,768,477 on the ground that Dorrance ws domiciled there at the time of his death, Dec. 21, 1920.

Executors insist that any sum paid to New Jersey be deducted from the gross estate.

Dorrance assets included holdings in many corporations, with $61,051,300 in the Campbell Soup company.

Funeral Rites Tomorrow for Mrs. Mary Schlake

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Schlake, 67 years old, who died Sunday, will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home at 1600 Diversey parkway. Burial will be in St. Lucas cemetery. Mrs. Schlake is survived by her husband, William Schlake, former Lincoln park commissioner; two daughters, and three sons.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Four orchestra leaders will join in a musical salute to Enric Madriguera and his orchestra when they open at the new Terrace room of the Morrison and over NBC tonight. The welcome broadcast is scheduled for 10:30 to 11:30 p. m. with Kay Kyser playing from Pittsburgh, Ben Bernie from Philadelphia, Griff Williams from San Francisco, and Reggie Childs from New York.

Madriguera was last heard here locally when he provided the musical portions of Phil Baker's programs in June. He is particularly adept at tangos and other Latin American rhythms. With him at the Morrison will be the King's Jesters, well known radio harmony team. They will be heard nightly over NBC networks.

Lennie Hayton and his "Hit Parade" sponsor will part company Nov. 9 after a run of 30 weeks. It is likely that a fast, peppy band of B. A. Rolfe's type will be brought back by the sponsor. . . . Jan Garber, heard regularly over W-G-N from the Trianon, will be a guest on the NBC "Magic Key" program next Sunday, along with Jessica Dragonette and Beatrice Lillie.

Unlike most symphonic broadcasts, the programs of the Chicago Symphony orchestra on Saturday evenings over W-G-N and MBS are pleasantly informal. Dr. Stock's impromptu remarks add considerably to the attractiveness of the programs. Last Saturday Dr. Stock called for a request. A voice called out from the audience for Ravel's Bolero, if we understood correctly. Dr. Stock had to decline because that is on the restricted list.

"No," he explained. "That would cost about $200 dollars."

The orchestra responded to another suggestion.

The voice of Bob Burns, Ozark comedian, who is being heard currently on the Paul Whiteman hour, bears considerable resemblance to that of the late Will Rogers. Wouldn't be surprised if his drawling stories would find considerable public favor. That "bazooka" he plays is constructed of about 7 cents worth of gas pipe and an old whisky funnel.

For two months Alice Catherine Cronick, 4626 Magnolia avenue, has been plugging songs in the music department of a loop department store. Next Monday night at 7 o'clock she will go on the air over NBC as a singer on the Fibber McGee program. Her voice attracted the attention of the sponsors and the 21 year old singer signed her contract last week. She will use the radio name of Donna Kay, the same name under which she sang over NBC three years ago.

Josephine Antoine, Metropolitan soprano, who was injured in the Oklahoma motor crash in which Kurt Brownell, tenor, was killed Sunday, is scheduled for several appearances on the Friday evening Beauty Box Theater. . . . Mary Lewis, the opera soprano who has been in retirement for several seasons, is thinking seriously of trying for a radio career.

Radio followers of the Morin Sisters—Pauline and Evelyn—may be interested in the announcement that their mother, Manuella Morin, is holding a public auction of the family's household goods at their home in Fowler, Ind., on Saturday, Oct. 26. There are a hundred or more assorted items, including "three rugs in fair condition . . . one very fancy stand . . . large bunch of good folding chairs . . . 19 silo boards . . . 150 feet of chicken wire fencing." A handbill sent to this desk by a local correspondent announced the sale.

Mlle. Elsie Guittar, prima donna of the revue, "Folies Bergere," will be the headliner on the Palace Varieties at 6:15 this evening over WENR.

POSTAL CLERKS' EXAMINATION.

The United States civil service commission announced yesterday that applications for an open examination for substitute railway postal clerk positions would be received at its offices here until Oct. 28.

RITES TOMORROW FOR MARY CARR, RETIRED TEACHER

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary M. Carr, 6250 Lakewood avenue, pioneer resident of the Edgewater district and a public school teacher for 25 years, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in St. Gertrude's church. Mrs. Carr died Sunday in St. Anne's hospital after a short illness. She was 73 years old.

Born in Manchester, N. H., Mrs. Carr came here with her parents when she was 2 years old. During the time she taught school until her retirement 25 years ago, Mrs. Carr had many prominent Chicagoans as her pupils. She was president of St. Columbkill branch of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent association and treasurer of the Chicago council.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Margaret L. Condon and Miss Julia C. McCarthy. Mrs. Carr's husband died several years ago.

Funeral Services Today for Charles W. Kelly, 65

Funeral services for Charles W. Kelly, secretary-treasurer of the National Railway Appliances association, will be held today from the chapel at 318 North Central avenue. Burial will be in Forest Home cemetery. Mr. Kelly, who was 65 years old and lived at Williams Bay, Wis., died Saturday in the Garfield Park hospital after an operation. His wife, Ida, and a daughter survive.

Gen. Ngai Bong-ping, Once an Ally of Dr. Sun, Is Dead

CANTON, China, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The veteran Gen. Ngai Bong-ping, one of Dr. Sun Yat-sen's early military associates but later an ally of Sun's enemy, Chan Wing-ming, died here today. He was police commissioner of Canton and demolished the city walls to make way for the first modern streets.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 21.—United States government issues held the limelight in bond trading on the New York Stock exchange today. Domestic corporation bonds held to narrow limits with mixed closing prices. Total sales amounted to $9,703,000, compared with $10,454,000 on Friday, the last full trading session.

With most of the treasury and guaranteed obligations in the higher brackets, the federal obligations moved ahead impressively with transactions totaling $2,088,000, against $2,658,700 on Friday. Closing prices were 4-32 to 12-32 of a point higher.

Treasury 4 Per Cent Rise.

The treasury 4s of 1944-'54 made the most impressive advances, moving up 13-32 of a point, while both the 4¼s, 3¼s of 1933-'45, and the registered issue gained 12-32 of a point.

Reflecting the strength of the motor stocks, bonds in this group enjoyed a strong demand, with Murray Body 6½s registering the widest swing and attaining a new high for the year through a gain of 8 points. Walworth issues were up 2 to 3 points, while Studebaker 6s moved ahead.

Rails, Utilities Irregular.

Although rails and the utilities were inclined to be irregular, there were strong outcroppings among these groups, with Great Northern Railway advancing 3 points. New Haven issues were again subject to pressure and closing prices were off 1 to 2 points.

Italian obligations failed to hold their gains made during the latter part of the preceding week and under a renewed sinking spell closed 1½ to 2 points lower on the day.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

If you wish information about investments or insurance write to The Tribune Investors' Guide. Inclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply. Advance Aluminum Castings.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me any information you can about Advance Aluminum?—L. M. G.

Answer: The business of Advance Aluminum Castings corporation, whose plants are at Chicago and Rockford, Ill., was formerly about 90 per cent of the production of aluminum cooking utensils and 10 per cent jobbing. Greater emphasis on production of aluminum products for job orders has just reversed these percentages and enabled the company to enter profitable operations after five years of loss.

Net income for the first half of 1935 was $27,000, 18 cents a share, against net of $2,300, or 2 cents a share, for the first half of 1934.

Net sales in 1934 were $1,043,000, against $685,000 in 1933, $856,000 in 1932, and $1,696,000 in 1931. In 1934 the company lost $42,000, against losses of $198,000, $310,000, $516,000, and $235,000 for four preceding years.

On Dec. 31, 1934, current assets, including $67,000 cash, totaled $235,000 and current liabilities were $117,000.

Nothing has been paid on the 145,507 shares of $5 per capital stock since November, 1930. The stock is highly speculative.

Dodge Brothers Stock.

Investors' Guide: I have some Dodge Brothers stock and was wondering if it is of any value. Some years ago there was an offer to exchange it for Chrysler stock. Is the offer still open? To whom would I write about it?—M. L. D.

Answer: We have the following letter from R. P. Fohey, secretary of Chrysler corporation:

"The offer of exchange of Chrysler corporation stock for stock of Dodge Brothers, Inc., is still open. Accumulated dividends on Chrysler corporation stock will be paid to holders of Dodge stock at the time the exchange is made.

"I do not know, however, just how much longer it is going to be possible to make the exchange. Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, 70 Broadway, New York City, is the bank to contact relative to any exchange to be made."

Balatoc Mining Company's Address.

Investors' Guide: Could you supply me with the addresses of the two following mining companies located in the Philippine Islands: Balatoc Mining company and Benguet Consolidated Mining company?—H. W. R.

Answer: Balatoc Mining company is a subsidiary of Benguet Consolidated Mining company. Addresses are 11[illegible] Hobart building, San Francisco.

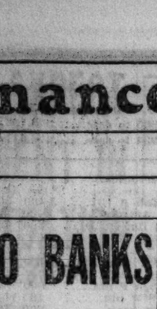
CHICAGO BANKS CUT INTEREST ON SAVINGS TO 1½%

Move Forced by New Deal Policies.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The amount of interest paid on savings deposits by Chicago banks next year will be reduced more than two million dollars by virtue of the action of the Chicago Clearing House association yesterday in voting to reduce interest rates on such deposits from 2 per cent to 1½ per cent, effective Jan. 1, 1936.



J. M. NICHOLS. [Paul Stone Photo.]

While no statement other than the bare announcement of the cut was given out yesterday, it is generally known that the action is due to the "easy money" policy of the New Dealers in Washington, who, by gradually forcing down the interest rates on United States government bonds have brought about unprecedented low money rates.

Earnings Cut Sharply.

The steady lowering of interest rates on government bonds and other types of paper in which banks invest their funds has reduced earnings of banks all over the country and forced them to adopt various measures calculated to cut down their overhead. Most banks have instituted service charges of various kinds and have lowered salaries.

The latest reduction in interest rates on savings in Chicago brings them to the lowest in history. After remaining at 3 per cent for many years the clearing house banks' rate on savings was cut to 2½ per cent on Dec. 31, 1932. A further reduction to 2 per cent was effected June 30, 1934. Last June some members of the clearing house advocated another reduction on July 1, but, after much discussion, the matter was shelved until yesterday, when the 1½ per cent rate was voted to be effective Jan. 1.

One Per Cent Rate Advocated.

Some bankers yesterday expressed the opinion that a "complete job" had not been done and that the savings interest rate should have been dropped still further to a flat 1 per cent. They argued that the average yield on the type of short term paper in which banks invest their savings deposits was below 1 per cent and that to pay even as much as 1½ per cent meant carrying savings deposits at a loss, in view of the present lack of demand for bank funds by commercial borrowers.

Others argued that even though savings deposits were not at present profitable, it was good public policy to pay as high a rate as possible in order to encourage depositors to continue their accounts against the day when banks might be able to employ such funds profitably.

Another argument was that in view of the 2 per cent paid by the government on postal savings deposits too wide a spread might cause depositors to shift from the banks to postal savings.

Most Banks Are Affected.

The Chicago Clearing House association includes all of the larger banks and many outlying institutions. These will be directly affected by yesterday's decision. Most of the nonclearing house members follow the clearing house member banks in establishing interest rate changes.

A few Chicago banks pay interest rates at variance with the clearing house rate. On July 1 J. M. [100 Per Cent] Nichols, president of the First National bank of Englewood, scoffing at his competitors for paying rates which he said could not be earned, reduced interest on savings deposits from 2 per cent to 1 per cent.

Based on the 441 million dollars in savings deposits of Chicago banks on Sept. 30 a reduction of one-half of 1 per cent interest would mean a reduction in income of Chicago savings depositors of about $2,200,000 per year. Interest at 1½ per cent on 441 millions would be about $6,620,000, compared with a return of about $13,240,000 if the interest rate were 3 per cent.

U. S. Prepares to Collect Tax on Soft Coal

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Internal revenue bureau officials disclosed today that arrangements have been virtually completed for collection of the 15 per cent sales tax on soft coal levied by the Guffey coal control act.

Estimated to yield approximately $10,000,000 annually to the federal treasury, the so-called "compliance tax" goes into effect on Nov. 1, but the first payments will be due Jan. 2, 1936. Approximately 15,000 producers of bituminous coal are subject to the tax but, under the law, all those who agree to comply with the code prescribed by the act will be entitled to a rebate of 90 per cent of the tax.

D. Spencer Bliss, deputy commissioner of internal revenue, said the bureau's regulations governing collection of the tax, which will be levied on the sale price of coal at the mine, are "well advanced."

Want Regulations Clarified.

Informed sources said the national bituminous coal commission was seeking clarification on certain points respecting the bureau's regulations in the hope of inducing coal operators to coöperate more readily with the act. Chairman Charlesford Jr., declined to comment on this point, however, pending a decision by the bureau.

Blanks on which each producer will be required to file monthly returns for taxation purposes are being prepared, officials said. It was explained each operator will have to fill out the form showing, in substance, the amount of coal produced and its sale price. If an operator has "signed up" under the code, he will be entitled to deduct 90 per cent of the tax and remit cash for the balance only.

Yield from Tax in Doubt.

Accurate estimates as to what the tax would yield initially were not available. Officials explained this could not be determined because coal prices have not yet been fixed in accordance with the act and there is no knowledge of what proportion of the producers will be eligible for the rebate.

Creation of a new price structure for the industry is the duty of 23 district boards, none of which has been elected. At least 12 elections already have been scheduled, the earliest being that of the central Pennsylvania producers set for Oct. 26 in Philadelphia.

Meanwhile, the coal commission announced Henry T. Hint, general counsel for the Public Works administration, had been assigned as chief counsel for the commission. He is to serve until congress appropriates funds sufficient to enable the commission to designate its own legal staf.

CANADA TO SELL NEWSPRINT FOR $41 TON IN 1936

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Oct. 21.—Canadian newsprint will be sold for United States delivery at $41 per ton in 1936, compared with the present price of $40. The trade is being informed that this figure is practically forced on Canadian firms by the Great Northern Paper company, which recently increased newsprint prices $1 per ton to $41.

Canadian manufacturers had hoped to get at least $42.50 for their product next year. They now figure the only way they can earn a favorable profit is through a jump in American currency, as all contracts call for payment in United States funds.

STEEL OUTPUT IS ESTIMATED NEAR 1935 PEAK

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Steel operations will rise 1.4 points, or 2.8 per cent, this week to a level of 51.8 per cent of theoretical capacity, the highest level since the week of Feb. 4, when the year's peak of 52.8 per cent was established.

The figure of the week, as based on reports of steel ingot production by members to the American Iron and Steel institute today, compared with 48.9 per cent a month ago and 23.9 per cent in the like week of 1934.

Bank of Netherlands Cuts Discount Rate to 4½ Pct.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Bank of the Netherlands today reduced its discount rate from 5 per cent to 4½ per cent. The reduction followed a one per cent drop five days ago, apparently due to easier money conditions through the replenishment of the Netherlands gold stocks in the last two weeks.

LOWER PRICES RECOVERY KEY, SAYS MOULTON

Discloses Results of Three Year Study.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Lower commodity prices in many lines, to facilitate effective distribution of a greater mass production, are seen by the Brookings institution, Washington, as a means of stimulating an increased volume of business and preventing future American depressions.

H. G. MOULTON.

This is one of the main conclusions reached after a three year study, financed by the Maurice and Laura Falk Foundation of Pittsburgh, Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of the institution, told more than 300 prominent Pittsburghers here tonight.

Dr. Moulton emphasized that his analysis, reached during the long survey at a cost of $150,000, "relates not so much to conditions at the moment as to longer-run possibilities."

Challenge for Future Years.

"Even now it may well be possible in many lines to stimulate and increase volume of business through downward price adjustments," he added. "In any event, this is the great challenge which is presented to American business men in the years that lie ahead."

Dr. Moulton announced the Falk Foundation has allotted an additional grant to supplement the $150,000 which was spent for an inquiry into immediate ways and means of helping increase prosperity.

The 51 year old economist declared a world without depressions can be accomplished only if the benefits of increased efficiency of both human beings and machinery are passed along to the entire people in lower commodity prices. The Brookings institution, he explained, is devoted to social service research.

Redistribution Ineffective.

"It should be clearly understood that a mere redistribution of the existing income of society will not accomplish the desired results," Dr. Moulton asserted, pointing out that the average income in the most prosperous year was $665, and the addition of incomes from investments and corporation officials' salaries added a mere $140.

"The paramount requirement is to increase progressively the total amount of income to be divided," he said. "Only if the aggregate income of 80 billion a year increases to 100 billion, to 150 billion, to 200 billion dollars will it be possible to achieve the goal desired."

As long as widespread underconsumption exists, the speaker said, a program of public works will not solve the basic need.

"Not unless the government were to take over the production of food, clothing, and other basic necessities," he added, "would it be possible thus to give the people what the people most stand in need.

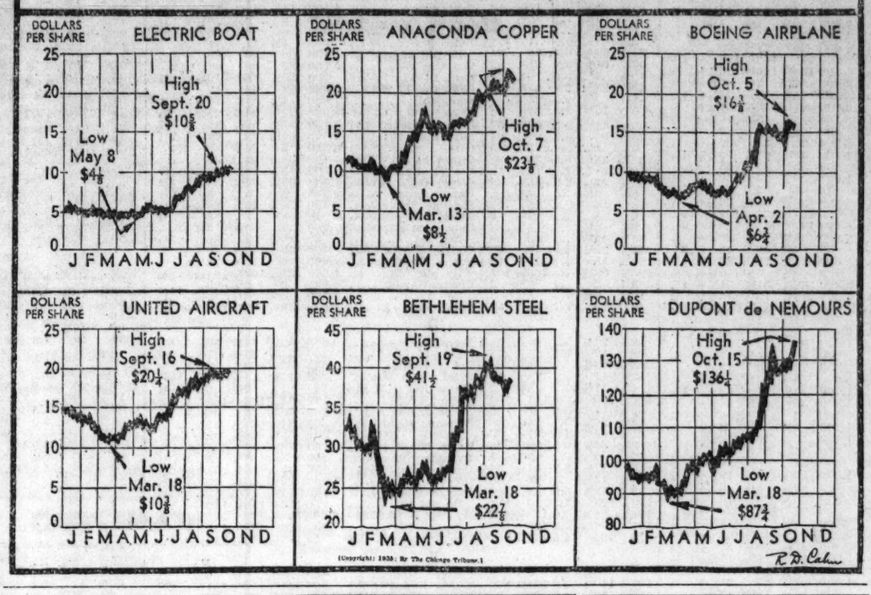
Taxation Not Primary Factor.

"We conclude, therefore, that taxation has a place in a program for redistributing income—an increasing place as the years pass—but not a place of primary or fundamental importance."

After referring to the "interferences" with competitive price movements from major types of business organizations, Dr. Moulton said:

"There are many different types of trade associations and not all of them are able to exert an influence upon prices, but by and large trade associations promote price stability. These associations, unlike consolidations, have generally been viewed with favor by the United States government as a means of stabilizing business."

How the War Scare Has Affected the 1935 War Babies



Auto Leaders Spurn Plan for New NRA

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Administration plans for a conference on NRA's future received a cold shoulder today from the automobile industry. A letter to George L. Berry, industrial coördinator and organizer of the meeting, asserted the automobile business did not see any usefulness in the proposal and, therefore, was declining to attend.

"Regrets" were expressed by the Automobile Manufacturers' association, trade organization of the industry, which includes such giant employers as General Motors and Chrysler. The letter was not made public. Informed sources, however, said it emphasized that much of the information obtainable through conferences would be made available by the studies now being carried on in NRA.

Other Industries May Object.

Business circles coincidently reported that many industries are being advised by Washington representatives to attend the conferences, tentatively scheduled for next month, mainly to register their objections to new NRA legislation at this time. These advices were said to stress that failure to attend might leave only persons favorable to NRA at the conference, with the result that a wrong impression of industry's viewpoint would be presented.

Also other unfavorable replies from important sections of industry were said by an official to have been received by Berry, although he said recently the bulk of the replies was favorable. He stressed the conferences were being held to determine the viewpoint of business, in line with the President's declaration that NRA's future depended on the desires of business.

Adopt Waiting Policy.

Industry apparently has adopted a waiting policy in regard to present code making opportunities. Only nine industries have asked for voluntary labor codes and another two dozen for trade practice codes. The federal trade commission has approved just one in the latter category and no voluntary codes have been approved.

The American Federation of Labor has left its position unclarified, except to call for a continuation of the principles of minimum wages and maximum hours and to recommend further study of exactly how the continuation should be obtained.

SEPTEMBER FINANCIAL ADVERTISING CLIMBS 16.7 PCT. ABOVE 1934

Financial advertising increased further during September, according to an analysis published yesterday by Advertising Age. The September, 1935, total was 2,187,000 lines compared with 1,875,000 lines for the same month a year ago, a gain of 16.7 per cent.

Advertising as a whole showed an improvement during September commensurate with that of general business, the analysis shows. The lineage figure for 82 representative cities showed an increase over September, 1934, of 5,321,000 lines, a gain of 3.9 per cent. The September, 1935, total was 142,446,000 lines compared with 137,125,000 lines a year ago.

Retail advertising increased to 84,246,000 lines compared with 80,564,000 lines for September, 1934, a gain of 4.6 per cent. General advertising showed an increase of 425,000 lines, or 1.8 per cent.

Classified advertising rose 10.8 per cent, with an increase of 2,424,000 lines to a total of 24,900,000 lines.

Automotive advertising was the only classification to show a loss during the month, declining 39 per cent.

ITALY REPORTS FURTHER LOSS IN GOLD STOCK

ROME, Italy, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Italy's gold reserves as of Oct. 10 totaled 4,025,300,000 lire [the lira is currently quoted at 8⅛ cents], the Bank of Italy reported today. This compared with 4,251,400,000 lire as of Sept. 30 and 5,257,634,000 July 31.

Other items in the statement were: Balances abroad, 412,640,000; notes in circulation, 15,425,000,000; sight liabilities, 1,026,500,000; ratio of gold stock to note circulation, 24.15, and ratio of reserve to note circulation, and sight liabilities, 28.43.

Thompson Restaurant Gross Dips; Loss Reduced

Loss of the John R. Thompson company for the first nine months of 1935 was cut to $141,535 from $173,642 in the first nine months of 1934, it was announced yesterday. This was accomplished in the face of a drop in gross sales to $8,332,800 from $8,651,113 last year.

Survey Shows Steady Gains in Business

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—General business continued to improve through September and the first half of October, according to the monthly survey of the national industrial conference board released today. The board also reported that wholesale and retail prices continued to rise.

"Electric power output gained during early October to the highest level on record," the survey says. "Gains over August were also registered during September in the steel industry, residential building, railroad shipments and in distribution and trade.

"Foreign trade was better in August than in July. Security prices dropped sharply in September but recovered most of their decline during the first half of October."

Decline Less Than Seasonal.

The survey said the total value of building contracts awarded during September showed less than a seasonal decline. For the first nine months of the year total awards were less than for the same period of 1934, it reported. This was caused chiefly by the falling off of publicly financed contracts, private building continuing to increase throughout the year.

"Residential building contracts in September were nearly $42,000,000, or 134 per cent higher than a year ago," the organization said. "Home building in 37 states during the first nine months of 1935 amounted to $339,000,000, or 80 per cent more than for the corresponding months of 1934.

Car Loadings Advance.

"Average weekly loadings of miscellaneous manufactured goods in carload lots during September were 8 per cent above August. Movement of goods by truck is estimated to be 20 per cent greater than a year ago.

"The wholesale price index, which stood at 80.1 in May, the last month of operation under the codes, had risen to 80.8 in September, a new high level for the period of recovery. Retail prices in September were also about the same as in May. Important rises took place in the prices of silk, wool, steel scrap, lead, copper, zinc and hides."

The board declares that preliminary reports of hourly earnings in 25 manufacturing industries indicate there has been no decline in wage rates since last May.

CapitalChange by Fairbanks, Morse Sought

Fairbanks, Morse & Co., century old machinery maker, yesterday submitted to stockholders a plan of recapitalization designed to wipe out preferred dividend arrears and place common share holders in a position to participate in profits of the company at an earlier date than is possible under present circumstances.

R. H. MORSE.

A special meeting of stockholders will be held Nov. 20 to vote on the plan and the amendments necessary to carry it out. Approval of two-thirds of each class of shareholders is necessary for adoption, although directors reserve the right not to place the program in operation if the favorable majority should not be regarded large enough. No opposition is expected, it was said.

Dividend Rate Cut.

As outlined by President Robert H. Morse in a letter to stockholders, the plan provides that each share of 7 per cent preferred stock be exchanged for one new 6 per cent convertible share, one common share, and $2 in cash.

Common stockholders will retain the same number of shares they now have, being affected only indirectly by the dilution of their interest in the company and the removal of back preferred dividends as an obstacle to resumption of dividends for themselves.

Cash and common stock to be issued to preferred shareholders is to be in payment of dividend arrears, which will aggregate $1,608,547 or $25 a share on the 65,657½ shares outstanding as of next Dec. 1.

Common Selling at $25.

It was pointed out that common stock is quoted currently at $25 a share, making it possible for preferred stockholders to obtain cash on their dividend arrears by selling the common to be issued if they do not wish the additional interest offered them in the company.

New preferred stock also can be converted into common stock if this should appear advantageous as the company prospers—a privilege not now available on preference shares. According to the plan, each new preferred share may be exchanged for 3 common shares to Feb. 28, 1937, for 2½ common shares to Feb. 28, 1939, and for 2 shares to Feb. 28, 1941.

So far as the common stockholder is concerned, it was pointed out that the dilution of common will not be particularly great, in that only 65,657½ new shares will be issued.

Preferred Requirements Cut.

Further, said Morse, preferred dividend requirements will be cut $65,657 annually, to the benefit of the common stockholder. Erasing the preferred dividend arrears will enhance common dividend prospects.

The company contemplates paying first dividends on the new preferred on March 1, for the quarter beginning this Dec. 1.

Improvement in the company's business is described as "substantial" and "satisfactory in practically all lines." Diesel motor sales have shown the greatest advances and railroad lines the least.

Union Carbide 3d Quarter Profits Increase Sharply

Net income of Union Carbide and Carbon corporation for the three months ended Sept. 30, was $6,154,725, equal to 68 cents a share. In the second quarter net income equaled 59 cents a share.

MOTORS LEAD BROAD UPTURN IN STOCK PRICES

Turnover Heaviest Since July, 1934.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 21.—Invigorated by week-end developments in industry and politics the stock market moved into new high ground today in the busiest session of the year. Led by the motors and accessories, the market pushed ahead on nearly all fronts with the closing table showing gains ranging from major fractions to over 3 points.

Numerous stocks reached the highest levels in four years and 118 stocks established new highs for this year.

An accumulation of orders sent brokers scurrying about the floor with the opening gong as large blocks of stocks changed hands at higher prices. Volume for the first hour—800,000 shares—was the largest since May 28, when 840,000 shares were turned over. That was the day following the Supreme court's decision scuttling the NRA—the date selected by market observers as the real beginning of recovery.

Many Large Blocks Traded.

The largest block to come out was 15,000 shares of Packard at 6⅝, but the most money was involved in another large share bunch, that of General Motors. A 10,000 share lot sold at 50½, a new high record price. Packard was the most active stock on the board, rising to a new high of 7¼.

Chrysler was another motor to turn in a sterling performance, advancing 3⅝ points on a large volume to a new high of 87¼. Nash and Hupp moved along with the group, the former scoring a gain of 2 points and the latter gaining a major fraction.

The pace slowed down after the hectic first hour when the tape lagged as much as two minutes behind actual quotations, but prices held well against what profit taking developed. The day's volume amounted to 2,873,500 shares—the busiest day since July 26, 1934.

Political News Better.

Main impetus for today's buying spree was attributed to the better brand of political news received from European sources, particular attention being paid to the easing of tension between Italy and England. The interview given by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau was also set down as a bullish factor.

On the domestic side, business news was stimulating. The automotive industry is expected to show further improvement in earnings and this coupled with reports of favorable business in other fields contributed to the flow of bullish sentiment.

There were also reports of heavy buying of American securities with capital fleeing from Europe.

Despite another rise in the operating rate of the steel industry, shares

RELATIVE

Many investors know one type of investment well—railroad bonds, for example, the stocks of a particular industry, real estate mortgages, municipals. But the best item in any of these fields may be good in one period, poor in another. Investment values are all relative. There is no sound permanent investment.

That is why vigilance and a thorough understanding of complex financial, economic, political, and industrial factors are essential to investment success today. Let our trained staff, alert to shifting conditions, initiate suggestions for your investment welfare.

MOTORS LEAD SHARP RISE IN STOCK PRICES

Turnover Is Heaviest in More than Year.

of steel companies, while steady, moved in a narrow range. United States Steel gained a fraction while Bethlehem moved downward slightly.

Motor accessories shares were buoyant, many of them making new highs Briggs gained 2⅜ points, Briggs and Stratton 1¼, Autolite moved up 2⅝ and Timkin Roller Bearing gained 1¼ points.

Oil Shares Buoyant.

Oil shares had their best day in a long time. Standard of California moved up over a point, as did Standard of New Jersey.

The carrier section of the list was mixed. Pennsylvania, Atchison, and Delaware and Hudson gained fractions. Union Pacific was the outstanding weak spot, dropping 8 points at one time.

Utilities drew little attention, while the coppers were inclined to sag.

A long list of industrials were prominent in the advance with American Can being a feature, as it climbed 3¼ points to 146⅞ for a new high. General Electric, Eastman Kodak, and Industrial Rayon were other strong spots.

Western Union was strong, rising 1¾ points to a new high. Farm implement shares were strong with Deere showing the way with an advance of almost 2 points.

Curb Market Strong.

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A vigorous demand for alcohols, oils and specialties was the feature of the curb market today. Trading was brisk in these and other groups, transfers expanding to approximately 431,000 shares, compared with 290,000 last Friday.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass rose 2¾ points to 92¾, while gainers of around a point included Sherwin-Williams at 120½, Newmont Mining at 59¼, Lake Shore at 46½, Humble Oil at 56¾, Hiram Walker at 28⅞, and Gulf Oil at 63½.

Markets Strong Abroad.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Traders started the stock exchange today with a burst of buying, encouraged by week-end international developments, and prices advanced. British government stocks moved up one point, while trans-Atlantic issues were strong features. Light profit taking reduced the gains in some cases, but the market closed firm.

At Paris prices advanced on the bourse due to the result of yesterday's election, which traders found reassuring. Suez shares were strong and rentes, industrial and international issues also advanced.

The Berlin boerse opened with greater activity today.

STOCKS ADVANCE HERE

Shares on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday moved higher as trading expanded. A total of 36 new highs for 1935 was recorded. Fifty-three advanced, 29 declined, and 33 were unchanged. Specialty shares showed the most activity. E. L. Bruce, on a turnover of 2,650 shares, showed a gain of 3½ points, the largest advance for the day.

Chicago corporation and Swift were the most active shares on the list, although both declined. Continental Steel, Chicago Towel preferred, National Gypsum, and Reliance Manufacturing climbed to new highs for the year.

Public utilities continued strong, shares of Public Service moving higher and Commonwealth Edison remained unchanged at 88.

OCTOBER LARD PRICES RISE SHARPLY AS SHORTS COVER

There was no pressure on October lard early and prices advanced 20 cents over Saturday's finish at the extreme. This was due largely to short covering. Profit taking brought about a reaction from the top, but the close was 12½ cents higher. Distant deliveries were bought moderately by commission houses with the finish at gains of 2½ to 7½ cents. Aggregate trade was only fair. Cash lard closed at $14.45; loose, $14.40; leaf, $14.50, and bellies at $18.50 per 100 pounds. According to a department of commerce report imports of American lard into Cuba during the first year of the new trade treaty aggregated 32,000,000 pounds against 16,868,000 pounds the previous year. British import quota on imports of bacon and hams during the last quarter of the current year has been fixed at 17 per cent below that of the same quarter in 1934. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

PRICES OF COTTON FUTURES ARE 4 TO 16 POINTS LOWER

Increased hedging pressure developed in cotton yesterday and while American and foreign mills were credited with buying on scale orders every point down the finish was at net losses of 4 to 12 points in Chicago and 4 to 16 points in other markets. According to a report to Thomson & McKinnon the trade anticipates the peak of the movement of the new crop may be witnessed next week. Picking and ginning is said to be progressing rapidly. Demand for textiles was reported as fairly active. Spot cotton closed 5 points lower with New Orleans 11.00 cents Houston 10.95 cents, Galveston 11.05 cents, and New York 11.15 cents per pound. PACKERS EXPECT BETTERMENT IN MEAT SITUATION

Fear Heavy Taxes Due to New Deal Spending.

A gradual improvement in both quantity and quality of live stock, with meat prices little changed or slightly lower, was forecast in half a dozen addresses yesterday before the opening sessions of the annual convention of the Institute of American Meat Packers at the Drake hotel.

F. A. HUNTER.

Frank A. Hunter, chairman of the board of directors of the institute, opened the convention, however, with a warning against packer optimism over the outlook for profits in the industry. He also "shivered" at the prospect of future taxes to pay the bills of the New Deal's spending.

"Any profit shown has resulted largely from inventory enhancement rather than operating profit," said Hunter, "and it seems to me now, more than at any previous time, that we must turn our attention to operating rather than speculative profit.

Federal Policies Boost Costs.

"We have not yet fully reckoned with the increased labor and supply costs brought on by the NRA. We haven't seen much yet in the tax increases to cover government deficits directly contracted and can only shiver in contemplation of what is to come. We also have before us pay roll assessments to cover old age and unemployment insurance.

"Production control followed by the drouth has brought us to the present level of prices, and with correction of these causes under way it seems improbable that we shall see higher prices. If this proves true, we shall have to look to the daily grind to bring us a profit in 1936."

W. S. Nicholson, vice president of Wilson & Co., predicted that the number of hogs dressed in the next year will not differ much from that of the last 12 months, but that the industry can look for a 25 to 30 per cent increase in the marketing year beginning October, 1936.

Foresees Less Pork Consumed.

Consumption of pork for 1935 will be about 25 per cent less than last year, Nicholson added, the per capita consumption being the smallest on record except for 1917 during the war campaign to conserve meat for shipment to soldiers abroad. Pork stocks are 50 per cent less than the five year average. He said 2¼ billion dollars, including government hog benefits, will be paid for meat animals in the current crop year.

William Diesing, vice president of the Cudahy Packing company, said more grain fed cattle and lambs are likely because of the shortage of hogs, although the supply will not be greatly changed in the coming months.

NEW CROP HOGS BOOST RECEIPTS; PRICES DECLINE

The heavier fall movement of new crop hogs from territory adjacent to the Chicago market swelled the run here to 19,000 head yesterday, the biggest receipts for a single day since Feb. 11. This total compared with 14,518 for the preceding Monday and with an average of 10,600 for the last six Mondays.

The market was mostly steady to 15 cents lower, the top at $12.80, including the processing tax, showing 15 cents decline, while the average for the session at $12.15 was off 10 cents.

A two way market met yesterday's large run of cattle. A limited number of good to choice steers brought steady to 15 cents higher prices, but the bulk was evenly lower.

Demand for lambs was better yesterday and prices advanced 10 to 25 cents.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per cwt collected for the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are for 100 lbs of live animal.

TWO U. S. STEEL UNITS COMBINE PURCHASING UNDER FRANK J. RIEF

F. J. RIEF.

Frank J. Rief, purchasing agent for the Chicago district of the newly formed Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, has also been appointed general purchasing agent for the Universal Atlas Cement company, another subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, effective Nov. 1, Universal Atlas announced yesterday.

It was explained that consolidation of the Universal Atlas purchasing department with that of other subsidiaries is in line with the steel corporation's policy of unifying its activities. The merger of Carnegie and Illinois Steel was the most important step taken by the steel corporation in its endeavors to cut down expenses and increase efficiency.

Rief will succeed W. H. Dutcher, purchasing agent, who has been with the cement company for more than thirty years. Rief has been connected with the steel corporation for 23 years.

MARGIN TRADING IN GRAIN IS HELD VOID IN DAKOTA

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 21.—(AP)—All transactions in grain or other commodities made with the understanding that at any appointed time the account is to be adjusted by paying the difference between contract and current price constitute gambling transactions and are void, the state Supreme court ruled today.

The court handed down its ruling in the appeal of the Becher-Barret-Lockerby company, a grain commission firm of Duluth, Minn., which had brought an action to recover against Julius Sjothun and A. R. Carlson. The action was dismissed against Carlson in Sargent county district court.

Sjothun, through Earl Robinson, manager of the Rutland Farmers Co-operative Elevator company, first bought wheat on marginal account with the Duluth firm Aug. 19, 1929, according to the court record. Subsequent transactions were entered into, ordering purchase and sale of wheat on margin which resulted in a loss of cash margins totaling $448 and a book indebtedness to the elevator company of $383, the court's records showed.

Later the elevator account of Sjothun was assigned to the Duluth firm, which attempted to collect, but failed under a decision of the Sargent county district court, which was upheld by the Supreme court.

Sec. Morgenthau Finds Europe Is Bullish on U. S.

New York, Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, returned from Europe today with the word that foreign economists now regard conditions in this country as bullish. He pointed to the continuous flow of gold and other funds to the United States as clear evidence of confidence abroad in banking and industry here.

FOREIGN TRADE OF U. S. LARGER THAN YEAR AGO

Imports Show Bigger Rise than Exports.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—Foreign trade in September increased over the same month a year ago, the commerce department said today in its monthly summary of foreign trade. Exports increased 4 per cent in value and imports 23 per cent. Compared with August, exports gained 15 per cent, which is about the normal seasonal increase, while imports fell 4 per cent, or more than the usual seasonal decline.

Exports, which include reëxports, were valued at $198,189,000 in September, compared with $172,194,000 in August and $191,313,000 a year ago. Imports for consumption, which include withdrawals for consumption from bonded warehouses, were $168,689,000 in September, $180,444,000 in August, and $149,893,000 in September, 1934.

General Imports Lower.

General imports, including goods entered for storage in bonded warehouses, were $161,653,000, compared with $169,030,000 in August and $131,658,000 a year ago.

"As is customary at this time of the year," the survey said, "the principal change in export trade resulted from the seasonal movement of agricultural commodities. Exports of agricultural products increased from $42,723,000 in August to $76,523,000 in September. At the same time, because of the exhaustion of the Cuban sugar quota in August, agricultural imports declined from $103,418,000 in August to $84,000,000 in September. The change in non-agricultural imports was slight, while non-agricultural exports decreased from $127,039,000 to $119,114,000.

Sugar Imports Drop.

"In the import field the sharpest drop came in the imports of sugar, which decreased from 1,144,695,000 pounds, valued at $26,203,000, in August to 262,445,000 pounds, valued at $6,734,000, in September. Declines also occurred, although relatively much smaller than those for sugar, in the imports of grains and preparations, crude rubber, hides and skins and furs and fur manufactures.

"Imports of copper increased from 21,136,000 pounds, valued at $1,419,000, in August to 44,477,000 pounds, valued at $3,100,000 in September."

UNIVERSAL OIL PATENTS UPHELD BY HIGH COURT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—[Special.]—The United States Supreme court today refused to review the lower court rulings that the Root Refining Company of Delaware had infringed oil cracking patents owned by the Universal Oil Products company of Chicago.

The Root petition contended a monopoly of oil patents was involved because Universal was owned by major oil company and that $40,000,000 in royalities by independent gasoline producers was involved. Universal denied monopoly and said that all its patents are for license to any refiner.

The Supreme court granted C. S. Tuttle and other first mortgage bondholders of the Granada Hotel corporation of Chicago a further opportunity to prevent federal court bankruptcy action against an apartment building which Illinois state courts awarded them.

ONLY ONE AIR LINE ENTERS BID FOR FLYING MAIL ACROSS PACIFIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—Pan-American Airways company today entered the only bid for flying mail across the Pacific ocean from the United States to China.

The company, whose huge clipper planes have been feeling their way to the orient by long trial flights, offered to carry mail from San Francisco to Hong Kong, China, via Honolulu and Manila, for $2 per statute mile for an 800 pound load.

When bids were opened in Postmaster General James A. Farley's sumptuous office today only one offer had been made, although other air line companies have been flirting with the idea of competing with Pan-American for the trans-Pacific route. Postoffice department officials said they believed that small, unequipped bidders were kept out by the demand that a $200,000 performance bond accompany the bids.

There is little doubt that Pan-American will be awarded the contract, according to officials. The department is anxious to launch the mail service to the orient and believes that Pan-American, which has been blazing the trail, is the only company equipped to render the service. The contract, if awarded, will run for ten years.

The Pan-American bid was as high as was permitted by the law authorizing the new air mail route.

WHEAT ERRATIC IN QUIET TRADE; RAINS AID CROP

Future Deliveries Show Divergent Trends.

Wheat prices fluctuated within a narrow range on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. Changes were erratic at times, but the volume of trading was light. December and May wheat closed fractionally higher. July wheat, a new crop delivery, sagged ¾ cent as beneficial rains were received over a wide area of the southwestern winter wheat belt. Corn moved slightly higher, oats were mixed, and rye gained small fractions.

Domestic crop news was somewhat bullish, but war news, the dominant factor at present, offered little inducement for aggressive operations in either direction. The Liverpool market moved nearly a cent lower, which had an adverse effect here. Winnipeg was unchanged to a quarter cent higher at the finish, buoyed to some extent by reports that export business over the week-end amounted to a half million bushels.

Prices for December Futures.

Closing prices of principal December futures in Chicago follow:

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$1.01¼	$1.01	$1.02⅛
Corn	.59⅝	.59½	.60⅜
Oats	.27⅛	.27⅜	.28¼
Rye	.50½	.49⅞	.53½

Commercial visible supplies of wheat decreased 793,000 bushels last week, the first decline since July 1, when wheat started to move to market in volume. Announcement of the cut gave the market a temporary fillip, as it had not been expected.

Trade in corn was moderate, but prices held above Saturday's closing levels most of the session. Strength resulted more from lack of selling pressure than concentrated buying power. Rains were received in parts of the belt, which were believed to have retarded field operations. Prices ran into the low offers at one time, which brought out some profit taking, and a fractional setback resulted.

Corn for Delivery Lacking.

There is now no corn available for delivery in Chicago public elevators which are declared regular by the Board of Trade. All of the 23,000 bushels in public houses are in special bins and cannot be delivered. This is the first time such a condition has existed locally in many years. The nation's present visible supply amounts to 2,057,000 bushels, an extremely small amount, although many times in the past stocks have fallen below this figure. The all-time low was set Nov. 1, 1925, at 809,000 bushels.

Broomhall reported southern hemisphere prospects have improved. The combined exportable surplus of wheat for 1936 is now estimated at 168 million bushels, a sharp increase over previous estimates, but still 100 million bushels below normal.

GRAIN STATISTICS

MAYOR TO LEAD IN DEDICATION OF MODEL HOME

First of Group Being Built in Chicago Area.

BY AL CHASE.

Mayor Kelly, assisted by other well known Chicagoans, will dedicate the first of seven "New American" homes in the Chicago area, built by various local concerns under the sponsorship of the General Electric company, next Thursday at a luncheon at 6100 North Knox avenue.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Federal Housing administration, the Chicago Association of Better Housing Committees of the FHA, and R. Cooper Jr., Inc., General Electric distributors.

Will Be Shown to Public.

On Sunday, Oct. 27, seven homes will be opened officially for public inspection for a thirty day period. These are the first group of more than fifty contemplated for the Chicago area as a part of the General Electric company's national modern home demonstration program.

None of the homes is being erected by the General Electric company, but all will be equipped with its electrical products. They are being built from prize winning plans in a recent national architectural home competition.

In addition to the mayor, other guests and speakers at Thursday's opening of the house in the Sauganash district will be Miss Harriet Vittum, head resident of Northwestern university settlement, and C. I. McReynolds, acting regional director for the FHA.

Tribune Expert to Participate.

The luncheon, to be completely cooked by electricity, will be prepared by Mrs. Mary Meade of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and cooking experts from other newspapers, in coöperation with Adelaide Fellows of R. Cooper Jr., Inc.

The other six houses to be opened officially next Sunday are at 9206 Irving avenue, in the Beverly Hills district; at 447 Greenfield street, Oak Park; three homes at President and Ohio streets, Wheaton, and at Brookbank and Maple avenue, Downers Grove.

The Sauganash residence was designed by Elmer William Marx and was built by R. W. Jacobs.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Salesmen.

We Don't Believe in Bunk!

Most men are tired of high pressure statements and superlative claims.

They want facts—undecorated and unbiased. The questions we believe you want answered are: What will I be asked to do and how much can I reasonably be expected to make?

All right, here are the facts: Our men aren't making $200 a week. But they are actually averaging $40 to $50 percentages weekly—CASH. Yes, some do make more, but we are talking about the average fellow, 22 to 45 years of age and driving a car. And certainly you won't admit that you are below average. Fair enough. Then that means that you, too, should make AT ONCE $40 to $50 a week. Proof? Here are examples from last week:
W. Hague, $40.28. F. A. Gabel, $43.13. J. Easton, $41.37. H. Bayley, $50.62. L. H. Whiting, $50.21. H. Bone, $44.73.

What are we selling? The finest household appliance on the market, we believe. A device known in every home—the Hoover—now reduced to $49.75 and sold as low as 10c per day. New National advertising campaign now on [see ad this issue]. Enormous new market opened up—and we can prove it. Leads pouring in. Also, our men share in all business originating in each territory through such stores as Mandel Bros., Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., The Fair, 5 Wieboldt Stores, Lord's, etc.

MAKE CASH NOW—WE'LL SHOW YOU HOW!

Apply 9-12, or phone Sup. 7971.

MEN

TRUTH, NOT FICTION
FACT, NOT THEORY.

The writer was raised on a farm, was out of work, answered an ad and seriously was trying to find work where an honest living could be made.

Gratefully I tell you that it was the best move I ever made. I made a living, saved a little money, and really learned the profession which has made living conditions better for my loved ones each and every year.

I have helped others get started and if you are sincerely looking for a real job where you can make an honest living with opportunity for advancement, see me. Our product is an elec. unit. The compensation is on a very liberal dealer's percentage plan where you receive extra pay for extra hours.

SEE ME TUESDAY, 10 A. M. OR 1 P. M.
